Marshall Asks Approval Of Building Program

Tax Boost Bill Drive Is Started

Would Push Measure Through House Soon; Carries 12½ Per Cent Individual Levy

Passage Forecast

Republicans Expect Win for Administration in Chamber

Washington, June 20 (AP)—The administration opened a drive today to push a record-breaking $7,200,000,000 tax increase through the House by tomorrow night or Friday.

The bill, carrying a 12½ per cent increase in individual income taxes together with sharp hikes in corporate rates and excise taxes, will be considered under procedure which bars amendments unless they are offered by the Ways and Means Committee. The two days of general debate must end by 3 p. m. (E.S.T.) on the second day.

The income tax boost would take effect Sept. 1; the corporation tax increase would be retroactive to last Jan. 1; and the new excise levies would become effective a few weeks after the bill became law.

Before the bill could be called up in the House, however, two-thirds of the members present must sanction waiving of the rule which sets aside today as "calendar Wednesday." On such specified occasions, committee chairmen are privileged to call up legislation pending on the House docket. Chairman Rankin (D-Miss.) of the Veterans Committee had 10 bills he wished to be considered.

Support Predicted

Administration leaders said before the start of today's session they believed a two-thirds majority would support immediate consideration of the tax measure. They were equally confident the bill would pass the House. Republicans also conceded this is probable.

Although the proposed increase was officially described by the Ways and Means Committee which drafted it as the largest ever sought in a single tax bill, it was less than half the $16,500,000,000 President Truman called for last January. He later lowered his sights—at least temporarily—to a $10,000,000,000 increase.

This is the third tax increase to come before Congress since the outbreak of the Korean War a year ago. Total additional revenue from all three, over a full year's operation, was estimated at more than $17,000,000,000. By the three steps, the load on individuals would be increased by 31.4 per cent over the revenue expectable from pre-Korea rates. Corporation taxes would go up a total of 57.9 per cent over that base, and excise taxes by 15.6 per cent.

The 12½ per cent "defense tax" would be superimposed on income taxes figured at present rates. Another provision would allow the government to take no more than 90 per cent of a wealthy individual's income. The present ceiling is 87 per cent.

The bill, however, carries some relief for some taxpayers. "Single" heads of families, such as widows with dependent children, would be allowed one-half of the income tax benefits available to married persons as a result of the income splitting provision of the present law. Home owners who sold their dwellings would not have to pay a capital gains tax on any profit if they reinvested it in another personal residence within a year.

Corporations would be called upon for an additional $2,855,000,000 in taxes. The rates would rise five percentage points, and a greater proportion of some companies' income would become subject to the excess profits tax. The ceiling on the amount the government could take in normal taxes, surtaxes and excess profits taxes would be raised from 62 to 70 per cent of the corporation's income.

Nearly everyone would feel some effects from the proposed excise tax increases. These would send the tax on gasoline up from 1½ to two cents a gallon, on cigarettes from seven to eight cents a pack, on whiskey from $9 to $10.50 a gallon, on beer from $8 to $9 a barrel, and on automobiles from seven to 10 per cent of the manufacturers' price, to name only some.

Funerals Cost More

Columbus, O., June 20 (AP)—Ohio funeral directors holding their annual convention here report the average cost of a U. S. funeral now is $513—more than $100 greater than it was 10 years ago.

Found Dead

Marine Sgt. Robert James Sheldon (above), 22, of Hopkinton, N. Y., was found shot to death in the U.S. Embassy at Havana, Cuba, June 18. Dr. Jose Padron, chief of Havana police crime laboratory, said "facts indicate the sergeant shot a night watchman, Augustin Fernandez, 67, then killed himself." (U.S. Marine Photo via AP Wirephoto).

Warning to Young: Stay Off Moving Trains, Stay Whole

Children of City Are Told to Stop Hopping Cars. Going on Rail Property

Sgt. Everett W. Schoonmaker of the New York Central Railroad police made an appeal today to children of the city to cease hopping trains and trespassing on railroad property.

The sergeant also urged local parents to co-operate in keeping the youngsters out of danger and from unlawfully entering and damaging railroad property.

"Children, generally seven and eight years old and some from 10 to 12, have been jumping on or attempting to jump on moving cars, particularly in the Rondout section of the city, and some have been trespassing on railroad property," he said.

"This has become a dangerous situation not only in Rondout, but up in the railroad yard, and as much as I dislike to act, I realize that something has to be done."

The sergeant said he was "soliciting the co-operation of parents," to prevent these "dangerous practices," and was forced to start a campaign to bring them to a stop.

Police Cooperate

Kingston police have been cooperating, he said, but it is impossible to watch all of the youngsters in all areas at all times. He has talked to many children, he said, and stressed the danger of the loss of limbs in their attempts to unlawfully ride the cars.

Some children make the attempts on trains moving slowly near the West Shore station, but the practice has been more prevalent in Rondout during switching operations.

Efforts have been made to get results through school programs, he said, but much more than this appears to be needed now.

Defense Secretary Says Tension Is Such Action Needed

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall asked Congress today to approve as quickly as possible a vast $6,561,262,000 military building program he said is "dictated by the current international tension."

The Defense Department said that "in the near future" it will ask Congress to appropriate $4,500,000,000 to start the program and rush it along to toward completion hoped for within two years. The money will be sought for the fiscal year which starts July 1.

Marshall outlined the program in letters to House Speaker Rayburn and to Senator Russell (D.-Ga.) and Rep. Vinson (D.-Ga.), chairmen of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees. Vinson said his group will start hearings on Monday.

Marshall expressed hope Congress will authorize the program "as expeditously as possible." He said the projects included are "urgently needed * * * under the expanding military program."

Projects Classified

More than $1,587,000,000 worth of the projects have been classified "secret." Of this $1,071,000,000 is for the air force alone.

Of the total Marshall asked Congress to authorize the air force would be allotted $3,584,480,000—more than the army and navy combined earmarked for the army is $1,831,028,000; for the navy, $1,145,753,000.

The largest single item is $74,093,000 which the air force proposes to spend on Olmstead Base in Pennsylvania. In addition to secret projects, the department announced proposed expenditure of $15,156,000 at the White Sands Guided Missles Proving Ground in New Mexico.

Overseas bases in Alaska, Guam, Okinawa, Japan and the Philippines would be built up.

The Defense Department said the huge building program is based on needs of an armed force of 3,500,000 persons, the present goal.

The program includes projects for all the states except four—Connecticut, Iowa, North Dakota and West Virginia.

State Projects Cited

Washington, June 20 (AP)—The Defense Department today asked Congress for $6,561,262,387 for construction at Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine installations in the United States and overseas.

The total includes $4,222,374,907 for projects in the continental United States.

The proposed construction in the United States includes these projects in various states:

New York—$46,069,800 including:

Army — Fort Jay, $867,000; Malta Test Station, $160,000; Pine Camp, $693,500; Schenectady General Depot, $3,387,400; Seneca Ordnance Depot, $1,093,600; Signal Corps Photographic Center, $3,077,000; United States Military Academy, $3,158,000; Watervliet Arsenal, $275,500.

Navy—Naval shipyard, Brooklyn, $5,695,800; Mas. Niagara Falls, $2,750,000.

Air Force—Mitchell AFB, $1,191,000; Niagara Falls airport, $2,451,000; Suffolk county airport, $1,982,000; Sampson AFB, $9,095,000; Griffis AFB, $8,693,000; Cornell University, $1,500,000.

Girls Are Arriving

Fair Isle, The Orkneys, June 20 (AP)—After 22 years of nothing but boy babies in Fair Isle (pop. 127), the girls have started to arrive. Mrs. Douglas Stout gave birth to the girl yesterday. This broke a run of 15 boys on the island, including two for Mrs. Stout.

18½-Draft Is Law

President Truman signs the new law which lowers the draft age to 18½ and allows the induction of 385,000 registrants 19 through 25 who are now deferred. Witnessing the signing are Defense Secretary George C. Marshall and Assistant Secretary Anna Rosenberg. (NEA Telephoto)

Hurley Says Agency Gave Up Principles

Ex-Ambassador Says State Department Has Policy of Appeasement—General Declares Truman Silenced Some

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, former ambassador to China, today accused the State Department of surrendering the principles for which World War 2 was fought.

Hurley also called for an end to what he called a "policy of appeasement." He was testifying before Senaate committees investigating the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

When Hurley took the witness chair, the committee made public a letter from MacArthur contending that President Truman's orders "silencing pertinent witnesses" had denied the inquiry group the "full facts" about his recall from his Pacific commands.

In the letter, MacArthur declined an invitation to return for further testimony before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committee.

MacArthur's reference obviously was to Mr. Truman's stand that Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Secretary of State Acheson should not testify about what was said by individuals at White House conferences on dismissing MacArthur.

MacArthur blasted, too, at some of the documentary evidence submitted in the inquiry. He said things had been lifted out of context so they were "misleading" and that there was "lack of accuracy" in some paraphrasing of documents. Paraphrased documents are rewritten versions, presented that way because release of the actual texts might aid an enemy in breaking down codes.

Became 11th Witness

Hurley, a Republican, was the eleventh witness at the inquiry.

He is a former secretary of war who served as ambassador to China from November 30, 1944, to November 27, 1945.

At the outset, Hurley hit out at the State Department and what he called "the injustices" done to him by Secretary of State Acheson in testimony before the senators.

Saying that he was "more than willing to testify" on all subjects with which he was familiar, Hurley read from a statement in which he said:

"My primary purpose is to show what were the underlying principles of American foreign policy at the beginning of World War 2 and then to show where, when and how our State Department surrendered them and embarked our nation on an entirely different policy.

Responsible for Confusion

"This surrender of the principles and objectives for which we said we were fighting and the support of principles completely opposite to them is responsible for the confusion and for the costly failures in American relations."

Hurley went on to say "we should quit supporting ideologies

Shippers, Seamen Called to Meeting

Line's Decision to Sail Seen as Optimism for Settlement

New York, June 20 (AP)—Shippers and CIO seamen were summoned to the same negotiation table today for the first time in the five-day old tieup of Atlantic and gulf coast ports.

Federal mediators scheduled the meeting last night after shipping operators offered "some concessions" in their wage-hour dispute with three unions.

Clyde M. Mills, assistant director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said representatives of the CIO National Maritime Union had agreed to join the talks.

There was hope in some quarters the meeting would pave the way for an early end to the stoppage that has affected almost all American-flag shipping from Maine to Texas.

Constitution May Sail

One sign of optimism was the American Export Lines' decision to go ahead with plans for its big new liner, the Constitution, to start its maiden voyage tomorrow. The 30,000-ton vessel carries 950 passengers.

West coast shipping remained snarled by the strike of 700 CIO radio operators. Maritime law forbids ships to sail without the radiomen.

The operators and Pacific Maritime Association representatives conferred throughout the night without success. About 20 ships have been tied up in west coast ports.

An estimated 137 ships, including more than 100 on the Atlantic and gulf coasts, were reported tied up in the three-coast stoppage.

Reds Lose 10 Aircraft In Northwest Battle

North Koreans Quit Punchbowl Valley; No Report on UN Losses

Tokyo, June 20 (AP)—Ten Red planes were shot down or damaged today in the Korean war's first double-deck dog-fight.

Both jet and propeller driven planes—98 of them—took part in the fourth consecutive day of air war over northwest Korea.

On the ground North Koreans suddenly abandoned Punchbowl Valley, which they had fought for so viciously. United Nations guns now dominate the former Red buildup area on the eastern front.

Sharp battles flared Wednesday on both sides of the valley—one near Kansong on the east coast and the other in mountains north of Yanggu.

The double air battle broke out simultantously between low flying propeller planes and jets swirling above at 13,000 feet.

When it was over the Reds had lost three planes destroyed, one probably destroyed and six damaged.

Flight Overpowered

Twenty-four UN Mustang fighters overpowered a flight of six Russian-built propeller planes. All the Reds were hit. A Yank fighter and two Stormovik attack-bombers were shot down. Another Stormovik was probably destroyed and two were damaged.

Thirty-two American Sabre jets battled 36 Russian-type MIG-15 jets in the top level of the battle. The jet fight began at 13,000 feet and swept down to 6,000.

Four Red-nosed MIGs were damaged. All the MIGs then streaked back across the Manchurian border, 15 miles from where the action started. The Fifth Air Force said all Sabre jets returned safely.

(Field dispatches did not report whether any UN Mustangs were lost.)

The four days of air war cost the Reds 28 planes destroyed or damaged. The Fifth Air Force listed nine shot down, one probably knocked out and 18 damaged.

No UN Losses Cited

There have been no figures of UN losses if any in these air battles.

The Navy and Marine Corps have lost "approximately 300 aircraft" during the Korean war, which will be a year-old Monday, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy announced. The losses are not the result of air battles.

The Reds' stepped-up air action included a bombing and strafing raid Wednesday morning on a UN bivouac area in the Unijongbu sector north of Seoul. The new boldness of the Reds revived speculation that they are planning to unleash their air force, once estimated at 3,000 planes—possibly in support of a new offensive.

UN bombers pock-marked six North Korean air fields with explosives in Tuesday night raids.

Naval and marine planes alone have rained 70,000,000 pounds of high explosives on Communist targets in the past 12 months, Joy reported.

Morrison Orders British Mission To Return Home

Will Appeal to Hague Court—Mossadegh Orders Iranians To Take Power

London, June 20 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison today ordered the British mission to Tehran to return home.

Morrison told a crowded silent House of Commons Britain again would appeal to the International Court of Justice at The Hague for advice on what "provisional methods" it can adopt to protect its rich Iranian oil interests.

Morrison's announcement came after the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's negotiators in Tehran had asked that an airplane be sent to return them home. The negotiating team includes one government representative.

Not Abandoning Fields

The foreign secretary indicated that Britain is not abandoning the sprawling oil fields and the giant oil refinery of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company in southern Iran.

But he warned that Britons in Iran may have a difficult job keeping the installations operating.

"Riots, abuses, misrepresentations and the uncertainty of the future have made conditions difficult for them," he said. He added this warning:

"The British government are not prepared to stand by idly if the lives of British nationals are in jeopardy."

Morrison went on:

"It is the responsibility of the Persian government to see to it that law and order are maintained.

"If, however, that responsibility were not met it would equally be the right and duty of the British government to extend protection to their own nationals."

Britain's sea, land and air forces in the Middle East already are on the alert, a qualified government source said, in the event they are needed to protect some 7,000 Britons working in the Iranian oil fields.

Premier Gives Orders

Tehran, Iran, June 20 (AP) — Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today ordered his government officials to take "full authority" over the billion dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. He promised to keep oil flowing from company installations.

Mossadegh's orders were issued at the end of a five-hour cabinet meeting.

Deputy Premier Hussein Maki announced that Iran would not carry out threats of extreme Nationalists to "shut the valves" of AOIC's refinery at Abadan — the world's largest.

The cabinet had been summoned into emergency session. The ministers had before them an appeal from the United States to reconsider a British offer whose rejection brought to an end negotiations to resolve the oil crisis.

A vaguely worded communique indicated the Mossadegh government planned to try to take over the administration of the vast oil fields gradually. It announced that Iranian officials had been named to take over "Anglo-Iranian's northernmost oil fields at Kermanshah."

The cabinet meeting, whose length indicated that Iranian officials realized the enormity of the task before them, came after

Arrests Are Made in NY, Pittsburgh

Justice Department Says Four Still Sought; Calls Group 'Second Layer'

Move Comes Fast

Action Followed Court Decision by Only Two Weeks

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Twenty one members of the Communist party's secondary command were indicted today on charges of plotting violent overthrow of the United States government.

Action Comes Quickly

Washington, June 20 (AP)—The FBI today seized 17 more alleged Communist party leaders on charges of plotting overthrow of the United States government.

The arrests were carried out in New York city and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Attorney General McGrath and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said in a joint announcement that each of those rounded up now hold or have held official position in the Communist party.

The arrests follow by only two weeks the Supreme Court decision upholding the convictions of 11 top party leaders on charges of conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

That decision gave the Justice Department the go-ahead it had been awaiting for more than two years to proceed against lesser lights of the party.

Could Reach 12,000

Some officials have said the number of prosecutions could run as high as 12,000. However, most indications are that the government will not try to move on such a broad basis now.

Justice Department officials take the view that the group arrested today represents a "second layer" of party officialdom.

The McGrath-Hoover announcement said:

"Some of the individuals arrested are members of the alternate national committee recently formed by the Communist party to serve as the top policy making body in the absence of the present national committee members, now convicted."

Arrests Announced

These arrests were announced:

Israel Amter, 70, of 226 East 12th street, New York city, organizer of the "Friends of Soviet Russia in the United States." He is a native of Denver, Colo.

Marion Maxwell Abt Bachrach, 52, of 242 West 11th street, New York city, public relations director and secretary of the Defense Commission of the Communist party.

Miss Bachrach was described as a well-known writer for Communist publications. She is a native of Chicago.

Isidore Begun, 47, of 1406 Townsend avenue, the Bronx, New York, party writer and speaker, recently employed in the New York offices of the Civil Rights Congress. Begun, a former teacher in New York city public schools, was born in Russia and became a naturalized citizen in 1925.

Bittelman Is Held

Alexander Bittelman, 61, of Croton-on-Hudson, New York, described by the department as "one of the foremost theoreticians and dialecticians of the party." A native of Russia, still unnaturalized, he has served as a staff member of the Daily Worker, the Communist newspaper. Deportation proceedings against him are pending.

George Blake Charney, 46, of 130 West 16th street, New York city, trade union secretary of the New York State Communist Party. A native of Russia he claims American citizenship through the naturalization of his father when he was a child. He is a World War 2 army veteran.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, 60, of 224 East 12th street, New York city, member of the party's national committee and chairman of its women's commission. She was born at Concord, N. H.

Betty Gannett, 44, of 501 West 138th street, New York city, the party's national educational director. She is a Polish alien against

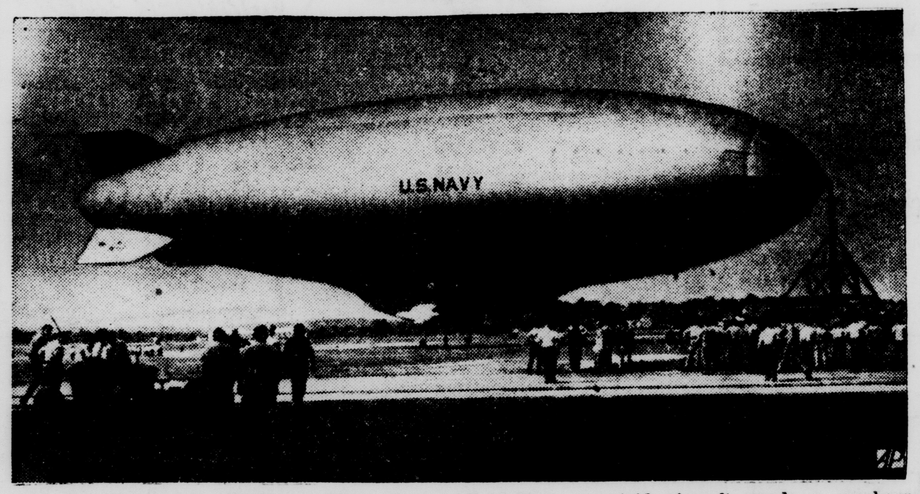
Three Men Killed

New York, June 20 (AP)—Three men were killed in two separate accidents today on the Long Island Railroad in Queens and Nassau counties. The accidents resulted in delays of a number of New York bound trains during the morning rush hour.

Aerial First



The U.S. Navy's new "ZPN" type blimp, the world's largest non-rigid aircraft, made a one-hour maiden test flight, June 19, at Akron, O. Built by Goodyear Aircraft Corp., it is 324 feet long and holds 875,000 cubic feet of helium. This compares with the 456,000 cubic feet of the "K" type which chased Nazi submarines during the last war.

Ulster County Savings Bank Observes 100th Anniversary

State, county and city bank representatives joined the Ulster County Savings Institution in the observance of its one hundredth anniversary on Tuesday evening at a dinner marking the occasion at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Pratt Boice, president of the local banking institution, welcomed the guests and also paid special tribute to Harold S. Brigham for his work in connection with the publication of a book commemorating the first century of the local bank. When called upon, Brigham acknowledged the training he received from Miss Mary E. Noone, who taught him English in Kingston Academy.

Roger H. Loughran, bank attorney, acted as toastmaster and introduced the guests.

Messages of congratulations and felicitations were brought from the two local building and loan associations by Samuel D. Scudder, Jr. and Deweese DeWitt and from other Kingston banks by Holt Winfield, Arthur A. Davis, William C. Kingman, James A. Dwyer, Robert Murray and Harold King.

Assemblyman John F. Wadlin and Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk brought greetings from the people of the state and the city respectively. Representatives of the banking institutions in the county outside the corporate limits of the City of Kingston also were in at-

More than $1,587,000,000 worth of the projects have been classified "secret." Of this $1,071,000,000 is for the air force alone.

Of the total Marshall asked Congress to authorize the air force would be allotted $3,584,480,000—more than the army and navy combined earmarked for the army is $1,831,028,000; for the navy, $1,145,753,000.

The largest single item is $74,093,000 which the air force proposes to spend on Olmstead Base in Pennsylvania. In addition to secret projects, the department announced proposed expenditure of $15,156,000 at the White Sands Guided Missles Proving Ground in New Mexico.

Overseas bases in Alaska, Guam, Okinawa, Japan and the Philippines would be built up.

The Defense Department said the huge building program is based on needs of an armed force of 3,500,000 persons, the present goal.

The program includes projects for all the states except four—Connecticut, Iowa, North Dakota and West Virginia.

State Projects Cited

Washington, June 20 (AP)—The Defense Department today asked Congress for $6,561,262,387 for construction at Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine installations in the United States and overseas.

The total includes $4,222,374,907 for projects in the continental United States.

The proposed construction in the United States includes these projects in various states:

Army — Fort Jay, $867,000; Malta Test Station, $160,000; Pine Camp, $693,500; Schenectady General Depot, $3,387,400; Seneca Ordnance Depot, $1,093,600; Signal Corps Photographic Center, $3,077,000; United States Military Academy, $3,158,000; Watervliet Arsenal, $275,500.

Navy—Naval shipyard, Brooklyn, $5,695,800; Mas. Niagara Falls, $2,750,000.

Air Force—Mitchell AFB, $1,191,000; Niagara Falls airport, $2,451,000; Suffolk county airport, $1,982,000; Sampson AFB, $9,095,000; Griffis AFB, $8,693,000; Cornell University, $1,500,000.

Fair Isle, The Orkneys, June 20 (AP)—After 22 years of nothing but boy babies in Fair Isle (pop. 127), the girls have started to arrive. Mrs. Douglas Stout gave birth to the girl yesterday. This broke a run of 15 boys on the island, including two for Mrs. Stout.

Hurley Says Agency Gave Up Principles

Ex-Ambassador Says State Department Has Policy of Appeasement—General Declares Truman Silenced Some

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley, former ambassador to China, today accused the State Department of surrendering the principles for which World War 2 was fought.

Hurley also called for an end to what he called a "policy of appeasement." He was testifying before Senaate committees investigating the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

When Hurley took the witness chair, the committee made public a letter from MacArthur contending that President Truman's orders "silencing pertinent witnesses" had denied the inquiry group the "full facts" about his recall from his Pacific commands.

In the letter, MacArthur declined an invitation to return for further testimony before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committee.

MacArthur's reference obviously was to Mr. Truman's stand that Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Secretary of State Acheson should not testify about what was said by individuals at White House conferences on dismissing MacArthur.

MacArthur blasted, too, at some of the documentary evidence submitted in the inquiry. He said things had been lifted out of context so they were "misleading" and that there was "lack of accuracy" in some paraphrasing of documents. Paraphrased documents are rewritten versions, presented that way because release of the actual texts might aid an enemy in breaking down codes.

Became 11th Witness

Hurley, a Republican, was the eleventh witness at the inquiry.

He is a former secretary of war who served as ambassador to China from November 30, 1944, to November 27, 1945.

At the outset, Hurley hit out at the State Department and what he called "the injustices" done to him by Secretary of State Acheson in testimony before the senators.

Saying that he was "more than willing to testify" on all subjects with which he was familiar, Hurley read from a statement in which he said:

"My primary purpose is to show what were the underlying principles of American foreign policy at the beginning of World War 2 and then to show where, when and how our State Department surrendered them and embarked our nation on an entirely different policy.

Responsible for Confusion

"This surrender of the principles and objectives for which we said we were fighting and the support of principles completely opposite to them is responsible for the confusion and for the costly failures in American relations."

Hurley went on to say "we should quit supporting ideologies

Shippers, Seamen Called to Meeting

Line's Decision to Sail Seen as Optimism for Settlement

New York, June 20 (AP)—Shippers and CIO seamen were summoned to the same negotiation table today for the first time in the five-day old tieup of Atlantic and gulf coast ports.

Federal mediators scheduled the meeting last night after shipping operators offered "some concessions" in their wage-hour dispute with three unions.

Clyde M. Mills, assistant director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, said representatives of the CIO National Maritime Union had agreed to join the talks.

There was hope in some quarters the meeting would pave the way for an early end to the stoppage that has affected almost all American-flag shipping from Maine to Texas.

Constitution May Sail

One sign of optimism was the American Export Lines' decision to go ahead with plans for its big new liner, the Constitution, to start its maiden voyage tomorrow. The 30,000-ton vessel carries 950 passengers.

West coast shipping remained snarled by the strike of 700 CIO radio operators. Maritime law forbids ships to sail without the radiomen.

The operators and Pacific Maritime Association representatives conferred throughout the night without success. About 20 ships have been tied up in west coast ports.

An estimated 137 ships, including more than 100 on the Atlantic and gulf coasts, were reported tied up in the three-coast stoppage.

Reds Lose 10 Aircraft In Northwest Battle

North Koreans Quit Punchbowl Valley; No Report on UN Losses

Tokyo, June 20 (AP)—Ten Red planes were shot down or damaged today in the Korean war's first double-deck dog-fight.

Both jet and propeller driven planes—98 of them—took part in the fourth consecutive day of air war over northwest Korea.

On the ground North Koreans suddenly abandoned Punchbowl Valley, which they had fought for so viciously. United Nations guns now dominate the former Red buildup area on the eastern front.

Sharp battles flared Wednesday on both sides of the valley—one near Kansong on the east coast and the other in mountains north of Yanggu.

The double air battle broke out simultantously between low flying propeller planes and jets swirling above at 13,000 feet.

When it was over the Reds had lost three planes destroyed, one probably destroyed and six damaged.

Flight Overpowered

Twenty-four UN Mustang fighters overpowered a flight of six Russian-built propeller planes. All the Reds were hit. A Yank fighter and two Stormovik attack-bombers were shot down. Another Stormovik was probably destroyed and two were damaged.

Thirty-two American Sabre jets battled 36 Russian-type MIG-15 jets in the top level of the battle. The jet fight began at 13,000 feet and swept down to 6,000.

Four Red-nosed MIGs were damaged. All the MIGs then streaked back across the Manchurian border, 15 miles from where the action started. The Fifth Air Force said all Sabre jets returned safely.

(Field dispatches did not report whether any UN Mustangs were lost.)

The four days of air war cost the Reds 28 planes destroyed or damaged. The Fifith Air Force listed nine shot down, one probably knocked out and 18 damaged.

No UN Losses Cited

There have been no figures of UN losses if any in these air battles.

The Navy and Marine Corps have lost "approximately 300 aircraft" during the Korean war, which will be a year-old Monday, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy announced. The losses are not the result of air battles.

The Reds' stepped-up air action included a bombing and strafing raid Wednesday morning on a UN bivouac area in the Unijongbu sector north of Seoul. The new boldness of the Reds revived speculation that they are planning to unleash their air force, once estimated at 3,000 planes—possibly in support of a new offensive.

UN bombers pock-marked six North Korean air fields with explosives in Tuesday night raids.

Naval and marine planes alone have rained 70,000,000 pounds of high explosives on Communist targets in the past 12 months, Joy reported.

Cites 'Gestapo' Action

New York, June 20 (AP) — A Hunter College professor, suspended on a charge of "sensational and unwholesome" teaching of sex hygiene, says he is the victim of an "academic gestapo." But the acting president of the Municipal College for Women, Mrs. Eleanor H. Grady, says a freshman hygiene class "isn't supposed to be taught with any emphasis on sex; we don't use language like Dr. (William J.) Fordrung did to 16-and-17-year-old girls."

Morrison Orders British Mission To Return Home

Will Appeal to Hague Court—Mossadegh Orders Iranians To Take Power

London, June 20 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison today ordered the British mission to Tehran to return home.

Morrison told a crowded silent House of Commons Britain again would appeal to the International Court of Justice at The Hague for advice on what "provisional methods" it can adopt to protect its rich Iranian oil interests.

Morrison's announcement came after the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's negotiators in Tehran had asked that an airplane be sent to return them home. The negotiating team includes one government representative.

Not Abandoning Fields

The foreign secretary indicated that Britain is not abandoning the sprawling oil fields and the giant oil refinery of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company in southern Iran.

But he warned that Britons in Iran may have a difficult job keeping the installations operating.

"Riots, abuses, misrepresentations and the uncertainty of the future have made conditions difficult for them," he said. He added this warning:

"The British government are not prepared to stand by idly if the lives of British nationals are in jeopardy."

Morrison went on:

"It is the responsibility of the Persian government to see to it that law and order are maintained.

"If, however, that responsibility were not met it would equally be the right and duty of the British government to extend protection to their own nationals."

Britain's sea, land and air forces in the Middle East already are on the alert, a qualified government source said, in the event they are needed to protect some 7,000 Britons working in the Iranian oil fields.

Premier Gives Orders

Tehran, Iran, June 20 (AP) — Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today ordered his government officials to take "full authority" over the billion dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. He promised to keep oil flowing from company installations.

Mossadegh's orders were issued at the end of a five-hour cabinet meeting.

Deputy Premier Hussein Maki announced that Iran would not carry out threats of extreme Nationalists to "shut the valves" of AOIC's refinery at Abadan — the world's largest.

The cabinet had been summoned into emergency session. The ministers had before them an appeal from the United States to reconsider a British offer whose rejection brought to an end negotiations to resolve the oil crisis.

A vaguely worded communique indicated the Mossadegh government planned to try to take over the administration of the vast oil fields gradually. It announced that Iranian officials had been named to take over "Anglo-Iranian's northernmost oil fields at Kermanshah."

The cabinet meeting, whose length indicated that Iranian officials realized the enormity of the task before them, came after

Move Comes Fast

Action Followed Court Decision by Only Two Weeks

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Twenty one members of the Communist party's secondary command were indicted today on charges of plotting violent overthrow of the United States government.

Action Comes Quickly

Washington, June 20 (AP)—The FBI today seized 17 more alleged Communist party leaders on charges of plotting overthrow of the United States government.

The arrests were carried out in New York city and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Attorney General McGrath and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said in a joint announcement that each of those rounded up now hold or have held official position in the Communist party.

The arrests follow by only two weeks the Supreme Court decision upholding the convictions of 11 top party leaders on charges of conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

That decision gave the Justice Department the go-ahead it had been awaiting for more than two years to proceed against lesser lights of the party.

Could Reach 12,000

Some officials have said the number of prosecutions could run as high as 12,000. However, most indications are that the government will not try to move on such a broad basis now.

Justice Department officials take the view that the group arrested today represents a "second layer" of party officialdom.

The McGrath-Hoover announcement said:

"Some of the individuals arrested are members of the alternate national committee recently formed by the Communist party to serve as the top policy making body in the absence of the present national committee members, now convicted."

Arrests Announced

These arrests were announced:

Israel Amter, 70, of 226 East 12th street, New York city, organizer of the "Friends of Soviet Russia in the United States." He is a native of Denver, Colo.

Marion Maxwell Abt Bachrach, 52, of 242 West 11th street, New York city, public relations director and secretary of the Defense Commission of the Communist party.

Miss Bachrach was described as a well-known writer for Communist publications. She is a native of Chicago.

Isidore Begun, 47, of 1406 Townsend avenue, the Bronx, New York, party writer and speaker, recently employed in the New York offices of the Civil Rights Congress. Begun, a former teacher in New York city public schools, was born in Russia and became a naturalized citizen in 1925.

Bittelman Is Held

Alexander Bittelman, 61, of Croton-on-Hudson, New York, described by the department as "one of the foremost theoreticians and dialecticians of the party." A native of Russia, still unnaturalized, he has served as a staff member of the Daily Worker, the Communist newspaper. Deportation proceedings against him are pending.

George Blake Charney, 46, of 130 West 16th street, New York city, trade union secretary of the New York State Communist Party. A native of Russia he claims American citizenship through the naturalization of his father when he was a child. He is a World War 2 army veteran.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, 60, of 224 East 12th street, New York city, member of the party's national committee and chairman of its women's commission. She was born at Concord, N. H.

Betty Gannett, 44, of 501 West 138th street, New York city, the party's national educational director. She is a Polish alien against

This compares with the 456,000 cubic feet of the "K" type which chased Nazi submarines during the last war.

Ulster County Savings Bank Observes 100th Anniversary

State, county and city bank representatives joined the Ulster County Savings Institution in the observance of its one hundredth anniversary on Tuesday evening at a dinner marking the occasion at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Pratt Boice, president of the local banking institution, welcomed the guests and also paid special tribute to Harold S. Brigham for his work in connection with the publication of a book commemorating the first century of the local bank. When called upon, Brigham acknowledged the training he received from Miss Mary E. Noone, who taught him English in Kingston Academy.

Roger H. Loughran, bank attorney, acted as toastmaster and introduced the guests.

Messages of congratulations and felicitations were brought from the two local building and loan associations by Samuel D. Scudder, Jr. and Deweese DeWitt and from other Kingston banks by Holt Winfield, Arthur A. Davis, William C. Kingman, James A. Dwyer, Robert Murray and Harold King.

Assemblyman John F. Wadlin and Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk brought greetings from the people of the state and the city respectively. Representatives of the banking institutions in the county outside the corporate limits of the City of Kingston also were in at-

LAWRENCE H. GALLAGHER

Fred D. Cure, president of the Board of Education of the Onteora Central School District, announced today that Lawrence H. Gallagher has been appointed supervising principal to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of John H. Moehle who recently accepted a position in the State Education Department.

Gallagher is supervising principal of the Berlin Central School. He will begin his duties at Onteora on July 1. The new principal is 34 years of age. He is married and has three sons. Prior to 1949, when he assumed the principalship at Berlin, Gallagher was principal of the A. L. Kellogg Central School at Treadwell for two years. Previously he had taught English in the Suffern High School, where he also held the position of varsity basketball coach. His other teaching experience was at the Clinton Central School and the Bombay High School, both in New York. He was graduated from Yale University in 1938 with a major in English. In 1946, he received his M.A. in administration from Columbia Teachers College.

Throughout his professional career, Gallagher has been consistently active in civic work and extra-curricular school projects. Currently he is chairman of the public relations committee of CASDA, an educational service and research association in the Albany area, and he is director of the Berlin Men's Club.

Where the new principal and his family will reside in the Onteora Central district is still undecided. His offices, however, will be in the board of education building at Phoenicia until the new school building is ready for occupancy at Boiceville.

THE PRICE WAR

It is a strange economic world. At the very time when the government is demanding stern inflationary controls, a price war starts. Inflation and deflation are present in the national economic life at the same time.

Conditions like these will be with us for a long time. It will be easy to get whipsawed in the maelstrom of these forces. Hundreds of bad decisions are being constantly made because of the confusion in men's minds brought about by conflicting powers.

The purpose of this article is to try to clarify these forces on the average citizen level. I say again; it is a strange phenomenon when a price war, begun by perhaps the biggest retail store in the world, starts in the face of a radio appeal by the President of the United States that drastic inflationary controls must be invoked.

First, I shall briefly discuss the inflationary background of our present economy. World War 2 introduced an unavoidable inflation into the country. It came from two directions: (1) America borrowed $150-million a day to finance the war. That threw billions of dollars of paper money into the United States and helped to inflate prices and wages. (2) War production artificially stimulated our economy, cutting unemployment drastically and setting up cycles of inflation.

America is about to enter a period of large war spending and on top of World War 2 inflation, is to be piled another inflation. Nobody knows how long it will last or how severe it may become.

But anyone making long term arrangements or contrasts on the assumption that it will last a long, long time is, I believe, doing an unsound thing. Today, costs are very high due to the inflation. Consequently, wherever possible, high costs should be rapidly amortized—as fast as the tax authorities allow.

Hundreds of small corporations are not handling their fiscal affairs properly. Pride in profits is one thing. But when too low amortization, depletion and depreciation charges in today's inflationary economy unduly swell profits, management is in for future headaches. If tax authorities will allow a five year write-off of an inflationary expense, it is foolish not to take it.

War and war conditions warp any economy. Employment is high. Wages are high. Spending money is plentiful. As has been said before, cycles of inflation are set in motion in such times as these. But they won't and can't last. Contracts should be made keeping these things in mind.

Over against this inflation, we have a price war. It may be somewhat phony. I think it is. However, in the midst of this price war, one fact stands out: in many economic circles, there are heavy—perhaps too heavy—inventories. Good merchandizers have sales when goods are moving too slowly and inventories are uncomfortably high.

Now when prices are cut 25 and 50% overnight, one large truth hovers into sight: supply of goods temporarily, at least, exceeds demand.

And economic America is like that. People who think that inflation is to be our lot had better keep this in mind.

What is the productive capacity of this great country? Why, our farms, factories, mines and plains can support tens of millions more than our present population.

Decade by decade, our work week is getting shorter. Wages are rising. Efficiency is growing. America's productive capacity is steadily increasing.

Price wars are a more natural concomitant to our national economic life than inflationary controls. The latter are only temporary—for the war's duration. Consequently, let everybody presently puzzled by the inflation-deflation dilemma avoid getting too deeply involved in long term inflationary contracts.

Pay off debts with inflationary dollars. Buy 20, 30 and 40 year life insurance policies. Invest in economic-necessity common stocks and don't buy too many war risk-laden equities.

Jury Convicts 2 On Dope Charges

New York, June 20 (AP)—A federal court jury has convicted two alleged members of an international dope ring on charges of conspiracy to smuggle opium into the U. S. and distribute it here.

The two—Julius Markman, 55, and Mario Livolsi, 46, both of New York—face a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment. They will be sentenced June 28.

The jury gave its verdict yesterday.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Louis I. Kaplan said the ring used private planes, trucks and automobiles with false gas tanks.

Meanwhile, New York city police announced the arrest of Carmelo Vega, 46, described by authorities as one of East Harlem's "biggest retail dealers" in narcotics.

Vega, a Puerto Rican, was charged with possessing and selling narcotics.

Public Service Rejects Request

Albany, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—The Public Service Commission has rejected a second request by the New York Telephone Company that replacement costs of company facilities be considered in fixing its rates.

The decision was announced yesterday by Commissioner Spencer R. Ebby as hearings were resumed on the company's petition for a 7.5 to eight per cent rate increase amounting to $44,000,000 a year.

The company's estimated replacement value of its facilities is $350,225,000 more than the original cost.

The company wants the PSC, in acting on the rate application to use the replacement figure of $1,269,550,000 instead of equipment investment costs of $919,324,000.

The commission ruled May 24 that it would not permit the use of replacement costs of company facilities as a basis for determining "just and reasonable rates."

On June 7, the company asked the PSC to reconsider.

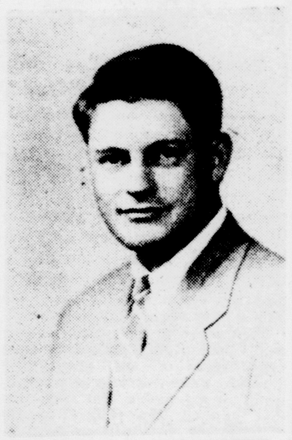
Principal



LAWRENCE H. GALLAGHER

Fred D. Cure, president of the Board of Education of the Onteora Central School District, announced today that Lawrence H. Gallagher has been appointed supervising principal to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of John H. Moehle who recently accepted a position in the State Education Department.

Gallagher is supervising principal of the Berlin Central School. He will begin his duties at Onteora on July 1. The new principal is 34 years of age. He is married and has three sons. Prior to 1949, when he assumed the principalship at Berlin, Gallagher was principal of the A. L. Kellogg Central School at Treadwell for two years. Previously he had taught English in the Suffern High School, where he also held the position of varsity basketball coach. His other teaching experience was at the Clinton Central School and the Bombay High School, both in New York. He was graduated from Yale University in 1938 with a major in English. In 1946, he received his M.A. in administration from Columbia Teachers College.

Throughout his professional career, Gallagher has been consistently active in civic work and extra-curricular school projects. Currently he is chairman of the public relations committee of CASDA, an educational service and research association in the Albany area, and he is director of the Berlin Men's Club.

Where the new principal and his family will reside in the Onteora Central district is still undecided. His offices, however, will be in the board of education building at Phoenicia until the new school building is ready for occupancy at Boiceville.

THE PRICE WAR

It is a strange economic world. At the very time when the government is demanding stern inflationary controls, a price war starts. Inflation and deflation are present in the national economic life at the same time.

Conditions like these will be with us for a long time. It will be easy to get whipsawed in the maelstrom of these forces. Hundreds of bad decisions are being constantly made because of the confusion in men's minds brought about by conflicting powers.

The purpose of this article is to try to clarify these forces on the average citizen level. I say again; it is a strange phenomenon when a price war, begun by perhaps the biggest retail store in the world, starts in the face of a radio appeal by the President of the United States that drastic inflationary controls must be invoked.

First, I shall briefly discuss the inflationary background of our present economy. World War 2 introduced an unavoidable inflation into the country. It came from two directions: (1) America borrowed $150-million a day to finance the war. That threw billions of dollars of paper money into the United States and helped to inflate prices and wages. (2) War production artificially stimulated our economy, cutting unemployment drastically and setting up cycles of inflation.

America is about to enter a period of large war spending and on top of World War 2 inflation, is to be piled another inflation. Nobody knows how long it will last or how severe it may become.

If tax authorities will allow a five year write-off of an inflationary expense, it is foolish not to take it.

U. S. LEADERS MUST SET EXAMPLE

More than a few able American observers complain sadly from time to time about the dearth of good political leadership in this country.

Even the most ardent backers of our present leaders feel that weakness and indecision and confusion play too great a role in our affairs these critical days. They lament the lack of men who can not only act decisively, but explain their policies well so that the nation may understand where it is going and have faith that the course is right.

France has suffered a continuing crisis of leadership almost since the end of World War II. Time after time, the delicacy of French political alignments has been given as the excuse for not doing something that needed to be done. Of all those who have held the post of premier since 1945, only Rene Pleven, now out of power, showed the forceful traits of a real leader.

In Britain, whatever one may think of its goals, the Labor Party for several years did indeed provide a driving leadership. But today, a bare six years since its ascent to power, the party is running out of steam. The doughty Ernest Bevin is dead. Sir Stafford Cripps, acclaimed as an expert on finance, is ill and in retirement. Prime Minister Clement Attlee is still hanging grimly onto the reins, but growing steadily wearier.

At least two U. S. journalists reporting on the British scene find the government gripped by virtual paralysis. One said he believes Attlee and his colleagues actually are sick of governing and would be glad to relinquish power to the Conservatives when and if it can be gracefully done.

The fiery Aneurin Bevan, who some predict will one day be prime minister, has still not lost his zest. But his following among left-wing socialists is not huge. There is no sign of his being able to take command of the Labor Party and turn it his way.

It seems fair to say the punch has gone out of British socialism. A lot was accomplished in the welfare field and in nationalization of industry up to now. But it has produced no miracle of universal happiness and well-being. Britain still is heavily beset by problems, just like every other nation.

Throughout free Europe there is a poverty of leadership, a shortage of men with the talent for governing. And even among those men who do come forward, few have the stomach for governing in the tense atmosphere of permanent crisis that pervades the world today. They quickly weary of the strain and wish to be free of the leader's tantalizing dilemmas.

World War II killed off or exhausted much of Europe's potential leadership. What is left has little heart for the job. The Russian threat, compelling heavy rearmament, makes the burden seem mountainous and oppressive.

In this dreary situation, the United States is the one real hope. It is still young, economically sound, untouched by the ravages of war, and optimistic. It has a reservoir of leadership that unfortunately is not yet being drawn into political life as it ought. There is a need for able, courageous young men to reach out for the reins.

But the vigor and spirit are here. More than ever in our history we need to show what we can do. Unless we can set an example of clear, forceful action, the tired, disillusioned men of Europe are not likely to recover their own capacity and zest for leadership.

MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY

Have you heard about the Argentine sailor who was robbed of his passport in a French port?

It took him 14 months to regain status as a man with a country. And in that spell he was buffeted all over Europe, tossed from one nation to another like a hand grenade with the pin out. Finally some Americans in Germany took interest in his case, and he managed to get a birth certificate from his native Switzerland.

Great world we live in, isn't it?

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

FOREIGN NEWS COVERAGE

Russell F. Anderson, editor of "World News," writing in "The Michigan Alumnus Quarterly Review," is deeply concerned that in 1945, American newspapers employed 2,700 foreign correspondents, but in 1950 only 300. Of course, 1945 was the end of the war and a war is covered much like a fire with Johhnys-on-the-spot.

Mr. Anderson's criticism, as long as it is quantitative, leaves me cold. One Wickham Steed, one Karl Von Wiegand, one Anne O'Hare McCormick is worth a legion of correspondents.

My own experience may be a case in point. When I arrived in China in 1918, I found in Peking, Tientsin, Shanghai and Tokyo corespondents of American, British and European newspapers, mature and literate men, who, most of them, were scholars who knew the country and its people and the language. Such men as Putnam Weale, Hugh Byas, O. M. Green, George Woodhead, Frederick Moore (who came and went), Rodney Gilbert and others were not only newspapermen but outstanding personalities. They held respected positions in their communities.

They approached the article of the day as a continuation of a prolonged history and although they wrote of news, they were equally concerned with views.

It was in the twenties that younger men were sent to China, particularly from the United States, and especially for the wire services, who were lacking, many of them, in preparation for reporting so complicated a story as that of China or Japan.

They had been accustomed in the United States to the "handout," that offensive device of giving reporters a mimeographed sheet that implied that "authority" wanted them to publish. They "banged out" a story on the typewriter, fast and furious. They hunted in packs and depended on each other. One "covered" for the other, and that paved the way for a publicity man for some Chinese faction covering for all of them.

It was unfortunate journalism because it produced a stereotyped account, each man sending the same as the other no matter how they might have differed in their personal reactions. As a matter of fact, for many years the late J. B. Powell, who was then editor of the "China Weekly Review," controlled most of the copy that was sent to the United States because his office became a newspaperman's center. The news was "angled" as he saw it. He had a charming personality and the newcomers came and went so fast that they had to depend upon an old-timer like Powell to introduce them, to explain situations to them, etc.

There could be no objection to this, except that many of the correspondents did not stay long enough to have learned to stand on their own. It takes a good man four or five years to become really valuable as a correspondent assigned to a particular country. He needs to devote himself to intensive reading, to learning languages and he must be so flexible that he can divest himself of prejudices which seem to be inherent in the human character. Men who are without these tools and qualities are always surprised by the trivial and always miss the broad issues and trends.

This, too, I saw in 1917 in Russia during the revolution and I must say that to this day I tend to regard the British expert on Russia more favorably than the American. The British reporters worked hard in the months preceding the Bolshevik revolution to discover what Lenin and Trotzky were going to do and why; the Americans tended to wait until it happened. The outstanding exception was, of course, John Reed who, no matter what his faults and weaknesses, was a great reporter.

If our newspapers and wire services are to develop a great corps of competent foreign correspondents, they must be trained for that particular type of work. Foreign correspondence should be a career on its own and the men and women in this field should be kept in areas long enough to know what they are talking about. I can still say that much of the correspondence that I read in newspapers and magazines in this country often strikes me as silly because it is without background.

The roots of every event are in documented history. Nothing happens today that did not start somewhere a century or even centuries ago. The foreign correspondent must have the breadth of beam and patience to dig into the parental facts of his news. It takes time but it has its compensation in getting the story right and serving the reader adequately.

CAUSES OF MENTAL SYMPTOMS

When a patient consults his physician because of a sore throat or his dentist about an aching tooth, physician and dentist know exactly where to start their examination and treatment. Also, when the patient complains of symptoms elsewhere as in the chest or abdomen, the physician by questioning and by signs present can get a fair idea of the underlying trouble. Even when the patient's symptoms show some mental or emotional disturbance, the physician must often look to see if any body defect or disturbance is causing the mental symptoms.

I have referred more than once to the superintendent of a state hospital in New Jersey who was able to cure and discharge a large percentage of his cases because their mental symptoms were cleared up by removal of various infections in the body — teeth, tonsils, gall bladder, sinus, intestine. It is possible that even with the services of dentists, nose, throat and ear specialists, abdominal specialists, gynecologists or other specialists, all cases of infection may not have been discovered.

In his book "Fundamentals of Psychiatry," Dr. Edward A. Strecker, professor of psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania, in discussing physical causes of mental ailments, adds fever and exhaustion to infection, stating that these three exciting forces are prolific of mental symptoms. "It is a common and casual happening of everyday practice to have a simple pneumonia, influenza, a streptococcic infection and a host of other illnesses by the action of rising fever and increased poisoning of the blood, suddenly show psychiatric complications, usually delirium. These mental symptoms for a time overshadow the physical symptoms and demand immediate attention."

While exhaustion does not play as large a part as fever and infection, it does play an important part as exhaustion may be the final result of long continued wear and tear due to severe emotional conflicts.

Fever, infection and exhaustion are what are called exogenous (coming from outside the body) causes of mental symptoms, as are the industrial occupational poisons, the socially-acceptable narcotic, alcohol and many narcotic medicines like the bromides. All these exogenous poisons may be, and frequently are, "directly significant in the development of mental symptoms."

While these exogenous or outside causes of mental symptoms must always be taken into consideration in diagnosis and treatment, they are not the largest nor most important cause of odd behavior.

Dr. Strecker points out that the emotions are the heart of the mind; should the emotions deteriorate, then the mind dies.

The Road Back

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The first president of a Latin-American country ever born in the United States arrives in Washington today. He is Galo Plaza Lasso, president of Ecuador, who has played football at the University of California, sold apples in New York during the depression, and has built up a herd of 1,000 Holstein dairy cows one mile up on the plateaus of Ecuador.

More important than any of these, however, Galo Plaza is operating one of the few free and democratic countries in the western hemisphere. On a continent where democracy is squeezed between communism and fascism, and where democracy is considered a luxury safe only for countries which can afford deep-freezes, he has shown that democracy can work.

In only five other Latin-American countries today — Uruguay, Chile, Mexico, Cuba and Costa Rica—is there complete freedom of the press. In Peru, for instance, a newspaperman was jailed recently because he translated a Life magazine article on Evita Peron. The article was not even published, merely translated ready for publication. Nevertheless, he was clapped into jail.

Even in supposedly democratic India, Prime Minister Nehru has proposed legislation restricting the press. However, President Galo Plaza has laughed at the gibes of the Ecuadorian press, calls revolution "our national sport," has never imposed martial law, drives his own car to his farms, and talks in their own language to the Indians who come to see him.

Cows by Airplane

I confess to being a little partial toward Galo Plaza. I got to know him when he was ambassador to Washington, the introduction having come through the Madame Holstein and the fact that some of my cows are related to his. Incidentally, the president of Ecuador studied at the University of Maryland in order to specialize in dairying, and since that time he has imported his herd sires and some of his heifers from Homer Remsberg at Middletown, Md., sometimes flying them to Ecuador by plane.

The fact that Galo Plaza was born in an almost unknown hotel—the Hotel Martin—in New York's Greenwich Village was due to the circumstance that his father, himself a president of Ecuador, was then in exile. His father was a buccaneering general who made his way by the sword, but who married a daughter of a top Ecuadorian aristocrat. She has spent much of her life in the United States and is still living.

As a youngster, Galo Plaza was literally brought up in politics. His father served two terms as President of Ecuador, once before Galo was born, once afterward. Galo saw him put across what were then almost revolutionary measures—public education, limiting the hours of the people's work, divorce, civil marriage, and expropriation of large landed estates.

During part of this time, Galo was a playboy at Maryland and California universities, sporting a convertible and a big coonskin coat, which, incidentally, proved a lifesaver when the old general got fed up with his son's life of ease and cut off his allowance. It was then that Galo sold apples on the street corners of New York, later got a job as assistant purser on the Grace Line between New York and Chile.

Fired Six Generals

Subsequently, Galo and his father patched up their differences, and young Plaza took over the operation of the family's farms, where he introduced American tractors, contour plowing, and Maryland cows. Neighbors scoffed, called him the "man with the gringo ideas." But since then, farm methods in Ecuador gradually have become modernized.

Plaza got started in politics at the very bottom. He became a member of the municipal council of Quito, then mayor of Quito, later minister of defense, at a most crucial period—1938-40—just before Pearl Harbor. As minister of defense he laid down the unheard-of doctrine that the army must keep out of politics, and proved that he meant what he said.

At one cabinet crisis, his colleagues were in a dither over the threatened rebellion of six generals. Finally they turned to Galo Plaza, the minister of defense.

"It's very simple," he said. "I'll fire all six generals."

He did so. And the delineation between military and civilian government had progressed far enough in Ecuador that the six were not given the heroes' welcome given to General MacArthur in the United States today.

Whistle-Stop Campaign

Galo Plaza served as ambassador in Washington during part of the vital war years, but resigned in 1946 in protest against the dictatorship of President Velasco. He ran for president himself in 1948, staging the same sort of whistle-stop campaign as Harry Truman and with the same general expectation that he would be defeated.

With no political party behind him, he visited almost every town and village in Ecuador, and instead of haranguing the people with a stentorian outline of his policies, he asked their advice as to what should be done.

Galo Plaza's slogan since elected has been "more work and less politics."

"There are no quick solutions to Ecuador's problems," he says. "In a generation a miracle may be accomplished. But during my four years all I can do is to set the country on the right road."

Accordingly, he has concentrated not on social reforms but on economic progress. His old friend, Nelson Rockefeller, helped with this, sending American experts to study what products Ecuador can best produce. As a result, the country is already on the way to becoming one of the great rice-growing areas of the world, and is slowly pulling away from its unenviable satus as the poorest and most disease-ridden country in South America.

Most important of all, however, Galo Plaza has remained one of the few Latin-American presidents to serve out his full four years without resorting to armed strength, without suppressing civil liberties.

Following three abortive revolutions in 14 months, Plaza was urged to crack down on his enemies. However, the press still remains free to ridicule him. Communist speakers remain free to malign him in the public square, and he continues to maintain that democracy can work in a country without shoes.

Caught a Sailfish Barehanded

Larry Robinson, lifeguard at the Atlantic Towers Hotel, Miami Beach, Fla., caught a 7-foot sailfish with his bare hands from a speeding motorboat. Lifeguards in a rowboat stalked the sailfish close to shore, but gave up when the fish outmaneuvered them. Robinson gave chase in his speedboat and, after several twists and turns, reached out with his bare hands, grabbed the fish by its bill, and hauled the 88-pounder into his boat.

Vandenberg Testimony Was First Official Information of Our Weakness in Air Power

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 20—Just a few days ago General Hoyt Vandenberg, chief of staff of the U. S. Air Force, pressed in the questioning by the Senate committee as to why America could not effectively resist aggression in the Far East through air power, asserted that the United States today has only a "shoestring" air force.

This was the first piece of official information from a military department of the government that the United States is woefully weak in air power. No such protest against the failure of the government to build up our air strength had come publicly before from General Vandenberg. The senators questioned him about an incident in 1949 when Congress, by an overwhelming vote of both Houses, approved a 58-group air force and appropriated the money for it only to discover that the President had decided not to spend the $648,000,000 specifically authorized for that purpose.

This correspondent on October 31, 1949, in these dispatches, pointed out that the President was going beyond his powers in flouting an authorization by Congress, and was substituting his own judgment for that of the legislative body.

It has now been revealed at the hearings that both the then secretary of air, Stuart Symington, and General Vandenberg, went to Louis Johnson, then secretary of defense, and protested in no uncertain terms, and were given permission to go to the President about it. The testimony of Mr. Johnson indicates clearly that, if he had so desired, he could have cut off both Secretary Symington and General Vandenberg from carrying their case even privately to the President.

But when Mr. Truman refused to be budged, though his own military advisers thought he was imperiling our air strength, the American people were not told anything about the protests. Public opinion had no chance to express itself and the people would not have known anything about it today if it were not for the investigation into the dismissal of General MacArthur, who did not hesitate to say publicly what he thought.

America's production of airplanes is today far behind what it ought to be. The aircraft industry needed those orders in 1949 so as to get started with its whole program of designing and making aircraft. An aircraft manufacturer nowadays is afraid to criticize the President for the error made in 1949 because he may be penalized by having his contracts taken away. Most of the manufacturers say privately that the impounding of the $648,000,000 in 1949 has made all the difference in the world between a strong air force today and what General Vandenberg calls a "shoestring" air force.

General Vandenberg, in effect, has testified that even if the 300,000 American boys in Korea had to have the protection that General MacArthur pleaded for—the use of maximum force in bombing enemy bases in Manchuria—the U. S. Air Force is not ready to do that job and still carry out its other missions of defense and offense.

It is not the President alone who is to be blamed, but the Congress, too, and particularly the Senate Armed Services Committee, which, under the chairmanship of former Senator Tydings of Maryland, insisted on "whitewashing" Secretary of the Navy Matthews when he took unitive action against Admiral Denfeld. This action was concurred in by the President and by then Secretary of Defense Johnson. It served notice on all military men, especially potential future members of the joint chiefs of staff, that they must not question even to Congress the judgment of the executive branch in the matter of military appropriations or military policy.

With all the pious talk about the supremacy of civilian authority over the military, Congress itself, which is a coordinate civilian authority, has failed to protect the American people by asserting its own rights. The remedy available to the people is against their representatives and senators who sit supinely by while the safety of the United States is at stake. Failure to spend the $648,000,000 was a blunder affecting national safety. It was a failure of the President under the constitution "to execute faithfully the laws of the United States."

It will be interesting to see how the right of military men to express themselves to Congress without fear of reprisal—which is the real issue—is treated in the report of the joint Senate committees investigating the MacArthur case.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Always glad to help, I write this to advise you that L. M. Birkhead's gestapo, the Friends of Democracy, seems to be having a time of it and is rattling the cup for money to carry on its work in New York.

It seems to be that the best way to appeal to public notice would be to enlarge my recent piece of free publicity for Friends of Democracy. In that case, those who agree with Birkhead might be moved to send him some—those who agree with Birkhead thing right away. Those who disapprove his work, of course, would do him the honor of refraining.

Naturally, Birkhead wouldn't be wanting money from those who oppose him, so surely he will thank me for notifying Americans who loathe the atheistic basis of communism how he stands on religion, morals and so farth.

In this chore I am indebted to John T. Flynn, one of the great, original anti-Communists as distinguished from the recent converts who hollered up Communist books during the war, even sending them to members of Congress, who joined Communist fronts and who suppressed the crime of Alger Hiss for ten years but got scared when Stalin turned on us, and began calling him dirty names to show how brave they were. Mr. Flynn carries many a scar inflicted by these new anti-Communists during the time when to be a Red-baiter a man required courage, honor and patriotism.

In his booklet, "The Smear Terror," Mr. Flynn, one of the best reporters we ever had in our journals, writes the results of his studies of Birkhead's Little Books on Religion.

Birkhead is an old Kansas City Preacher. Finding himself in geographical and intellectual proximity to E. Haldemann-Julius, the publisher of atheistic and particularly anti-Catholic books, it was natural that he should put out his works under the Haldemann-Julius Imprimatur.

In one of his appeals for money to carry on his great work, Birkhead wrote: "An attack on any man's religion is un-American." A strange sentiment coming from any friend of Haldemann-Julius whose principal topic in his personal paper for many years has been the absurdity and tyranny of religion, especially Catholicism.

Agan, Birkhead wrote: "If you join any movement which attacks beliefs of Protestants, Catholics or Jews, you are undermining the Bill of Rights." Yet a recent issue of Haldemann-Julius carried a cartoon depicting tyranny with a cat-o'-nine-tails, driving humanity over some brink into a bottomless but not hellish pit. The lashes on the cat are labelled "bigotry," "priestcraft," "superstition" and "fanaticism."

"Haldemann-Julius was working the Atheist side of the street," Mr. Flynn wrote in "The Smear Terror", "but we find Birkhead working both sides—operating as a preacher in All Souls' Unitarian church in Kansas city while knocking hell out of religion in the Haldemann-Julius little blue books and magazines.

"He used these atheistic publications to defame his fellow ministers. 'Everyone,' he wrote in the Haldemann-Julius Quarterly,

U. S. LEADERS MUST SET EXAMPLE

More than a few able American observers complain sadly from time to time about the dearth of good political leadership in this country.

Even the most ardent backers of our present leaders feel that weakness and indecision and confusion play too great a role in our affairs these critical days. They lament the lack of men who can not only act decisively, but explain their policies well so that the nation may understand where it is going and have faith that the course is right.

France has suffered a continuing crisis of leadership almost since the end of World War II. Time after time, the delicacy of French political alignments has been given as the excuse for not doing something that needed to be done. Of all those who have held the post of premier since 1945, only Rene Pleven, now out of power, showed the forceful traits of a real leader.

In Britain, whatever one may think of its goals, the Labor Party for several years did indeed provide a driving leadership. But today, a bare six years since its ascent to power, the party is running out of steam. The doughty Ernest Bevin is dead. Sir Stafford Cripps, acclaimed as an expert on finance, is ill and in retirement. Prime Minister Clement Attlee is still hanging grimly onto the reins, but growing steadily wearier.

At least two U. S. journalists reporting on the British scene find the government gripped by virtual paralysis. One said he believes Attlee and his colleagues actually are sick of governing and would be glad to relinquish power to the Conservatives when and if it can be gracefully done.

The fiery Aneurin Bevan, who some predict will one day be prime minister, has still not lost his zest. But his following among left-wing socialists is not huge. There is no sign of his being able to take command of the Labor Party and turn it his way.

It seems fair to say the punch has gone out of British socialism. A lot was accomplished in the welfare field and in nationalization of industry up to now. But it has produced no miracle of universal happiness and well-being. Britain still is heavily beset by problems, just like every other nation.

Throughout free Europe there is a poverty of leadership, a shortage of men with the talent for governing. And even among those men who do come forward, few have the stomach for governing in the tense atmosphere of permanent crisis that pervades the world today. They quickly weary of the strain and wish to be free of the leader's tantalizing dilemmas.

World War II killed off or exhausted much of Europe's potential leadership. What is left has little heart for the job. The Russian threat, compelling heavy rearmament, makes the burden seem mountainous and oppressive.

In this dreary situation, the United States is the one real hope. It is still young, economically sound, untouched by the ravages of war, and optimistic. It has a reservoir of leadership that unfortunately is not yet being drawn into political life as it ought. There is a need for able, courageous young men to reach out for the reins.

But the vigor and spirit are here. More than ever in our history we need to show what we can do. Unless we can set an example of clear, forceful action, the tired, disillusioned men of Europe are not likely to recover their own capacity and zest for leadership.

MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY

Have you heard about the Argentine sailor who was robbed of his passport in a French port?

It took him 14 months to regain status as a man with a country. And in that spell he was buffeted all over Europe, tossed from one nation to another like a hand grenade with the pin out. Finally some Americans in Germany took interest in his case, and he managed to get a birth certificate from his native Switzerland.

Great world we live in, isn't it?

FOREIGN NEWS COVERAGE

Russell F. Anderson, editor of "World News," writing in "The Michigan Alumnus Quarterly Review," is deeply concerned that in 1945, American newspapers employed 2,700 foreign correspondents, but in 1950 only 300. Of course, 1945 was the end of the war and a war is covered much like a fire with Johhnys-on-the-spot.

Mr. Anderson's criticism, as long as it is quantitative, leaves me cold. One Wickham Steed, one Karl Von Wiegand, one Anne O'Hare McCormick is worth a legion of correspondents.

My own experience may be a case in point. When I arrived in China in 1918, I found in Peking, Tientsin, Shanghai and Tokyo corespondents of American, British and European newspapers, mature and literate men, who, most of them, were scholars who knew the country and its people and the language. Such men as Putnam Weale, Hugh Byas, O. M. Green, George Woodhead, Frederick Moore (who came and went), Rodney Gilbert and others were not only newspapermen but outstanding personalities. They held respected positions in their communities.

They approached the article of the day as a continuation of a prolonged history and although they wrote of news, they were equally concerned with views.

It was in the twenties that younger men were sent to China, particularly from the United States, and especially for the wire services, who were lacking, many of them, in preparation for reporting so complicated a story as that of China or Japan.

They "banged out" a story on the typewriter, fast and furious. They hunted in packs and depended on each other. One "covered" for the other, and that paved the way for a publicity man for some Chinese faction covering for all of them.

It was unfortunate journalism because it produced a stereotyped account, each man sending the same as the other no matter how they might have differed in their personal reactions. As a matter of fact, for many years the late J. B. The news was "angled" as he saw it. There could be no objection to this, except that many of the correspondents did not stay long enough to have learned to stand on their own. It takes a good man four or five years to become really valuable as a correspondent assigned to a particular country. He needs to devote himself to intensive reading, to learning languages and he must be so flexible that he can divest himself of prejudices which seem to be inherent in the human character. CAUSES OF MENTAL SYMPTOMS

I have referred more than once to the superintendent of a state hospital in New Jersey who was able to cure and discharge a large percentage of his cases because their mental symptoms were cleared up by removal of various infections in the body — teeth, tonsils, gall bladder, sinus, intestine. It is possible that even with the services of dentists, nose, throat and ear specialists, abdominal specialists, gynecologists or other specialists, all cases of infection may not have been discovered.

The Road Back

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The first president of a Latin-American country ever born in the United States arrives in Washington today. He is Galo Plaza Lasso, president of Ecuador, who has played football at the University of California, sold apples in New York during the depression, and has built up a herd of 1,000 Holstein dairy cows one mile up on the plateaus of Ecuador.

More important than any of these, however, Galo Plaza is operating one of the few free and democratic countries in the western hemisphere. On a continent where democracy is squeezed between communism and fascism, and where democracy is considered a luxury safe only for countries which can afford deep-freezes, he has shown that democracy can work.

In only five other Latin-American countries today — Uruguay, Chile, Mexico, Cuba and Costa Rica—is there complete freedom of the press. In Peru, for instance, a newspaperman was jailed recently because he translated a Life magazine article on Evita Peron. The article was not even published, merely translated ready for publication. Nevertheless, he was clapped into jail.

Even in supposedly democratic India, Prime Minister Nehru has proposed legislation restricting the press. However, President Galo Plaza has laughed at the gibes of the Ecuadorian press, calls revolution "our national sport," has never imposed martial law, drives his own car to his farms, and talks in their own language to the Indians who come to see him.

Cows by Airplane

I confess to being a little partial toward Galo Plaza. I got to know him when he was ambassador to Washington, the introduction having come through the Madame Holstein and the fact that some of my cows are related to his. Incidentally, the president of Ecuador studied at the University of Maryland in order to specialize in dairying, and since that time he has imported his herd sires and some of his heifers from Homer Remsberg at Middletown, Md., sometimes flying them to Ecuador by plane.

The fact that Galo Plaza was born in an almost unknown hotel—the Hotel Martin—in New York's Greenwich Village was due to the circumstance that his father, himself a president of Ecuador, was then in exile. His father was a buccaneering general who made his way by the sword, but who married a daughter of a top Ecuadorian aristocrat. She has spent much of her life in the United States and is still living.

As a youngster, Galo Plaza was literally brought up in politics. His father served two terms as President of Ecuador, once before Galo was born, once afterward. Galo saw him put across what were then almost revolutionary measures—public education, limiting the hours of the people's work, divorce, civil marriage, and expropriation of large landed estates.

During part of this time, Galo was a playboy at Maryland and California universities, sporting a convertible and a big coonskin coat, which, incidentally, proved a lifesaver when the old general got fed up with his son's life of ease and cut off his allowance. It was then that Galo sold apples on the street corners of New York, later got a job as assistant purser on the Grace Line between New York and Chile.

Fired Six Generals

Subsequently, Galo and his father patched up their differences, and young Plaza took over the operation of the family's farms, where he introduced American tractors, contour plowing, and Maryland cows. Neighbors scoffed, called him the "man with the gringo ideas." But since then, farm methods in Ecuador gradually have become modernized.

Plaza got started in politics at the very bottom. He became a member of the municipal council of Quito, then mayor of Quito, later minister of defense, at a most crucial period—1938-'40—just before Pearl Harbor. As minister of defense he laid down the unheard-of doctrine that the army must keep out of politics, and proved that he meant what he said.

At one cabinet crisis, his colleagues were in a dither over the threatened rebellion of six generals. Finally they turned to Galo Plaza, the minister of defense.

"It's very simple," he said. "I'll fire all six generals."

He did so. And the delineation between military and civilian government had progressed far enough in Ecuador that the six were not given the heroes' welcome given to General MacArthur in the United States today.

Whistle-Stop Campaign

Galo Plaza served as ambassador in Washington during part of the vital war years, but resigned in 1946 in protest against the dictatorship of President Velasco. He ran for president himself in 1948, staging the same sort of whistle-stop campaign as Harry Truman and with the same general expectation that he would be defeated.

With no political party behind him, he visited almost every town and village in Ecuador, and instead of haranguing the people with a stentorian outline of his policies, he asked their advice as to what should be done.

Galo Plaza's slogan since elected has been "more work and less politics."

"There are no quick solutions to Ecuador's problems," he says. "In a generation a miracle may be accomplished. But during my four years all I can do is to set the country on the right road."

Accordingly, he has concentrated not on social reforms but on economic progress. His old friend, Nelson Rockefeller, helped with this, sending American experts to study what products Ecuador can best produce. As a result, the country is already on the way to becoming one of the great rice-growing areas of the world, and is slowly pulling away from its unenviable satus as the poorest and most disease-ridden country in South America.

Most important of all, however, Galo Plaza has remained one of the few Latin-American presidents to serve out his full four years without resorting to armed strength, without suppressing civil liberties.

Following three abortive revolutions in 14 months, Plaza was urged to crack down on his enemies. However, the press still remains free to ridicule him, Communist speakers remain free to malign him in the public square, and he continues to maintain that democracy can work in a country without shoes.

Caught a Sailfish Barehanded

Larry Robinson, lifeguard at the Atlantic Towers Hotel, Miami Beach, Fla., caught a 7-foot sailfish with his bare hands from a speeding motorboat. Lifeguards in a rowboat stalked the sailfish close to shore, but gave up when the fish outmaneuvered them. Robinson gave chase in his speedboat and, after several twists and turns, reached out with his bare hands, grabbed the fish by its bill, and hauled the 88-pounder into his boat.

Vandenberg Testimony Was First Official Information of Our Weakness in Air Power

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 20—Just a few days ago General Hoyt Vandenberg, chief of staff of the U. S. Air Force, pressed in the questioning by the Senate committee as to why America could not effectively resist aggression in the Far East through air power, asserted that the United States today has only a "shoestring" air force.

This was the first piece of official information from a military department of the government that the United States is woefully weak in air power. No such protest against the failure of the government to build up our air strength had come publicly before from General Vandenberg. The senators questioned him about an incident in 1949 when Congress, by an overwhelming vote of both Houses, approved a 58-group air force and appropriated the money for it only to discover that the President had decided not to spend the $648,000,000 specifically authorized for that purpose.

This correspondent on October 31, 1949, in these dispatches, pointed out that the President was going beyond his powers in flouting an authorization by Congress, and was substituting his own judgment for that of the legislative body.

It has now been revealed at the hearings that both the then secretary of air, Stuart Symington, and General Vandenberg, went to Louis Johnson, then secretary of defense, and protested in no uncertain terms, and were given permission to go to the President about it. The testimony of Mr. Johnson indicates clearly that, if he had so desired, he could have cut off both Secretary Symington and General Vandenberg from carrying their case even privately to the President.

But when Mr. Truman refused to be budged, though his own military advisers thought he was imperiling our air strength, the American people were not told anything about the protests. Public opinion had no chance to express itself and the people would not have known anything about it today if it were not for the investigation into the dismissal of General MacArthur, who did not hesitate to say publicly what he thought.

America's production of airplanes is today far behind what it ought to be. The aircraft industry needed those orders in 1949 so as to get started with its whole program of designing and making aircraft. An aircraft manufacturer nowadays is afraid to criticize the President for the error made in 1949 because he may be penalized by having his contracts taken away. Most of the manufacturers say privately that the impounding of the $648,000,000 in 1949 has made all the difference in the world between a strong air force today and what General Vandenberg calls a "shoestring" air force.

General Vandenberg, in effect, has testified that even if the 300,000 American boys in Korea had to have the protection that General MacArthur pleaded for—the use of maximum force in bombing enemy bases in Manchuria—the U. S. Air Force is not ready to do that job and still carry out its other missions of defense and offense.

It is not the President alone who is to be blamed, but the Congress, too, and particularly the Senate Armed Services Committee, which, under the chairmanship of former Senator Tydings of Maryland, insisted on "whitewashing" Secretary of the Navy Matthews when he took unitive action against Admiral Denfeld. This action was concurred in by the President and by then Secretary of Defense Johnson. It served notice on all military men, especially potential future members of the joint chiefs of staff, that they must not question even to Congress the judgment of the executive branch in the matter of military appropriations or military policy.

With all the pious talk about the supremacy of civilian authority over the military, Congress itself, which is a coordinate civilian authority, has failed to protect the American people by asserting its own rights. The remedy available to the people is against their representatives and senators who sit supinely by while the safety of the United States is at stake. Failure to spend the $648,000,000 was a blunder affecting national safety. It was a failure of the President under the constitution "to execute faithfully the laws of the United States."

It will be interesting to see how the right of military men to express themselves to Congress without fear of reprisal—which is the real issue—is treated in the report of the joint Senate committees investigating the MacArthur case.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Always glad to help, I write this to advise you that L. M. Birkhead's gestapo, the Friends of Democracy, seems to be having a time of it and is rattling the cup for money to carry on its work in New York.

It seems to be that the best way to appeal to public notice would be to enlarge my recent piece of free publicity for Friends of Democracy. In that case, those who agree with Birkhead might be moved to send him something right away. Those who disapprove his work, of course, would do him the honor of refraining.

Naturally, Birkhead wouldn't be wanting money from those who oppose him, so surely he will thank me for notifying Americans who loathe the atheistic basis of communism how he stands on religion, morals and so farth.

In this chore I am indebted to John T. Flynn, one of the great, original anti-Communists as distinguished from the recent converts who hollered up Communist books during the war, even sending them to members of Congress, who joined Communist fronts and who suppressed the crime of Alger Hiss for ten years but got scared when Stalin turned on us, and began calling him dirty names to show how brave they were. Mr. Flynn carries many a scar inflicted by these new anti-Communists during the time when to be a Red-baiter a man required courage, honor and patriotism.

In his booklet, "The Smear Terror," Mr. Flynn, one of the best reporters we ever had in our journals, writes the results of his studies of Birkhead's Little Books on Religion.

Birkhead is an old Kansas City Preacher. Finding himself in geographical and intellectual proximity to E. Haldemann-Julius, the publisher of atheistic and particularly anti-Catholic books, it was natural that he should put out his works under the Haldemann-Julius Imprimatur.

In one of his appeals for money to carry on his great work, Birkhead wrote: "An attack on any man's religion is un-American." A strange sentiment coming from any friend of Haldemann-Julius whose principal topic in his personal paper for many years has been the absurdity and tyranny of religion, especially Catholicism.

Agan, Birkhead wrote: "If you join any movement which attacks beliefs of Protestants, Catholics or Jews, you are undermining the Bill of Rights." Yet a recent issue of Haldemann-Julius carried a cartoon depicting tyranny with a cat-o'-nine-tails, driving humanity over some brink into a bottomless but not hellish pit. The lashes on the cat are labelled "bigotry," "priestcraft," "superstition" and "fanaticism."

"Haldemann-Julius was working the Atheist side of the street," Mr. Flynn wrote in "The Smear Terror", "but we find Birkhead working both sides—operating as a preacher in All Souls' Unitarian church in Kansas city while knocking hell out of religion in the Haldemann-Julius little blue books and magazines.

"He used these atheistic publications to defame his fellow ministers. 'Everyone,' he wrote in the Haldemann-Julius Quarterly,

Farm Employes And New Social Security Law

"Apple pickers, berry pickers, bean pickers, and other temporary or seasonal farm employes will not have the protection of the new Social Security law," says George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Social Security Office. He estimates, however, that 800 or more regular farm employes in Ulster county will now have their wages credited toward old-age and survivors insurance.

"Before he can be covered by social security, the farm worker must first work for a farmer for three months, to establish a service relationship," Mr. Johnson explained. "This period can include the last three months of 1950.

"After the initial three months of work, the farmhand will be under social security if he continues to work for the same employer at least 60 days out of every three months, provided he earns at least $50 in cash wages during that period.

"If he changes jobs, he must work another three months for the new employer before his work will begin counting toward social security."

Farm workers covered under the new law will have the same social security rights, including old-age retirement benefits and family death benefits, as workers in business or industry, Mr. Johnson said. They are not eligible for unemployment compensation, however, as that is a state program and was not affected by the recent changes in the federal social security law.

"Farm workers who will be covered by social security should obtain social security cards if they have not already done so," Mr. Johnson suggested. "Those who have had a card sometime in the past, but lost it, should ask for a duplicate." Application blanks for social security cards may be obtained from the local social security office, Central Post Office Building, Broadway, Kingston, N. Y., or from outlying post offices.

CHANGE PACE IN DISCARDING

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

We recently had a question about the first discard that a player should make. Should you discard from strength (three or four of a kind) or from weakness (no more cards to match the discard)?

We have already seen that it is very poor policy to stick unfailingly to one practice. You have to have a change of pace to keep the enemy guessing. However, you may have a leaning toward one method or toward the other, even though you are careful to mix a slow ball with your fast ball every once in a while.

Which tendency should you adopt? The answer should depend on your hand, if all players in the game are equally good. However, the answer may depend more on your partner than on the hand you happen to hold.

There are some partners who always fight for the discard pile no matter how hopeless the battle may be. If you meld cards from your hand, such partners fight on gallantly (but foolishly), even though it may be obvious that you are trying to meld out.

With such a partner you cannot try for a fast out. You must do what you can to help him fight for the pack. Hence you tend to discard from strength a trifle more often than your cards would really warrant.

There is another kind of partner—the man who always plays for a fast out no matter what his hand looks like. He always puts a meld down on the table at the first chance to do so. If you fight for the pack, he gets himself down to two or three cards and promptly gives the pack away to the enemy.

With such a partner you cannot hope to win the pack. You must play for a fast out whether you like it or not. Hence you tend to discard from weakness at your first turn, saving your melds and your pairs.

Q—In a two-handed Canasta game I have in my hand numerous cards that I could meld. My wife has four cards in her hand, and it is her play. She draws the last card of the stock pile, melds three cards, and discards a black three. She still has one card in her hand. Am I then allowed to lay down my melds before counting the score?

A—No. When your opponent discards the black three the hand ends immediately. You are stuck with all the cards that are still in your hand. This is one of the risks you take when you keep meldable cards in your hand instead of putting them down on the table.

The new minister always had a scripture ready for any question asked him. One day a bug flew in his mouth and he swallowed it. A little boy stepped up and asked:

Little Boy—Do you have a text of scripture for that?

Minister—Yes. He was a stranger and I took him in.

There are many fresh men on the streets this year so it wasn't unusual that the woman went to the policeman and said:

Woman—A man has been following me for three blocks and I think he's drunk.

Policeman (thoughtfully)—Yes, I think he must be.

Young Mother—I've decided on a name for baby. I shall call her Nanette.

Her husband thought it was an awful name to give a girl, but being a wise and tactful fellow, he did not object.

Husband—Splendid. The first girl I ever loved was called Nanette, and the name will revive pleasant memories!

Young Mother (firmly after brief silence)—We'll call her Mary after my mother.

Rise Stevens' husband, Walter Surovy, tells this story. When they were wed here a decade ago, he was a non-English speaking Hungarian actor. They told him to say "I do" to everything. When the marriage officer said, "Is there anybody present who knows any reason these parties should not be married?" he boomed out his only English expression, "I do!"—Earl Wilson, Post-Hall Syndicate.

As Pegler Sees It

'familiar with the status of the clergy in America knows that vulgarity and coarseness are characteristics of a majority of the preachers.' He had several suggestions, one of them to 'destroy the theological seminaries.'

"I do not quarrel with Reverend Birkhead because he is an atheist or an agnostic," Mr. Flynn continued. "He is entitled to these views and to print them. I merely call attention to the phenomenon of the Christian preacher who urges in an atheist magazine abolition of theological seminaries and mass demobilization of ministers while preaching as a pastor of a Christian church: scoffing at religion and religious people, announcing that 'we cannot follow Christ," while on another platform he calls on Americans to choose between Hitler and Christ."

The Haldemann-Julius literature contains a great bulk of books on sex, most of it in the phases which American morality holds to be loathesome. Perversion and prostitution are the subjects of many titles. Under the heading of "Prostitution," Birkhead is listed as the author of "The Sins of Good People." Filthy gags abound in the copy which Haldemann-Julius pounds out endlessly. An interesting context for the works of a minister of the gospel.

Though Haldemann-Julius says he is opposed to communism, his opposition is spiritless by comparison with his attacks on catholocism and a long roster of sects.

There is a regular department of the "lonely hearts" type of which the following is a sample: "Lonesome? Cheer up. Find your sweethart. Confidential nation-wide service for men and women. Sealed particulars. Free."

Another little ad in the same paper says: "Counteract Christian propaganda. Display freethought plaques." And Haldemann-Julius tossed off this: "One thing I like about animals is that they do not waste their time moping over their souls."

Although Birkhead is not responsible for his publisher's text, it may be noted that some clerics would find unbearable the company of Haldemann-Julius, his abusive atheism, his zest for the topic of perversion, and his laborious smut.

In the current appeal for money, Birkhead frankly boasts of the files which his gestapo has amassed and of requests for information which he has been able to comply with.

And this prompts me to turn to the book called "the plotters" by a trembling professional sneak calling himself John Roy Carlson, in which Carlson says: "As an employee of Friends of Democracy for six years, I know that the Friends of Democracy is anything but Communist except, of course, in the eyes of nationalist demagogs."

Mr. Flynn tells us that Carlson formerly published a magazine called "The Christian Defender," which was devoted to ferocious Jew-baiting. Mr. Flynn notes that Carlson tried to excuse this with the explanation that he was trying to elicit expressions hostile to Jews to be used against individuals who could be induced to write them.

Judge John P. Barnes, of the United States Court in Chicago, said Carlson would write anything for a dollar and was not worthy of belief under oath.

"I spent the first ten years of my bridge career trying to be brilliant," said Charlie Hutzler, "and the next ten years trying to forget the first ten." Hutzler, who owns and manages a large department store, was joking about his "bridge career" but he had a right to be serious since he is one of the best bridge players in the country.

"The turning point," Hutzler continued, "came one night just about ten years ago. We had agreed to end the session with the rubber we were playing. Then this hand came along.

"My partner opened the deuce of diamonds, and declarer studied the dummy a long time before he made the first play. This gave me the chance to decide that we probably had no real defense and that only monkey business could save us.

"Finally, dummy played the ten of diamonds—and I won with the ace. This was my little brilliancy for the evening.

"I returned a low club, and dummy won with the ten. Declarer decided that since I held the bare ace of diamonds and the equally bare ace of clubs I needed the king of spades for my opening bid. Hence he led the jack of spades for a finesse.

"My partner won with the queen of spades and returned the deuce of hearts. Dummy took the ace of hearts and declarer confidently tried a second spade finesse.

"This also lost, somewhat to declarer's surprise. He took the heart return with dummy's king, got to his hand with a trump, and finessed the jack of diamonds—expecting to discard a heart on the king of diamonds.

"Now my brilliancy paid off. I took the queen of diamonds, cashed the queen of hearts, and took the setting trick with the ace of clubs."

I nodded admiringly. If the first trick had been won by the queen of diamonds, declarer would have made the contract very easily. The false card at the first trick was the killer.

"Why do you say this hand was a turning point?" I asked. "Why wouldn't you go on trying to be brilliant after a success like this?"

"A fine success!" Hutzler snorted. "On the very next hand they bid and made a grand slam. And they thanked me for setting them so brilliantly on the previous hand."

Do You Remember

by
By SOPHIE MILLER

It's strange how every state has its own laws about various subjects. Take for instance, eyeglasses. According to the Rosendale News there is an illustrated item from Reading, Pa., showing E. Elwood McCleish, former chief economist of Department of Commerce at a counter of a store picking out his own eyeglasses as they did a number of years ago in Kingston. The item reads in part: "In 44 states where ready-to-wear, inexpensive reading glasses can be bought in variety stores, the easy way is to go to a dime store and pick out a pair of glasses. By trying on a few pair, the buyer can easily decide which spectacles help him the most. More than 300,000,000 pairs of ready-to-wear reading glasses have been made by one company and sold in this way and medical men report that no one has ever been harmed by wearing this type of glasses."

I remember some years back when my father in his drug store at 46 Broadway had a number of boxes of glasses and folks used to come in, sit themselves at our little table by the big mirror. My father would hand them The Freeman, and they would go through the boxes until they found a pair suitable for reading the local paper, also which looked good on them. I think they sold for around 25 cents at the time. In fact I remember my grandmother who read the fine print of the Times, when her good glasses used to break now and then would also help herself to a pair and she did all right with them till nearly the age of 83. My father also found a pair now and then, and as far as I know he used that same pair till he was over 75 and he read several newspapers each day, besides magazines and books and built miniature models. At times I remember my grandmother and grandfather could exchange glasses if one of them didn't want to go upstairs for their own. It is remarkable what the right kind of glasses can do for folks.

The Poughkeepsie excitement with the blue laws brought some questions my way. I have a book called "The Volume Library" and so far, only there did I find anything on it. It reads in part: "The Famous Connecticut Blue Laws, enacted by the people of 'Dominion of New Haven,' became known as the blue laws because they were printed on blue paper. . . . The Sabbath Day shall begin at sunset, Saturday. No one shall cross a river on the Sabbath, but authorized clergymen. No one shall travel, cook victuals, make beds, sweep houses, cut hair, or shave on the Sabbath Day. No one shall kiss his or her children on the Sabbath or feasting days. No one shall eat mince pies, dance, play cards, or play any instrument of music except the drum, trumpet or jewsharp. . . . No gospel minister shall join people in marriage. . . . A man who strikes his wife shall be fined 10 pounds. A woman who strikes her husband shall be punished as directed by law." Perhaps I will find some more on it later.

Fulton, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—State officials have dedicated a $500,000 dam to control the water level of Oneida river and aid navigation and fish production in Oneida Lake. The dam at Caughdenoy, east of here, was authorized by the Legislature. Sportsmen's groups supported the project.

Macy Says He Has Been Smear Victim

New York, June 20 (AP)—Former Congressman W. Kingsland Macy says he has been "on the receiving end of a vicious smear campaign."

Macy, fighting to retain his Suffolk county Republican leadership, claims "selfish interests" have done the smearing in an effort to depose him.

An intraparty foe of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Macy declared in a radio (WOR) broadcast last night:

"There are selfish interests at work which are conspiring to control Suffolk county politics. These selfish interests quite obviously have had too much success in other parts of our state."

Macy, who has held the Suffolk GOP leadership a quarter century, did not mention any names.

He made the statements in a radio interview with Lindsay R. Henry, Suffolk district attorney.

Macy, who is fighting strong opposition for reelection as Suffolk GOP chairman, declared his support of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio for president.

"I returned a low club, and dummy won with the ten. Declarer decided that since I held the bare ace of diamonds and the equally bare ace of clubs I needed the king of spades for my opening bid. Hence he led the jack of spades for a finesse.

"My partner won with the queen of spades and returned the deuce of hearts. Dummy took the ace of hearts and declarer confidently tried a second spade finesse.

"This also lost, somewhat to declarer's surprise. He took the heart return with dummy's king, got to his hand with a trump, and finessed the jack of diamonds—expecting to discard a heart on the king of diamonds.

"Now my brilliancy paid off. I took the queen of diamonds, cashed the queen of hearts, and took the setting trick with the ace of clubs."

I nodded admiringly. If the first trick had been won by the queen of diamonds, declarer would have made the contract very easily. The false card at the first trick was the killer.

"Why do you say this hand was a turning point?" I asked. "Why wouldn't you go on trying to be brilliant after a success like this?"

"A fine success!" Hutzler snorted. "On the very next hand they bid and made a grand slam. And they thanked me for setting them so brilliantly on the previous hand."

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

It's strange how every state has its own laws about various subjects. Take for instance, eyeglasses. According to the Rosendale News there is an illustrated item from Reading, Pa., showing E. Elwood McCleish, former chief economist of Department of Commerce at a counter of a store picking out his own eyeglasses as they did a number of years ago in Kingston. The item reads in part: "In 44 states where ready-to-wear, inexpensive reading glasses can be bought in variety stores, the easy way is to go to a dime store and pick out a pair of glasses. By trying on a few pair, the buyer can easily decide which spectacles help him the most. More than 300,000,000 pairs of ready-to-wear reading glasses have been made by one company and sold in this way and medical men report that no one has ever been harmed by wearing this type of glasses."

I remember some years back when my father in his drug store at 46 Broadway had a number of boxes of glasses and folks used to come in, sit themselves at our little table by the big mirror. My father would hand them The Freeman, and they would go through the boxes until they found a pair suitable for reading the local paper, also which looked good on them. I think they sold for around 25 cents at the time. In fact I remember my grandmother who read the fine print of the Times, when her good glasses used to break now and then would also help herself to a pair and she did all right with them till nearly the age of 83. My father also found a pair now and then, and as far as I know he used that same pair till he was over 75 and he read several newspapers each day, besides magazines and books and built miniature models. At times I remember my grandmother and grandfather could exchange glasses if one of them didn't want to go upstairs for their own. It is remarkable what the right kind of glasses can do for folks.

The Poughkeepsie excitement with the blue laws brought some questions my way. I have a book called "The Volume Library" and so far, only there did I find anything on it. It reads in part: "The Famous Connecticut Blue Laws, enacted by the people of 'Dominion of New Haven,' became known as the blue laws because they were printed on blue paper. . . . The Sabbath Day shall begin at sunset, Saturday. No one shall cross a river on the Sabbath, but authorized clergymen. No one shall travel, cook victuals, make beds, sweep houses, cut hair, or shave on the Sabbath Day. No one shall kiss his or her children on the Sabbath or feasting days. No one shall eat mince pies, dance, play cards, or play any instrument of music except the drum, trumpet or jewsharp. . . . No gospel minister shall join people in marriage. . . . A man who strikes his wife shall be fined 10 pounds. A woman who strikes her husband shall be punished as directed by law." Perhaps I will find some more on it later.

Macy Says He Has Been Smear Victim

New York, June 20 (AP)—Former Congressman W. Kingsland Macy says he has been "on the receiving end of a vicious smear campaign."

Macy, fighting to retain his Suffolk county Republican leadership, claims "selfish interests" have done the smearing in an effort to depose him.

An intraparty foe of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Macy declared in a radio (WOR) broadcast last night:

"There are selfish interests at work which are conspiring to control Suffolk county politics. These selfish interests quite obviously have had too much success in other parts of our state."

Macy, who has held the Suffolk GOP leadership a quarter century, did not mention any names.

He made the statements in a radio interview with Lindsay R. Henry, Suffolk district attorney.

Macy, who is fighting strong opposition for reelection as Suffolk GOP chairman, declared his support of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio for president.

Supplies, Bridges Raided

Tokyo, June 19 (AP)—Supply routes and bridges in northeast Korea were raided Monday at more than 17 points by carrier-based U. S. planes. Capt. Hugh F. Reynolds, Cambridge, Mass., Capt. Warren E. Franklin, Peekskill, N. Y., and Lt. Wilber E. Briggs, West Springfield, Mass., strafed troops northwest of Chinnampo on the west coast and reported killing more than 100. The three fliers were marines from the carrier Sicily.

Says Dewey Labor Foe

Buffalo, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—The State Federation of Labor says Governor Dewey is "an outstanding enemy of labor." Delegates to the 88th annual convention unanimously approved a motion yesterday directing the AFL's legislative committee to draw up a resolution "stamping" Dewey as an "enemy." The move was a sharp break from past federation attitudes toward the two-time Republican candidate for president.

East Side Becomes Jewel Thieves' Paradise

New York, June 20 (AP)—Manhattan's fashionable east side has become a happy hunting ground for jewel thieves.

Jewel thieves made their seventh haul in eight weeks sometime Monday. In the thefts, $173,000 worth of gems has been reported stolen.

Mrs. Ilona Gero, an importer, discovered the latest burglary yesterday. She said $13,000 worth of jewels, including a $9,000 diamond-mounted platinum ring, had disappeared.

She said the burglars failed to take $10,000 in jewels from the same drawer which held the stolen items.

Police said the lock was picked on Mrs. Gero's apartment door in the Hotel 14 on East 60th street.

Meanwhile, police revealed a suspect has been identified in the $16,700 jewelry holdup of actress Magda Gabor.

Authorities said Miss Gabor had identified Lionel Donnell, 25, of New York, as one of two men who held her up in her home last Jan. 13.

Donnell is being held in Newark, N. J., on a Bloomfield, N. J., assault and robbery charge. He has denied the Gabor holdup.

NEWS FLASH! YOU CAN STILL GET LIFEGUARD SAFETY TUBES by GOODYEAR

U. S. Government regulations on rubber still permit Goodyear to manufacture LifeGuard Safety Tubes.

Yes, LifeGuard Safety Tubes by Goodyear are still the best blowout-accident protection that you can buy for your car today. There is no such thing as a blowout-proof tire, BUT LifeGuard Safety Tubes make any blowout as harmless as a slow leak. Why not stop in and see about a set for your car?

Remember, you can't get better protection to save your life.

SAFEST in Any Tires

You can put LifeGuard Safety Tubes in your present tires, whether they're new or used . . . are recapped or still have original treads. You can drive with your mind free from fear of blowout accidents if your tires are equipped with LifeGuard Safety Tubes.

They're ECONOMICAL, too

LifeGuard Safety Tubes will usually outlast at least three sets of the same size tires besides helping you to get the last mile from your tires with safety. Some sizes are in limited supply . . . better place your order now.

ORDINARY TUBE

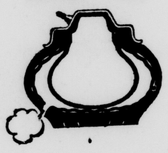
LIFEGUARD SAFETY TUBE



When tire with LifeGuard blows out, only the outer chamber gives way — reserve cord fabric inner tire supports car — deflates slowly. You have ample time to bring car to safe, straightline stop.

LIFEGUARD has 2 air chambers. In case of blowout, only outer chamber gives way.

New York, June 20 (AP)—Manhattan's fashionable east side has become a happy hunting ground for jewel thieves.

Jewel thieves made their seventh haul in eight weeks sometime Monday. In the thefts, $173,000 worth of gems has been reported stolen.

Mrs. Ilona Gero, an importer, discovered the latest burglary yesterday. She said $13,000 worth of jewels, including a $9,000 diamond-mounted platinum ring, had disappeared.

She said the burglars failed to take $10,000 in jewels from the same drawer which held the stolen items.

Police said the lock was picked on Mrs. Gero's apartment door in the Hotel 14 on East 60th street.

Meanwhile, police revealed a suspect has been identified in the $16,700 jewelry holdup of actress Magda Gabor.

Authorities said Miss Gabor had identified Lionel Donnell, 25, of New York, as one of two men who held her up in her home last Jan. 13.

Donnell is being held in Newark, N. J., on a Bloomfield, N. J., assault and robbery charge. He has denied the Gabor holdup.

NEWS FLASH! YOU CAN STILL GET LIFEGUARD SAFETY TUBES by GOODYEAR

U. S. Government regulations on rubber still permit Goodyear to manufacture LifeGuard Safety Tubes.

Yes, LifeGuard Safety Tubes by Goodyear are still the best blowout-accident protection that you can buy for your car today. There is no such thing as a blowout-proof tire, BUT LifeGuard Safety Tubes make any blowout as harmless as a slow leak. Why not stop in and see about a set for your car?

Remember, you can't get better protection to save your life.

SAFEST in Any Tires

You can put LifeGuard Safety Tubes in your present tires, whether they're new or used . . . are recapped or still have original treads. You can drive with your mind free from fear of blowout accidents if your tires are equipped with LifeGuard Safety Tubes.

They're ECONOMICAL, too

LifeGuard Safety Tubes will usually outlast at least three sets of the same size tires besides helping you to get the last mile from your tires with safety. Some sizes are in limited supply . . . better place your order now.

ORDINARY TUBE

When a tire with an ordinary tube blows out, the single air compartment collapses — the wheel drops suddenly, usually throwing the car out of control.

LIFEGUARD SAFETY TUBE

When tire with LifeGuard blows out, only the outer chamber gives way — reserve cord fabric inner tire supports car — deflates slowly. You have ample time to bring car to safe, straightline stop.

LIFEGUARD has 2 air chambers. In case of blowout, only outer chamber gives way.

Petty Thefts Reported To Kingston Police

The judge reported at 9:45 p. m., that items missing from his property over a period of several days were two sprinklers, two hoses with nozzles, a key for an outside faucet and two garden type vases.

Police are considering the possibility of deliberate spitefulness, since no other similar articles were reported missing in the neighborhood.

A marine gasoline pump, reported missing from the property of the Cornell Shops, East Strand, at 8 a. m., yesterday, was reported recovered in weeds on the property later in the morning. Police indicated that it might have been placed in the weeds by some person or persons who intended to return and get it last night.

Boy Scout News

Cub Pack 13

Members of Pack 13, Cub Pack, were officially received into scouting circles during an installation service Tuesday night at the Elks Club.

The latest addition to the Boy Scout organization has 27 Cub Scouts under the den mother supervision of the Mmes. Ellen Angstrom, Barbara Coats and Gladys Hyatt. Dr. C. Angstrom is the cub master while his assistant is Warren Coats.

The Pack is sponsored by the Parent Teachers' Association of School 7. Personnel of the pack committee include Stephen Hyatt, chairman; Howard Whitaker and William Cassidy. Joseph Avis is the representative of the sponsoring group.

With a large gathering of parents and friends of the Cub Scouts, the ceremonies were started with the pledge to the flag. George Matthews, president of the Boy Scout Council, was introduced and the presentation of the pack charter was made by David Mendel, Kingston District vice-chairman.

In making the presentation, Mendel pointed out to the audience and particularly to the den mothers and the men actively concerned with the activity of the Pack that "your only satisfaction from this work will come from seeing these youngsters grow into better boys as they go down the scout trail to better manhood, better citizens, better Americans and to that add the knowledge that in working with youngsters you can stay young yourself much longer."

After presenting the boys with acknowledgements of their advancement, refreshments were served.

Two Arrests Made In Local Mishaps

Two drivers were arrested on minor charges following traffic mishaps in the city yesterday.

Mrs. Sunna Rasch, 27, of 4 Roosevelt Place, Monticello, was arrested by Carl Finch, 50 Wrentham street, on the charge that she passed a stop-sign at O'Neil street and Tremper avenue.

The case was put over until July 3 and Mrs. Rasch said she would obtain counsel when she appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today.

The police report at 11:25 a. m., said that Finch was driving a dump truck north on O'Neil street and the car owned by Donald Rasch, and driven by Mrs. Rasch, was headed south on Tremper avenue when they were in collision. Officer Kenneth Stratton investigated.

Henry Jo Rasch, 11 months old, was taken to Kingston Hospital for an examination and a report today indicated he had suffered no serious injuries.

License Is Produced

Alice Bailey, 34, of Sunset Park, was arrested by Officers Peter Camp and Francis Fagan following the other mishap at 3:47 p. m., at Foxhall and Flatbush avenues, on a charge of driving without a license in her possession.

The license was produced when she appeared before Judge Mino today and the charge was dismissed.

The police report said that Morris Monashefsky, 43 Roosevelt avenue, was headed west out of Flatbush avenue into Foxhall avenue "when his vehicle was in collision" with a car owned by George Bailey, of Sunset Park, and driven by Mrs. Bailey who was headed in a southerly direction on Foxhall avenue and "was turning to the west into Elmendorf street."

Olive Raid Test Termed Successful

The air raid warning siren test conducted in the town of Olive Tuesday night was pronounced very successful by Howard C. Shurter, Ulster County Civil Defense Director, and H. Edgar Timmerman, town director. An alert was sounded on the fire sirens at 7:15 p. m. and the all clear was given at 7:30 p. m. Observers at points a mile and a half to two miles from the fire stations reported the alarm was clearly audible.

When the alert was sounded civil defense members responded, reporting to the fire house at Ashokan. After the all clear signal they were finger printed by Under Sheriff Clayton W. Vredenburgh assisted by Jailor Arthur Brown and Deputy Sheriff Arthur Smith.

Approximately 60 civil defense personnel responded to the test, County Director Shurter stated and he declared the test extremely good. The alert was designed to test the air raid signals and ascertain how well the signals could be heard and also to get out the workers to sign up and be finger printed. Sirens at West Shokan and Ashokan were audible throughout the area, Director Shurter stated.

Cub Pack 13

Members of Pack 13, Cub Pack, were officially received into scouting circles during an installation service Tuesday night at the Elks Club.

The latest addition to the Boy Scout organization has 27 Cub Scouts under the den mother supervision of the Mmes. Ellen Angstrom, Barbara Coats and Gladys Hyatt. Dr. C. Angstrom is the cub master while his assistant is Warren Coats.

The Pack is sponsored by the Parent Teachers' Association of School 7. Personnel of the pack committee include Stephen Hyatt, chairman; Howard Whitaker and William Cassidy. Joseph Avis is the representative of the sponsoring group.

With a large gathering of parents and friends of the Cub Scouts, the ceremonies were started with the pledge to the flag. George Matthews, president of the Boy Scout Council, was introduced and the presentation of the pack charter was made by David Mendel, Kingston District vice-chairman.

In making the presentation, Mendel pointed out to the audience and particularly to the den mothers and the men actively concerned with the activity of the Pack that "your only satisfaction from this work will come from seeing these youngsters grow into better boys as they go down the scout trail to better manhood, better citizens, better Americans and to that add the knowledge that in working with youngsters you can stay young yourself much longer."

After presenting the boys with acknowledgements of their advancement, refreshments were served.

The case was put over until July 3 and Mrs. Rasch said she would obtain counsel when she appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today.

Olive Raid Test Termed Successful

The air raid warning siren test conducted in the town of Olive Tuesday night was pronounced very successful by Howard C. Shurter, Ulster County Civil Defense Director, and H. Edgar Timmerman, town director. An alert was sounded on the fire sirens at 7:15 p. m. and the all clear was given at 7:30 p. m. Observers at points a mile and a half to two miles from the fire stations reported the alarm was clearly audible.

When the alert was sounded civil defense members responded, reporting to the fire house at Ashokan. After the all clear signal they were finger printed by Under Sheriff Clayton W. Vredenburgh assisted by Jailor Arthur Brown and Deputy Sheriff Arthur Smith.

Approximately 60 civil defense personnel responded to the test, County Director Shurter stated and he declared the test extremely good. The alert was designed to test the air raid signals and ascertain how well the signals could be heard and also to get out the workers to sign up and be finger printed. Sirens at West Shokan and Ashokan were audible throughout the area, Director Shurter stated.

Father Kills Self With Bridge Leap

Utica, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—A father broke away from his two small children on a bridge near downtown Utica last night and leaped to his death in the State Barge Canal.

Police said Philip P. Gentile, about 34, of Utica, had the children for the day under terms of a separation agreement made with his wife, Lucy.

Several swimmers near the North Genesee street bridge and passersby saw the screaming children, Philip Jr., 12, and Elaine, 9, struggle desperately with their father in an effort to stop him from vaulting a four-foot bridge railing, police said. He plunged 40 feet into 20 feet of water.

The body was recovered.

Police said they could give no reason for Gentile's action.

His mother, Mrs. Mary Gentile, 78, suffered a heart attack when she was informed of her son's death. She was reported in critical condition in St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

Committee Asks Report Approval

Clinton, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—The New York Presbyterian Synod will be asked to approve a report criticizing public demonstrations for Gen. Douglas MacArthur and any "go it alone" policy by the United States in world affairs.

The Social Action Committee of the synod released yesterday a report that also protested the draft of teen-agers for military service and called for an immediate U. S. gift of 2,000,000 tons of grain for India.

The synod, which is holding its annual meeting at Hamilton College will be asked to approve the committee report later this week. About 300 delegates from more than 700 Presbyterian churches are attending.

The committee contended there was "cause for alarm" in the demonstrations for MacArthur, deposed Far Eastern conmmander. It added that the demonstrations indicated the public did not fully realize the traditional American precedence of civilian over military control.

Strong Support Given

The committee's report gave strong support to the United Nations and asserted "the ideal of world community suffers every time the United States elects to go it alone."

It criticized what it termed a tendency to "stigmatize" every compromise as appeasement. It contended compromise was an "inevitable part of negotiations."

In protesting the draft of teen-agers, the committee described "barracks life" as "corrupting to lads of tender years."

Another section of the report praised Senator Kefauver (D.-Tenn.), former head of the U. S. Senate Crime Committee.

The Rev. H. Victor Frelick was elected moderator of the synod for the coming year. He retired Sunday as pastor of the State Street Presbyterian Church, Schenectady. He served in Potsdam before going to Schenectady in 1925.

The Rev. Shelby Brooks, pastor of St. James Church in New York city, the synod's largest Negro church, is chairman of the Social Action committee.

Tornadoes and Rain Hit Over Midwest

(By The Associated Press)

Tornadoes and heavy rain hit wide areas over the midwest last night causing heavy damage.

One woman was killed and five persons injured in a tornado that struck over eastern Minnesota. Fifty homes were damaged and hundreds of trees toppled as the twister swept over Hutchinson, about 45 miles west of Minneapolis. Unofficial damage was estimated at around $500,000.

The Weather Bureau also reported a tornado in southwestern Kansas. Heavy rain fell in some midwest areas, with South Bend, Ind., reporting 2.46 inches in six hours.

Showers continued today from the Great Lakes region southwest to Oklahoma and in eastern Montana. Fair weather was reported in other parts of the country.

The hot weather continued in the far southwest and it was warm and humid over the southern half of the country. The mercury soared to 114 at the Presidio, Tex., yesterday. The coolest area was the northern plains states.

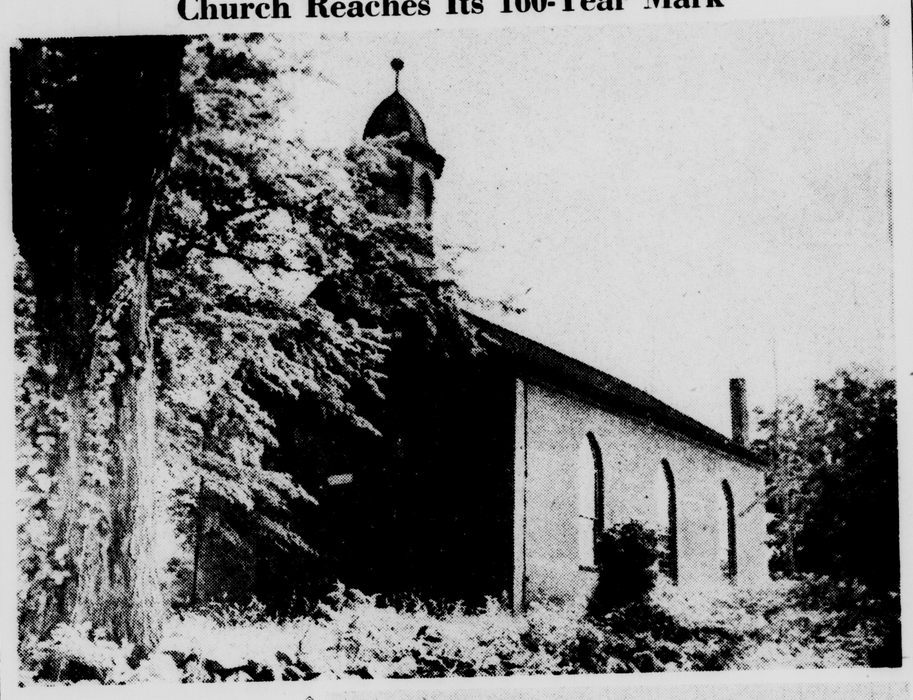
Church Reaches Its 160-Year Mark



160th Anniversary Slated for Ulster Park Congregation

Motorists speeding at their mile-a-minute pace along 9W next Sunday noon may slow down a moment in their hectic race from point of departure to destination along the three-lane concrete ribbon as they pass through Ulster Park. There, beneath a giant maple, with a mellow, red brick church as backdrop, men, women and children will be settling down to box luncheons. It will be a larger crowd than usually, of a Sunday, that spills out of the double arched doors. There will be members of the Port Ewen and St. Remy Reformed Churches, and the Union Center Community Church, come back to honor the mother church on her 160th anniversary.

The Ulster Park Reformed Church, once known as the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church of Klyn Esopus, stands today the third oldest church in the county . . . the second oldest south of Rondout creek. Its organization in 1791, by act of the Classis of Kingston, came when 93 staunch citizens from what was then known as Klyn Esopus and East New Paltz drew up in stilted phrases the following petition:

"Being sensible of our want at this place, and also the danger we and our children are in because of the power of error now prevailing, we, therefore, your humble petitioners, judging it our indispensable duty, which we owe to God, ourselves, and our posterity, to be aiding and extending the borders of Zion, request your approbation and advice for erecting a congregation among us, and pray that the great Lord and Shepherd may bless our endeavors, and gather us into one flock and fold."

Brought Action

The petition brought action, and at a meeting of the Synod of the Dutch Church in Poughkeepsie, June 1, 1790, the Rev. Stephen Goetchius with elders Isaac Blauvelt and Peter DeWitt of New Paltz were appointed to meet with the God fearing men who had penned the petition, effect an organization, and ordain elders and deacons. That meeting, with the Classis of Kingston's benediction, was held Feb. 27, 1791. Members were received, and a consistory chosen. The congregation, it was decided, would be known as the "Low Dutch Church and Congregation of Klyn Esopus."

First Elders

Elders in that first consistory were Solomon Eckert, John DeGraff, Gideon Ostrander, and Garitt Terpening. The four deacons records list as Albetus Schriver, Abram Van Aken, Adam Eckert and Jerry Wooster.

Stone Church

Originally, where the parsonage once stood, an old stone church was erected. Records fail to show what its flaws might have been, but by December 1826 the consistory was eagerly discussing a new house of worship. The following April a site was bought from Joshua and Cornelius Van Aken, in June the action was confirmed, and in September brick was ordered. Brick for a reasonably large church in that golden era came to the seemingly insignificant total of $230.44. Timbers used in the church were cut from the congregation wood lot, part of the original 100-acre land grant which the church was given on authorization by the Kingston Commons.

The red brick Ulster Park Reformed Church, which will be the scene this Sunday of its congregation's 160th anniversary. Members of daughter churches in Port Ewen, St. Remy, and Union Center will attend services there on Sunday. Below is the Rev. Harry E. Christiana, pastor of the church, and his wife. Sunday's anniversary service, starting at 11 a. m., will be conducted by the Rev. John Muilenburg. (Freeman Photos)

Slave Boxes Remain

One feature of the new church was unique. Unlike any of its neighbors, it was supplied with two slave boxes in each corner of the gallery, rigid little enclosures about four feet square, without seats or benches, where the wealthy's servants stood through long Sunday services. Although the building has been remodelled twice, once in 1890, and again in time for the building's centennial celebration in 1927, the slave boxes remain. Also unchanged is the church's outward appearance, which is a fine example of the architecture of the times.

Other Changes

Since the coming of its present pastor, the Rev. Harry E. Christiana, the old woodshed at the church's rear, always an unattractive eyesore, has been torn down, a new electric organ, and a new oil furnace installed. Both were badly needed, and as one elderly member remarked on a particularly cold Sunday last winter:

"It sure is good to be warm. I've frozen in this church for 50 years on winter Sundays."

The Rev. Mr. Christiana, meanwhile, takes a keen interest in the historical aspects of his churches. (He is also pastor of the Port Ewen Reformed congregation.)

"You see," he explains, "although I'm the only son of the church in my family so far as I know, I am a direct descendant of one of the first elders .... that was in 1659 .... of the Old First Reformed Church in Kingston."

The Ulster Park Church's present consistory includes as elders H. V. Story, Holt N. Winfield, Leslie Herring, and J. Hudson Cole. The deacons are Jason Sahler, Donald Herring, John Karag, and Richard Gendreau.

Past Ministers

Among the ministers who have served the church since 1791, (a complete list is not available), have been the Rev. Thomas Gibson Smith, the Rev. Stephen Goetchius, the Rev. Benjamin Van Keuren, the Rev. Abram Forb, the Rev. James MacFarland, the Rev. Wesley Taylor, the Rev. Abram Meyers, the Rev. John Garretson, the Rev. Eugene Hill, the Rev. J. Howard Van Doren, the Rev. H. P. Lyman-Wheaton, the Rev. S. T. Cole, the Rev. D. T. Harris, the Rev. Joseph Millett, the Rev. Cornelius Ostenbrugge, the Rev. George W. Gulick, the Rev. Ralph H. Beaumont, and the Rev. George Berens. Back in the church's early days the consistory once vehemently opposed the appointment of a young dominie of Presbyterian background. His Presbyterianism didn't bother them, but the fact that he couldn't preach in Dutch did.

Next Sunday will not only mark the church's 160th anniversary, but will also be sort of an "old home day" as well. Invitations have been mailed to all former members who have moved away, and to all the church's living pastors. Many, of course, will be unable to come, but for those who do, a really royal welcome is being planned.

Inflation Cheats U. S. Defense, Johnston Says

New York, June 20 (AP)—Demands of defense production will "be tearing gaping holes in the supply of civilian goods" in the next few months, Eric Johnston, economic stabilization administrator, said last night.

Johnston said the cost-of-living index is "rising by the month" and every percentage point increase costs the consumers two billion dollars a year.

He spoke before the commerce and industry division of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, which gave him an award for "distinguished service in the field of human relations."

Inflation has cheated the nation out of seven billion dollars worth of armaments, Johnston said.

He explained that since increased prices had added that amount to the cost of rearming, "we lost $7,000,000,000 worth of munitions as surely as if they had been sunk by a hostile submarine."

Father Kills Self With Bridge Leap

Utica, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—A father broke away from his two small children on a bridge near downtown Utica last night and leaped to his death in the State Barge Canal.

Police said Philip P. Gentile, about 34, of Utica, had the children for the day under terms of a separation agreement made with his wife, Lucy.

Several swimmers near the North Genesee street bridge and passersby saw the screaming children, Philip Jr., 12, and Elaine, 9, struggle desperately with their father in an effort to stop him from vaulting a four-foot bridge railing, police said. He plunged 40 feet into 20 feet of water.

The body was recovered.

Police said they could give no reason for Gentile's action.

His mother, Mrs. Mary Gentile, 78, suffered a heart attack when she was informed of her son's death. She was reported in critical condition in St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

Committee Asks Report Approval

Clinton, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—The New York Presbyterian Synod will be asked to approve a report criticizing public demonstrations for Gen. Douglas MacArthur and any "go it alone" policy by the United States in world affairs.

The Social Action Committee of the synod released yesterday a report that also protested the draft of teen-agers for military service and called for an immediate U. S. gift of 2,000,000 tons of grain for India.

The synod, which is holding its annual meeting at Hamilton College will be asked to approve the committee report later this week. About 300 delegates from more than 700 Presbyterian churches are attending.

The committee contended there was "cause for alarm" in the demonstrations for MacArthur, deposed Far Eastern commmander. It added that the demonstrations indicated the public did not fully realize the traditional American precedence of civilian over military control.

Strong Support Given

The committee's report gave strong support to the United Nations and asserted "the ideal of world community suffers every time the United States elects to go it alone."

It criticized what it termed a tendency to "stigmatize" every compromise as appeasement. It contended compromise was an "inevitable part of negotiations."

In protesting the draft of teen-agers, the committee described "barracks life" as "corrupting to lads of tender years."

Another section of the report praised Senator Kefauver (D.-Tenn.), former head of the U. S. Senate Crime Committee.

The Rev. H. Victor Frelick was elected moderator of the synod for the coming year. He retired Sunday as pastor of the State Street Presbyterian Church, Schenectady. He served in Potsdam before going to Schenectady in 1925.

The Rev. Shelby Brooks, pastor of St. James Church in New York city, the synod's largest Negro church, is chairman of the Social Action committee.

Tornadoes and Rain Hit Over Midwest

(By The Associated Press)

Tornadoes and heavy rain hit wide areas over the midwest last night causing heavy damage.

One woman was killed and five persons injured in a tornado that struck over eastern Minnesota. Fifty homes were damaged and hundreds of trees toppled as the twister swept over Hutchinson, about 45 miles west of Minneapolis. Unofficial damage was estimated at around $500,000.

The Weather Bureau also reported a tornado in southwestern Kansas. Heavy rain fell in some midwest areas, with South Bend, Ind., reporting 2.46 inches in six hours.

Showers continued today from the Great Lakes region southwest to Oklahoma and in eastern Montana. Fair weather was reported in other parts of the country.

The hot weather continued in the far southwest and it was warm and humid over the southern half of the country. The mercury soared to 114 at the Presidio, Tex., yesterday. The coolest area was the northern plains states.

Church Reaches Its 160-Year Mark

160th Anniversary Slated for Ulster Park Congregation

Motorists speeding at their mile-a-minute pace along 9W next Sunday noon may slow down a moment in their hectic race from point of departure to destination along the three-lane concrete ribbon as they pass through Ulster Park. There, beneath a giant maple, with a mellow, red brick church as backdrop, men, women and children will be settling down to box luncheons. It will be a larger crowd than usually, of a Sunday, that spills out of the double arched doors. There will be members of the Port Ewen and St. Remy Reformed Churches, and the Union Center Community Church, come back to honor the mother church on her 160th anniversary.

The Ulster Park Reformed Church, once known as the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church of Klyn Esopus, stands today the third oldest church in the county . . . the second oldest south of Rondout creek. Its organization in 1791, by act of the Classis of Kingston, came when 93 staunch citizens from what was then known as Klyn Esopus and East New Paltz drew up in stilted phrases the following petition:

"Being sensible of our want at this place, and also the danger we and our children are in because of the power of error now prevailing, we, therefore, your humble petitioners, judging it our indispensable duty, which we owe to God, ourselves, and our posterity, to be aiding and extending the borders of Zion, request your approbation and advice for erecting a congregation among us, and pray that the great Lord and Shepherd may bless our endeavors, and gather us into one flock and fold."

Brought Action

The petition brought action, and at a meeting of the Synod of the Dutch Church in Poughkeepsie, June 1, 1790, the Rev. Stephen Goetchius with elders Isaac Blauvelt and Peter DeWitt of New Paltz were appointed to meet with the God fearing men who had penned the petition, effect an organization, and ordain elders and deacons. That meeting, with the Classis of Kingston's benediction, was held Feb. 27, 1791. Members were received, and a consistory chosen. The congregation, it was decided, would be known as the "Low Dutch Church and Congregation of Klyn Esopus."

First Elders

Elders in that first consistory were Solomon Eckert, John DeGraff, Gideon Ostrander, and Garitt Terpening. The four deacons records list as Albetus Schriver, Abram Van Aken, Adam Eckert and Jerry Wooster.

Stone Church

Originally, where the parsonage once stood, an old stone church was erected. Records fail to show what its flaws might have been, but by December 1826 the consistory was eagerly discussing a new house of worship. The following April a site was bought from Joshua and Cornelius Van Aken, in June the action was confirmed, and in September brick was ordered. Brick for a reasonably large church in that golden era came to the seemingly insignificant total of $230.44. Timbers used in the church were cut from the congregation wood lot, part of the original 100-acre land grant which the church was given on authorization by the Kingston Commons.

The red brick Ulster Park Reformed Church, which will be the scene this Sunday of its congregation's 160th anniversary. Members of daughter churches in Port Ewen, St. Remy, and Union Center will attend services there on Sunday. Below is the Rev. Harry E. Christiana, pastor of the church, and his wife. Sunday's anniversary service, starting at 11 a. m., will be conducted by the Rev. John Muilenburg. (Freeman Photos)

Slave Boxes Remain

One feature of the new church was unique. Unlike any of its neighbors, it was supplied with two slave boxes in each corner of the gallery, rigid little enclosures about four feet square, without seats or benches, where the wealthy's servants stood through long Sunday services. Although the building has been remodelled twice, once in 1890, and again in time for the building's centennial celebration in 1927, the slave boxes remain. Also unchanged is the church's outward appearance, which is a fine example of the architecture of the times.

Other Changes

Since the coming of its present pastor, the Rev. Harry E. Christiana, the old woodshed at the church's rear, always an unattractive eyesore, has been torn down, a new electric organ, and a new oil furnace installed. Both were badly needed, and as one elderly member remarked on a particularly cold Sunday last winter:

"It sure is good to be warm. I've frozen in this church for 50 years on winter Sundays."

The Rev. Mr. Christiana, meanwhile, takes a keen interest in the historical aspects of his churches. (He is also pastor of the Port Ewen Reformed congregation.)

"You see," he explains, "although I'm the only son of the church in my family so far as I know, I am a direct descendant of one of the first elders .... that was in 1659 .... of the Old First Reformed Church in Kingston."

Past Ministers

Among the ministers who have served the church since 1791, (a complete list is not available), have been the Rev. Thomas Gibson Smith, the Rev. Stephen Goetchius, the Rev. Benjamin Van Keuren, the Rev. Abram Forb, the Rev. James MacFarland, the Rev. Wesley Taylor, the Rev. Abram Meyers, the Rev. John Garretson, the Rev. Eugene Hill, the Rev. J. Howard Van Doren, the Rev. H. P. Lyman-Wheaton, the Rev. S. T. Cole, the Rev. D. T. Harris, the Rev. Joseph Millett, the Rev. Cornelius Ostenbrugge, the Rev. George W. Gulick, the Rev. Ralph H. Beaumont, and the Rev. George Berens. Back in the church's early days the consistory once vehemently opposed the appointment of a young dominie of Presbyterian background. His Presbyterianism didn't bother them, but the fact that he couldn't preach in Dutch did.

Next Sunday will not only mark the church's 160th anniversary, but will also be sort of an "old home day" as well. Invitations have been mailed to all former members who have moved away, and to all the church's living pastors. Many, of course, will be unable to come, but for those who do, a really royal welcome is being planned.

Inflation Cheats U. S. Defense, Johnston Says

New York, June 20 (AP)—Demands of defense production will "be tearing gaping holes in the supply of civilian goods" in the next few months, Eric Johnston, economic stabilization administrator, said last night.

Johnston said the cost-of-living index is "rising by the month" and every percentage point increase costs the consumers two billion dollars a year.

He spoke before the commerce and industry division of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, which gave him an award for "distinguished service in the field of human relations."

Inflation has cheated the nation out of seven billion dollars worth of armaments, Johnston said.

He explained that since increased prices had added that amount to the cost of rearming, "we lost $7,000,000,000 worth of munitions as surely as if they had been sunk by a hostile submarine."

RoadsideDevelopment Is Topic for Little Gardens Meeting

Mrs. Everett Hewes of Hudson, third district director of the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State, addressed the Little Gardens Club at its June 12 meeting on the topic, Roadside Development. The group met at the home of Miss Ruth Waterbury in West Hurley.

Mrs. Hewes stressed control of billboards, which not only hide scenery, but are also a hazard.

"Try to influence farmer against erecting them," she said, "since they receive only a small income from the rental space."

Mrs. Hewes then called on Mrs. Henry Staley, past third district director, to give her views. Mrs. Staley reminded members that both Senator Wicks and Senator Desmond strongly favor the roadside development project, and advised that the protection of flowers and plants be taken care of by each county chairman. Chairman for the Little Gardens Club is Mrs. Arthur Quimby.

Mrs. Staley also said that she felt it is important to retain the beauty of environment for our children and grandchildren, and stressed particularly the protection of bittersweet.

It was announced that in the School in Flower Judging, held recently in Poughkeepsie, which many of the group attended, 80 persons took the course, and 60 persons the examinations.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served.

CHURCH WITH TWO MAIN AISLES

A reader says she is completely confused about planning a wedding in a church with no center aisle; "None of the rules I know seem to fit."

In a church with two main aisles, all of the seats on the right aisle belong to the bride's family and guests. The left aisle belongs to the bridegroom's family and guests. The bride's mother is seated in the front pew at the left (as always) of the bride's aisle—exactly as she would be in a center-aisle church. The bridegroom's mother occupies the front pew on the right of the groom's aisle (also as always). For the processional, the bride's (right) aisle is chosen. After the ceremony, the bride and groom come down the groom's (left) aisle.

Addressing Card of Sympathy

Dear Mrs. Post: Should a card of sympathy be addressed to the wife only if it is her father who passed away (a) when she is a personal friend and (b) when her husband is the better known of the two?

Answer: In both cases it is usual to write to her alone. But if you happen to be a great friend of the husband's and know the wife only slightly, it will be proper to write to him, asking him to give your sympathy to her.

Clearing Table for Dessert

Dear Mrs. Post: How much should be taken off the table when it is cleared for dessert? Is it improper to leave on the salts and peppers.

Answer: The saltcellars, pepper pots and all flat silver—except that to be used for dessert—are taken off. The crumbs are then brushed off with a tightly folded napkin onto the serving tray held under the table's edge.

Reception Should Be Mentioned

Dear Mrs. Post: Even though the reception is taking place at the church, shouldn't an invitation be included?

Answer: Information should be included at the end of the church invitation that reception will follow the ceremony. Otherwise many guests would be unprepared to stay.

RoadsideDevelopment Is Topic for Little Gardens Meeting

Mrs. Everett Hewes of Hudson, third district director of the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State, addressed the Little Gardens Club at its June 12 meeting on the topic, Roadside Development. The group met at the home of Miss Ruth Waterbury in West Hurley.

Mrs. Hewes stressed control of billboards, which not only hide scenery, but are also a hazard.

"Try to influence farmer against erecting them," she said, "since they receive only a small income from the rental space."

Mrs. Hewes then called on Mrs. Henry Staley, past third district director, to give her views. Mrs. Staley reminded members that both Senator Wicks and Senator Desmond strongly favor the roadside development project, and advised that the protection of flowers and plants be taken care of by each county chairman. Chairman for the Little Gardens Club is Mrs. Arthur Quimby.

Mrs. Staley also said that she felt it is important to retain the beauty of environment for our children and grandchildren, and stressed particularly the protection of bittersweet.

It was announced that in the School in Flower Judging, held recently in Poughkeepsie, which many of the group attended, 80 persons took the course, and 60 persons the examinations.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served.

CHURCH WITH TWO MAIN AISLES

A reader says she is completely confused about planning a wedding in a church with no center aisle; "None of the rules I know seem to fit."

In a church with two main aisles, all of the seats on the right aisle belong to the bride's family and guests. The left aisle belongs to the bridegroom's family and guests. The bride's mother is seated in the front pew at the left (as always) of the bride's aisle—exactly as she would be in a center-aisle church. The bridegroom's mother occupies the front pew on the right of the groom's aisle (also as always). For the processional, the bride's (right) aisle is chosen. After the ceremony, the bride and groom come down the groom's (left) aisle.

Addressing Card of Sympathy

Dear Mrs. Post: Should a card of sympathy be addressed to the wife only if it is her father who passed away (a) when she is a personal friend and (b) when her husband is the better known of the two?

Answer: In both cases it is usual to write to her alone. But if you happen to be a great friend of the husband's and know the wife only slightly, it will be proper to write to him, asking him to give your sympathy to her.

Clearing Table for Dessert

Dear Mrs. Post: How much should be taken off the table when it is cleared for dessert? Is it improper to leave on the salts and peppers.

Answer: The saltcellars, pepper pots and all flat silver—except that to be used for dessert—are taken off. The crumbs are then brushed off with a tightly folded napkin onto the serving tray held under the table's edge.

Reception Should Be Mentioned

Dear Mrs. Post: Even though the reception is taking place at the church, shouldn't an invitation be included?

Answer: Information should be included at the end of the church invitation that reception will folow the ceremony. Otherwise many guests would be unprepared to stay.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Large Field Seen For Spring Show

Woodstock, June 20—Entries to date for the fifth annual spring horse show of the Woodstock Riding Club to be held Sunday, June 24, are in excess of those received at the same time last year, officials of the club have announced.

Members of the club have been doing hard work at the Ohayo Mt. ring, completing the outside hunter course. Included in the new course are jumps simulating a stone and wood fence and a log barrier.

With the construction almost finished, the refreshment stand has been enlarged and reconstructed in a rustic design by Griffin Herrick, of the club.

It has been announced that the walking horse class has sufficient entries to insure its inclusion in the day's events.

Among the participating riders who have appeared in the Madison Square Garden horse show will be Cayla Hitzig, of Bearsville, and the Misses Nancy Smith and Anne Holden, of New Canaan, Conn.

Familiar to horse show audiences last year, the Harcourt Stables, of Newburgh, Sunnycroft Farms and Southland Farms again will be represented. A tent stable will be provided for the first time on the field for the convenience of out-of-town entries. It is expected that the tent will be erected about Thursday or Friday.

The trophies which will be awarded to the winning entries are now on view at the News Shop in this village. They were exhibited at Montgomery Wards, in Kingston, last week. One of the prizes will be a painting by Edward L. Chase, to be awarded in the hunting class only.

Zaidenberg to Open Exhibit on Friday

Woodstock, June 20—The next exhibition at the Town House, opening Friday, will be comprised of the recent paintings and drawings by Arthur Zaidenberg.

Although he had shown a remarkable talent for drawing as a child, Zaidenberg was not really stimulated until he was 16 when he visited Greenwich Village, at that time the mecca for artists all over the country. After studying at the National Academy of Design, he went on to study at the Beaux Arts in Paris, in Munich, and at the American Academy in Rome.

A one-man show of his paintings was held in New York in 1946, and his etchings and woodcuts are in the permanent collections of both the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York and the Brooklyn Museum.

Last Fund Appeal Made for P-TA Party

Woodstock, June 20—Mrs. Roland d'Albis, chairman of the drive for funds for the Parent-Teacher Association, has made an urgent last-minute plea for donations to insure the success of the party for the graduation class after the exercises Friday night at the Woodstock School.

Members of the P-TA who have planned the gala festivities for the graduates, have completed the arrangements for the event which will wind up the association's activities for this school year.

In recognition of the work done by the P-TA, since its formation last November, Adolph Heckeroth, chairman of the Board of School Trustees, speaking for the trustees said this week that the organization has provided "the missing link between the parents, the teachers and the trustees." He believes that the P-TA has set up a fine working group which has introduced speakers who have enlightened parents as to the problems and aims of education, provided instructive and entertaining programs at the school and in general inspired a fine spirit of cooperation between the school and the home.

GOP Plans Caucus

Woodstock, June 20—A Republican caucus will be held at the Town Hall Saturday at 8 p. m.

Workshop to Open

Woodstock, June 20—The Childrens' Workshop at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen will open Monday, July 2. Included in the program will be arts and crafts and puppet making. Children eligible are those from six to 12 years of age inclusive. Classes will be held on Monday through Thursday, from 10 a. m. to 12 noon. Registrations are now being accepted.

First Group Show

Woodstock, June 20—The first group show of the season will open at the Woodstock Art Gallery Saturday. Paintings, drawings, gouaches, prints and small sculpture will be shown. A memorial exhibition of the work of Dr. Arthur Stoloff will be shown concurrently in the entrance gallery.

Big Fireworks Show Is Scheduled July 1

Woodstock, June 20—A dazzling display of fireworks is being planned for Sunday, July 1, at Dixon's field to the rear of Bark's Service Station on the Bearsville flats, by Woodstock Post, 1026, of the American Legion.

The committee in charge promises that the event will be even larger and more spectacular than last year's display. The huge ground pieces will be placed at a level so that they may be seen by everyone on the field.

Proceeds from the show will be used to carry on the work of the visitation and welfare committees of the local Legion Post. Excessive demands have been made upon the fund not only by the growing number of disabled and ill veterans of previous wars, but from those now returning from Korea and being cared for in government hospitals. Woodstock Post has adopted the fireworks display as a means of raising money for this important work.

Since its inception, the American Legion has maintained a counseling service for ex-service men and women, regardless of their veteran affiliations. They also have provided many luxuries for the hospitalized not furnished by the government such as cigarettes, tobacco, shaving materials, candy, soap, writing paper, socks and other articles. Through the welfare fund, the Legion has given emergency relief to veteran's families.

In cooperation with the state police, the Legion has devised an effective plan for parking, with the cars to be guided to the field where the fireworks were shown last year.

Berryann Installed As New Cub Master

Woodstock, June 20—Last Friday night at the recreation field, Willard Berryann was installed as the new Cub Master, replacing Charles Rapp, who has held the office for the past year. The pack meeting of the Cub Pack 34 was well attended by cubs and a number of their parents.

During the program around the campfire, Dave Carlson held the boys spellbound with his stories until about 9 o'clock.

After the ceremonies and program the cubs consumed a considerable amount of refreshments.

Game Party Planned

Woodstock, June 20—A game and card party will be held in the recreation room of the Dutch Reformed Church Thursday, June 28, at 8 p. m. Refreshments will be served and everyone is invited to attend.

Artists Discuss Series For Summer Lectures

Woodstock, June 20 — At a meeting of the Woodstock Artists Association at the Art Gallery Friday night, a preparatory discussion took place concerning a series of movies on art subjects, lectures and concerts, to be given this summer.

It was announced during the meeting that last year's Art Conference in Woodstock will be the subject of a publication to be released some time in the future.

Arnold Blanch gave an account of two art conferences he attended while in Florida during the past winter.

Announcement was made that Social Security is now available to working artists whose earnings are above a certain sum each year.

Village Notes

Woodstock, June 20—Miss Joan Braddon, who was graduated this month from St. Lawrence University, Canton, and is now associated with Newsweek Magazine, New York, spent the week-end at her parents' home in Wittenberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Perkins, Jr., who have been visiting Mr. Perkins' parents, since their return from St. Augustine, Fla., have gone to Red Bank, N. J., to reside.

Ulster Garden Club Meets in New Paltz

Members of the Ulster Garden Club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jay LeFevre, New Paltz, where they heard a program on roses, which are at the height of their season now, given by Mrs. Clark Reed of Saugerties.

Prior to the program, members of the club who had attended the annual meeting of the Garden Club of America in New York, and those who had met with the eastern zone in Bedford Hills, gave brief reports. Reports were also given by members who made a garden tour of Millbrook last week.

During her talk Mrs. Reed gave a detailed description of rose planting and care. Her talk was effectively illustrated by the beauty of Mrs. LeFevre's own rose garden.

Also in illustration of the day's theme many members also brought their own rose arrangements to the meeting. First prize went to Miss Helen Sheldon, while Mrs. William Boyd of Woodstock took second and third place.

At the same meeting Mrs. Robert Moseley of this city was welcomed as a new member.

Following the meeting tea was served, with Mrs. Richard Thibaut, Sr., and Mrs. Gerard Betz pouring.

Shawangunk Garden Club to Hold Show

The Shawangunk Garden Club of Ellenville will present its annual flower show at the Dutch Reformed Church in that village Wednesday, June 27, from 3 to 9:30 p. m., it was announced today. The theme for this year's show will be Within the Home, with many interesting classifications represented. Among them will be a horticulture class, a children's class, a miscellaneous class open to men, and several artistic arrangements illustrating the use of flowers and containers in the home.

During the show all types of plants, seeds, and flowers for both indoor, and outdoor gardeners will be sold. Tea will be served in the evening, and punch in the afternoon.

The show, to which the public and all garden enthusiasts are invited, will be admission free. Donations for the benefit of the Veteran's Memorial Hospital, and the community, will be gratefully received.

Sunday Bride

Mrs. Richard Pearson, the former Ann Marie Roth, who was married here in the Old First Reformed Church Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Pearson will make their home in Mt. Marion. (Pennington Photo)

Miss Ann Marie Roth Is Married Here Sunday Afternoon to Richard Pearson

Miss Ann Marie Roth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor H. Roth, 310 Lucas avenue, and Richard Charles Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pearson, Mt. Marion, were married Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the Old First Reformed Church, this city. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of that congregation.

Donald Romme, minister of music at the church, was organist, and Chase Page was soloist. Mr. Page sang I Love Thee, Because, and The Lord's Prayer. The church was trimmed with snapdragons and candles.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a medieval period gown of imported organdy, embroidered with crystal beads, and cut with a Peter Pan collar and a cathedral train. Her seed pearl embroidered headpiece secured a silk illusion veil, and she wore short, white fingerless mitts. For flowers she carried a bouquet of white talisman rosebuds, and white carnations.

Mrs. David Snell of 45 Wrentham street, twin sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Snell's gown was of the same period design, with a Peter Pan collar. It was made of white organdy over blue taffeta. She wore short nylon gloves, pink talisman rosebuds in lieu of a hat, and carried a matching bouquet of rosebuds and pink carnations.

Other attendants were Mrs. Richard V. Roth of 15 Dunneman avenue, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Richard Van Bramer of 302 Washington avenue, cousin of the bride. Their flowers, headpieces, and gowns were of the same design as that of the matron of honor, and were made of white organdy over yellow taffeta.

Justin Pearson of Mt. Marion was best man for his brother. Charles Pearson, Jr., Mt. Marion, brother of the groom, and Richard V. Roth, this city, brother of the bride, ushered.

A reception was held at the bride's home immediately following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Pearson then left for a wedding trip through the New England states. For traveling the bride wore a dusty pink linen suit with black accessories. Upon their return the couple will make their home in Mt. Marion.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of '48, and is employed in the business office of the Adirondack Transit Lines, this city.

Mr. Pearson was graduated from Kingston High School with the class of '43, and is employed at the Kingston Daily Freeman.

First Group Show

Woodstock, June 20—The first group show of the season will open at the Woodstock Art Gallery Saturday. Paintings, drawings, gouaches, prints and small sculpture will be shown. A memorial exhibition of the work of Dr. Arthur Stoloff will be shown concurrently in the entrance gallery.

Big Fireworks Show Is Scheduled July 1

Woodstock, June 20—A dazzling display of fireworks is being planned for Sunday, July 1, at Dixon's field to the rear of Bark's Service Station on the Bearsville flats, by Woodstock Post, 1026, of the American Legion.

The committee in charge promises that the event will be even larger and more spectacular than last year's display. The huge ground pieces will be placed at a level so that they may be seen by everyone on the field.

Proceeds from the show will be used to carry on the work of the visitation and welfare committees of the local Legion Post. Excessive demands have been made upon the fund not only by the growing number of disabled and ill veterans of previous wars, but from those now returning from Korea and being cared for in government hospitals. Woodstock Post has adopted the fireworks display as a means of raising money for this important work.

Since its inception, the American Legion has maintained a counseling service for ex-service men and women, regardless of their veteran affiliations. They also have provided many luxuries for the hospitalized not furnished by the government such as cigarettes, tobacco, shaving materials, candy, soap, writing paper, socks and other articles. Through the welfare fund, the Legion has given emergency relief to veteran's families.

In cooperation with the state police, the Legion has devised an effective plan for parking, with the cars to be guided to the field where the fireworks were shown last year.

Berryann Installed As New Cub Master

Woodstock, June 20—Last Friday night at the recreation field, Willard Berryann was installed as the new Cub Master, replacing Charles Rapp, who has held the office for the past year. The pack meeting of the Cub Pack 34 was well attended by cubs and a number of their parents.

During the program around the campfire, Dave Carlson held the boys spellbound with his stories until about 9 o'clock.

After the ceremonies and program the cubs consumed a considerable amount of refreshments.

Game Party Planned

Woodstock, June 20—A game and card party will be held in the recreation room of the Dutch Reformed Church Thursday, June 28, at 8 p. m. Refreshments will be served and everyone is invited to attend.

Artists Discuss Series For Summer Lectures

Woodstock, June 20 — At a meeting of the Woodstock Artists Association at the Art Gallery Friday night, a preparatory discussion took place concerning a series of movies on art subjects, lectures and concerts, to be given this summer.

It was announced during the meeting that last year's Art Conference in Woodstock will be the subject of a publication to be released some time in the future.

Arnold Blanch gave an account of two art conferences he attended while in Florida during the past winter.

Announcement was made that Social Security is now available to working artists whose earnings are above a certain sum each year.

Ulster Garden Club Meets in New Paltz

Members of the Ulster Garden Club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jay LeFevre, New Paltz, where they heard a program on roses, which are at the height of their season now, given by Mrs. Clark Reed of Saugerties.

Prior to the program, members of the club who had attended the annual meeting of the Garden Club of America in New York, and those who had met with the eastern zone in Bedford Hills, gave brief reports. Reports were also given by members who made a garden tour of Millbrook last week.

During her talk Mrs. Reed gave a detailed description of rose planting and care. Her talk was effectively illustrated by the beauty of Mrs. LeFevre's own rose garden.

Also in illustration of the day's theme many members also brought their own rose arrangements to the meeting. First prize went to Miss Helen Sheldon, while Mrs. William Boyd of Woodstock took second and third place.

At the same meeting Mrs. Robert Moseley of this city was welcomed as a new member.

Following the meeting tea was served, with Mrs. Richard Thibaut, Sr., and Mrs. Gerard Betz pouring.

Shawangunk Garden Club to Hold Show

The Shawangunk Garden Club of Ellenville will present its annual flower show at the Dutch Reformed Church in that village Wednesday, June 27, from 3 to 9:30 p. m., it was announced today. The theme for this year's show will be Within the Home, with many interesting classifications represented. Among them will be a horticulture class, a children's class, a miscellaneous class open to men, and several artistic arrangements illustrating the use of flowers and containers in the home.

During the show all types of plants, seeds, and flowers for both indoor and outdoor gardeners will be sold. Tea will be served in the evening, and punch in the afternoon.

The show, to which the public and all garden enthusiasts are invited, will be admission free. Donations for the benefit of the Veteran's Memorial Hospital, and the community, will be gratefully received.

Sunday Bride

Miss Ann Marie Roth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor H. Roth, 310 Lucas avenue, and Richard Charles Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pearson, Mt. Marion, were married Sunday at 2:30 p. m. in the Old First Reformed Church, this city. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of that congregation.

Donald Romme, minister of music at the church, was organist, and Chase Page was soloist. Mr. Page sang I Love Thee, Because, and The Lord's Prayer. The church was trimmed with snapdragons and candles.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a medieval period gown of imported organdy, embroidered with crystal beads, and cut with a Peter Pan collar and a cathedral train. Her seed pearl embroidered headpiece secured a silk illusion veil, and she wore short, white fingerless mitts. For flowers she carried a bouquet of white talisman rosebuds, and white carnations.

Mrs. David Snell of 45 Wrentham street, twin sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Snell's gown was of the same period design, with a Peter Pan collar. It was made of white organdy over blue taffeta. She wore short nylon gloves, pink talisman rosebuds in lieu of a hat, and carried a matching bouquet of rosebuds and pink carnations.

Other attendants were Mrs. Richard V. Roth of 15 Dunneman avenue, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Richard Van Bramer of 202 Washington avenue, cousin of the bride. Their flowers, headpieces, and gowns were of the same design as that of the matron of honor, and were made of white organdy over yellow taffeta.

Justin Pearson of Mt. Marion was best man for his brother, Charles Pearson, Jr., Mt. Marion, brother of the groom, and Richard V. Roth, this city, brother of the bride, ushered.

A reception was held at the bride's home immediately following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Pearson then left for a wedding trip through the New England states. For traveling the bride wore a dusty pink linen suit with black accessories. Upon their return the couple will make their home in Mt. Marion.

The bride is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of '48, and is employed in the business office of the Adirondack Transit Lines, this city.

Mr. Pearson was graduated from Kingston High School with the class of '43, and is employed at the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Colonials Open Five-Day Stand With Twinbill Against Pittsfield

Seeley, Canepa To Take Mound On 'Orchid Night'

First 200 Women Fans To Receive Flowers

It's orchids for milady in tonight's twilight-night doubleheader against the powerful Pittsfield Electrics at municipal stadium, with the first game scheduled at 6:30 p. m.

The first 200 women entering the park will receive a beautiful orchid flown to Kingston from Honolulu.

Rome Sweeps Series

The Rome Colonels struck early and often again last night to down the Colonials 10 to 5 and sweep the two-game set.

Highspots for Kingston were Lou Kramberg's fourth homer of the season with one aboard in the fourth and Joel Kern's four hits in five trips, including a triple.

Charlie Ayers' wildness gave the Colonels considerable comfort. He permitted only seven hits in nearly eight innings but walked ten men. When he forced in three men with successive walks in the eighth, he was lifted in favor of southpaw Dick Connors.

Kingston collected 10 hits off Dan Kiburis, who walked six and fanned seven. A five-run second inning gave the Rome righthander a comfortable working margin. A couple of hits, two walks, an error and Forrest Samson's homer accounted for the runs.

Kern and Kramberg landed a solid one-two punch on Kiburis for two Kingston markers in the fourth. Kern tripled to the right field corner and Kramberg blasted a 365-foot homer over the centerfield fence.

A brace of walks and Tony Gomez's single to right reduced the count to 7-3 in the sixth. Three hits and a couple of walks prodded two Colonial markers across in the ninth.

Jones Busy

General Manager Addison Jones reported this morning he had been burning up the long distance wires trying to land player help and a veteran player manager.

Jones said the Kingston Baseball Club, Inc. officials are highly satisfied with player-manager Joel Kern's work since he replaced Hank Camelli but they feel that it is an injustice to a fine, young prospect to saddle him with managerial duties.

Colonial fans will see a new third sacker in Duke Groce, ex-House of David Negro third sacker, who is touted as a flashy fielder. The newcomer, however, has been hitless in two games since joining the club.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

The Oneonta Red Sox managed to keep their half-game lead over the Pittsfield Electrics in the Canadian-American League last night, but it was a tight squeeze.

The Sox slipped the winning tally across in the ninth inning to edge the Gloversville Glovers, 6-5. Pittsfield had little trouble defeating the third-place Amsterdam Rugmakers, 5-1.

At Rome, the Colonels handed the Kingston Colonials their 38th loss of the season, against seven wins. The score was 10-5.

At Oneonta, third baseman Archie Getgen led off with a double in the ninth inning to set up the winning run. Arnie Spence was walked intentionally, Johnny Minarcin beat out an infield single to load the sacks, and Bill Kahler hit to second for a fielder's choice that enabled Getgen to beat the throw to the plate.

Third baseman Dick Zack was Pittsfield's hero at Amsterdam. He banged a homer in the fourth with none on. Then his triple in the sixth sent home the tie-breaking tally. The Electrics added three more in the eighth for insurance.

Gasoline Price War Is Reported In Buffalo Area

Buffalo, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—Buffalo motorists were buying bargain gasoline today as a result of a price war among a number of city and suburban dealers.

Regular gasoline was selling at 23 cents to 23.7 cents at many stations. The regular price is 26 to 26½ cents.

One dealer estimated one-fourth of the 600 stations in the area were involved in the war.

The Buffalo and Suburban Gasoline Retailers Association set up pickets at a few of the stations which had cut their prices.

A city ordinance bans large price signs from being displayed on the premises of the station.

A number of dealers got around this by putting signs on trucks and parking them at curbs near the stations.

One sign said "Macy Did It—Gimbel Did It—We're Doing It." Another read "Stop—Save—Look At Our Low Pump Prices."

City Board Wins

New York, June 20 (AP)—The City Board of Education won a State Supreme Court battle yesterday in the dispute over its right to assign teachers to extra-curricular duty. Supreme Court Justice Philip M. Kleinfeld of Brooklyn refused to order the board to rescind its resolution of May 24, which gave principals the right to assign teachers to after-school work. The court order had been sought by Local 2 of the New York Teachers Guild (AFL). The dispute began more than 14 months ago, when teachers discontinued all extra-curricular activities—such as supervision of school clubs and the coaching of plays and athletics—in order to press their demand for higher wages. Last month the board ordered the teachers to resume extra-curricular work.

Hooked Big One

The largest fish ever caught with rod and line was brought in by Zane Grey, the famed author. It was a spiked marlin swordfish, which weighed 1,040 pounds, and was caught near Tahiti in 1930.

Wiltwycks' Healey Hurls One-Hitter in Twi Loop

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

● The Nineteenth Hole:

Golfers of the week: Ben Hogan, John D. Schoonmaker, Jr., Charles J. "Jimmy" Turck and George Hughes.

Hogan climbed among the all-time immortals with his third straight U. S. Open crown at Oakland Hills. Schoonmaker shot the best competitive round of his career, a sizzling 83 in the Twaalfskill-Wiltwyck inter-club. And it couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

Turck took the Twaalfskill fairways apart with a nine-hole score of 35 and rounds of 76 and 79. This was pretty fair shooting for a young man who only recently moved out of the "90" bracket.

● Hughes in Sensational Streak:

Let's examine George Hughes' exploits during the past few days and see what he accomplished. First, he aced Twaalfskill's No. 2 hole for the first hole-in-one in his career. He did it with a seven-iron shot in a threesome with Alvie and Bob Boice. Hughes' ace was born the second time around in a 13-hole match. His card showed 3-1-3-3 for a total of 10 on the first four holes at Twaalfskill. Sunday afternoon, he was even hotter with a 35-30—65 card that threatened the all-time course record of 63 held by Harry Burns. He bogied the long No. 5 going out and birdied No. 7. Then he wrapped up the first four holes second time around in the same total of 10 but this time by 3-2-3-2 and got the inevitable birdie-4 on the No. 7. He missed a two and a half foot putt on the 18th green for a new record. The sweetest swinging young golfer in town, Georgie will be a big threat for the Twaalfskill and city crowns.

● Divots and Duffers:

Forty-two of the better players at each club participated in the inter-club and only eight broke "80." The under-80 shooters included Dick Davenport and The Phantom 73s; Leon Randall 74, George Hughes 75, Maurice Davenport 77, Alvin Boice 78 in somewhat weird fashion of 42-36; J. Watson Bailey, "Little Mr. Big" of the 1951 Wiltwyck season with 78 and Jimmy Turck with 79. Although the splitting of the players into two groups for the first time helped speed up play, there were still a few grumbles. Frankly, we think the only way to satisfy everybody is to put all the foursomes on one course and lock it up for six hours, if that is possible. Otherwise, the members of both clubs will have to learn to approach the inter-club with an open mind and be prepared to spend a few minutes on each tee, especially the second time around. The inter-club is important enough to demand that little extra patience from every player, we think. Incidentally, Floyd Flint and Dr. Fred Holcomb did a terrific job with the pairings and the multiple details connected wtih the tournament.

Mrs. Joseph McNelis phones in and asks us to remind all you good Wiltwyckians about the big card party on Thursday, June 28. Don't miss this big event of the season.

Jimmy Demaret's sharp wit is legendary in the big time golf circuit and he was never any sharper than the day we heard him deliver the lecture at the Palm Beach tournament clinic at Wykagyl in New Rochelle. That was the day, incidentally, we introduced Pete Keresman to the mysteries of golf and he liked it immensely, so much so that he immediately began asking prices on clubs.

Pointing to corpulent Ed "Porky" Oliver, fashion-plate Jimmy said: Ed plays a nice game, but he's surrounded by circumference." In an aside to Jack Burke, Jr., who failed to qualify for the U. S. Open, he quipped, "This guy has been the boy wonder for about 10 years now." And: "We're going to miss you little Jack out in Detroit next week." Explaining Ben Hogan's absence, Demaret said: "That's what Jack (Burke) and me are looking for since Ben got that settlement from the insurance company. Just a nice little, soft Greyhound bus we can ram into on a nice clear day."

"Do you think anybody will beat Ben?" Wismer asked Demaret.

"Not unless they play on some other course," was Jimmy's smart rejoinder.

The paths of reading too many technical manuals and golf books lead but to the home club pro. Right where you belong when your game needs help.

Chezzies led 5-2 going into the last of the seventh and Ben Freer had completely throttled the Legion power until they raked him for five hits in the winning rally. George Glaser pounded a double and triple for the losers and Dan McGrane had two of the nine Chez safeties off Bill Ferguson.

Enright Stops Hoppeys

Auerbach's triple for Hoppey's was the lone extra base blow of the contest. Basch, Coughlin and Graves contributed defensive gems for Beichert's, while Morse starred afield for the losers.

Duke's sliced a 12-0 Barclay lead with a 10-run barrage in the third and then went on to hand the hapless Knitwear brigade its eighth straight loss, 14 to 13 in extra innings.

No hit totals were reported but Cohen slapped a homer for Barclay's and Dave Ashdown had a double and two singles for the Dukes. Sweeney and Hutton rapped doubles and Andy Petruski and Joe Perry hit for three bases. Carlo Perry got the decision in relief for Duke's.

Hooker Hits Three

Leroy Hooker solved his brother, George Hooker's pitching for three hits to lead Sickler's Delivery in their 11-6 rout of Central Lunch. Jack Kozlowski was the winning pitcher.

Bill Sinsapaugh and Jake Smith hit doubles for Sickler's and Moll Leonard hit two singles. John Mooney hit safely twice for the lunch room boys.

Veteran Walt Bigler gave Subway Grill four-hit pitching and the perennial powerhouse flashed old time form to crush Jesse's Tavern, 13 to 3.

The Subways collected 11 hits off Charlie Dasher and H. Williams, including a triple by Jack Deegan and Ken Hornbeck's double. Ed Dasher poled a three bagger for the losers. The fielding gem of the game was Fred Orr's great catch on Clayton Stalter's bid for a triple.

No Reservation for Them

When most of the Seminole Indians were moved to reservations in Oklahoma at the end of the Seminole wars of 1842, between 50 and 75 hid in the swamp and were left behind. These have increased to more than 500, according to estimates, and Florida provided them with a large reservation in the Everglades in 1917.

Beats Ferraro's 3-0 for Fourth Motor Victory

Tiano's Hit in Sixth Ruins No-Hit Chance

Big Bill Relyea, a strapping new Wiltwyck Motors mound importation, lost a no-hitter in the sixth inning of yesterday's City League fracas with Ferraro's Bowlodrome, when Big Ralph Tiano lined a solid single to left center.

But the big fellow saved his shutout, as the Motormen moved to within a half game of the pace setting Chez Emile with a 4-1 record.

Relyea had to be as good as he was to beat Big Jack Watzka, 3 to 0. He walked three, hit a batter and struck out eight. The Motormen backed him with flawless support.

Three batters accounted for the seven hits off Watzka, who walked two and fanned a half dozen. Augie Passante collected three singles and drove in a couple of runs, with Trapani and McCormick each getting a pair.

Good Pitching

With one out in the second, Gus McCormick singled to left, went to third when Jackie Ferrao flubbed Danny Minadeo's topped roller. After retrieving the ball, Ferraro threw wildly trying to pick McCormick off second. Minadeo stole second, Relyea walked to load the bases and Augie Passante delivered the final two runs.

MESSINGER'S MEMOS:

"Hefty" Bill Relyea is the second Wiltwyck flinger to pitch a one-hitter. Canesa opened the season against Morgan's with a one-hit job. . . . Augie Passante's three singles vaulted him into contention for the batting average crown. Tiano and Roberts made nice running catches in the outfield, Tiano crashing into the fence to take Lefty Passante's foul fly to right in the second and Roberts making a fine catch on J. Watzka in the sixth. Wiltwyck Motors can tie Chez Emile for first place if they can get by Old Capital Motors Thursday night.

This and a Dime Will Get Joe Beer

London, June 20 (AP)—Joe Louis was declared heavyweight champion of the world today by the British Boxing Board of Control.

Britain previously had recognized Lee Savold. Louis knocked out Savold, from Englewood, N. J., in the sixth round of their fight last Friday night in New York city.

The rest of the world, including the United States, regards Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati as the world heavyweight champion.

Louis, beaten by Charles last fall, is expected to meet him again in September, probably in Detroit. Charles, meanwhile, has a title fight next month against challenger Jersey Joe Wolcott.

Savold had gotten the token British title by knocking out the pride of England, Bruce Woodcock, in four rounds a year ago this month.

Colonials Open Five-Day Stand With Twinbill Against Pittsfield

Seeley, Canepa To Take Mound On 'Orchid Night'

First 200 Women Fans To Receive Flowers

It's orchids for milady in tonight's twilight-night doubleheader against the powerful Pittsfield Electrics at municipal stadium, with the first game scheduled at 6:30 p. m.

The first 200 women entering the park will receive a beautiful orchid flown to Kingston from Honolulu.

Rome Sweeps Series

The Rome Colonels struck early and often again last night to down the Colonials 10 to 5 and sweep the two-game set.

Highspots for Kingston were Lou Kramberg's fourth homer of the season with one aboard in the fourth and Joel Kern's four hits in five trips, including a triple.

Charlie Ayers' wildness gave the Colonels considerable comfort. He permitted only seven hits in nearly eight innings but walked ten men. When he forced in three men with successive walks in the eighth, he was lifted in favor of southpaw Dick Connors.

Kingston collected 10 hits off Dan Kiburis, who walked six and fanned seven. A five-run second inning gave the Rome righthander a comfortable working margin. A couple of hits, two walks, an error and Forrest Samson's homer accounted for the runs.

Kern and Kramberg landed a solid one-two punch on Kiburis for two Kingston markers in the fourth. Kern tripled to the right field corner and Kramberg blasted a 365-foot homer over the centerfield fence.

A brace of walks and Tony Gomez's single to right reduced the count to 7-3 in the sixth. Three hits and a couple of walks prodded two Colonial markers across in the ninth.

Jones Busy

General Manager Addison Jones reported this morning he had been burning up the long distance wires trying to land player help and a veteran player manager.

Jones said the Kingston Baseball Club, Inc. officials are highly satisfied with player-manager Joel Kern's work since he replaced Hank Camelli but they feel that it is an injustice to a fine, young prospect to saddle him with managerial duties.

Colonial fans will see a new third sacker in Duke Groce, ex-House of David Negro third sacker, who is touted as a flashy fielder. The newcomer, however, has been hitless in two games since joining the club.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

The Oneonta Red Sox managed to keep their half-game lead over the Pittsfield Electrics in the Canadian-American League last night, but it was a tight squeeze.

The Sox slipped the winning tally across in the ninth inning to edge the Gloversville Glovers, 6-5. Pittsfield had little trouble defeating the third-place Amsterdam Rugmakers, 5-1.

At Rome, the Colonels handed the Kingston Colonials their 38th loss of the season, against seven wins. The score was 10-5.

At Oneonta, third baseman Archie Getgen led off with a double in the ninth inning to set up the winning run. Arnie Spence was walked intentionally, Johnny Minarcin beat out an infield single to load the sacks, and Bill Kahler hit to second for a fielder's choice that enabled Getgen to beat the throw to the plate.

Third baseman Dick Zack was Pittsfield's hero at Amsterdam. He banged a homer in the fourth with none on. Then his triple in the sixth sent home the tie-breaking tally. The Electrics added three more in the eighth for insurance.

Gasoline Price War Is Reported In Buffalo Area

Buffalo, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—Buffalo motorists were buying bargain gasoline today as a result of a price war among a number of city and suburban dealers.

Regular gasoline was selling at 23 cents to 23.7 cents at many stations. The regular price is 26 to 26½ cents.

One dealer estimated one-fourth of the 600 stations in the area were involved in the war.

The Buffalo and Suburban Gasoline Retailers Association set up pickets at a few of the stations which had cut their prices.

A city ordinance bans large price signs from being displayed on the premises of the station.

A number of dealers got around this by putting signs on trucks and parking them at curbs near the stations.

One sign said "Macy Did It—Gimbel Did It—We're Doing It." Another read "Stop—Save—Look At Our Low Pump Prices."

City Board Wins

New York, June 20 (AP)—The City Board of Education won a State Supreme Court battle yesterday in the dispute over its right to assign teachers to extra-curricular duty. Supreme Court Justice Philip M. Kleinfeld of Brooklyn refused to order the board to rescind its resolution of May 24, which gave principals the right to assign teachers to after-school work. The court order had been sought by Local 2 of the New York Teachers Guild (AFL). The dispute began more than 14 months ago, when teachers discontinued all extra-curricular activities—such as supervision of school clubs and the coaching of plays and athletics—in order to press their demand for higher wages. Last month the board ordered the teachers to resume extra-curricular work.

Wiltwycks' Healey Hurls One-Hitter in Twi Loop

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

• The Nineteenth Hole:

Golfers of the week: Ben Hogan, John D. Schoonmaker, Jr., Charles J. "Jimmy" Turck and George Hughes.

Hogan climbed among the all-time immortals with his third straight U. S. Open crown at Oakland Hills. Schoonmaker shot the best competitive round of his career, a sizzling 83 in the Twaalfskill-Wiltwyck inter-club. And it couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

Turck took the Twaalfskill fairways apart with a nine-hole score of 35 and rounds of 76 and 79. This was pretty fair shooting for a young man who only recently moved out of the "90" bracket.

• Hughes in Sensational Streak:

Let's examine George Hughes' exploits during the past few days and see what he accomplished. First, he aced Twaalfskill's No. 2 hole for the first hole-in-one in his career. He did it with a seven-iron shot in a threesome with Alvie and Bob Boice. Hughes' ace was born the second time around in a 13-hole match. His card showed 3-1-3-3 for a total of 10 on the first four holes at Twaalfskill. Sunday afternoon, he was even hotter with a 35-30—65 card that threatened the all-time course record of 63 held by Harry Burns. He bogied the long No. 5 going out and birdied No. 7. Then he wrapped up the first four holes second time around in the same total of 10 but this time by 3-2-3-2 and got the inevitable birdie-4 on the No. 7. He missed a two and a half foot putt on the 18th green for a new record. The sweetest swinging young golfer in town, Georgie will be a big threat for the Twaalfskill and city crowns.

• Divots and Duffers:

Forty-two of the better players at each club participated in the inter-club and only eight broke "80." The under-80 shooters included Dick Davenport and The Phantom 73s; Leon Randall 74, George Hughes 75, Maurice Davenport 77, Alvin Boice 78 in somewhat weird fashion of 42-36; J. Watson Bailey, "Little Mr. Big" of the 1951 Wiltwyck season with 78 and Jimmy Turck with 79. Although the splitting of the players into two groups for the first time helped speed up play, there were still a few grumbles. Frankly, we think the only way to satisfy everybody is to put all the foursomes on one course and lock it up for six hours, if that is possible. Otherwise, the members of both clubs will have to learn to approach the inter-club with an open mind and be prepared to spend a few minutes on each tee, especially the second time around. The inter-club is important enough to demand that little extra patience from every player, we think. Incidentally, Floyd Flint and Dr. Fred Holcomb did a terrific job with the pairings and the multiple details connected wtih the tournament.

Mrs. Joseph McNelis phones in and asks us to remind all you good Wiltwyckians about the big card party on Thursday, June 28. Don't miss this big event of the season.

Jimmy Demaret's sharp wit is legendary in the big time golf circuit and he was never any sharper than the day we heard him deliver the lecture at the Palm Beach tournament clinic at Wykagyl in New Rochelle. That was the day, incidentally, we introduced Pete Keresman to the mysteries of golf and he liked it immensely, so much so that he immediately began asking prices on clubs.

Pointing to corpulent Ed "Porky" Oliver, fashion-plate Jimmy said: Ed plays a nice game, but he's surrounded by circumference." In an aside to Jack Burke, Jr., who failed to qualify for the U. S. Open, he quipped, "This guy has been the boy wonder for about 10 years now." And: "We're going to miss you little Jack out in Detroit next week." Explaining Ben Hogan's absence, Demaret said: "That's what Jack (Burke) and me are looking for since Ben got that settlement from the insurance company. Just a nice little, soft Greyhound bus we can ram into on a nice clear day."

Harry Wismer was effusive as ever on ABC during the finals of the Open after Ben Hogan appeared safely in with that sensational 67.

"Do you think anybody will beat Ben?" Wismer asked Demaret.

"Not unless they play on some other course," was Jimmy's smart rejoinder.

The paths of reading too many technical manuals and golf books lead but to the home club pro. Right where you belong when your game needs help.

The results left the Studies holding a one-game lead over the Legion in the City Softball League team standings, with Sickler's Delivery two games off the pace.

In other games, Subway Grill tripped Jesse's Tavern, 13 to 3; Duke's outslugged Barclay 14-13 and Sickler's Delivery bumped Central Lunch, 11 to 6.

Angelo Corrado, who rapped four hits in four trips, drove in the winning runs for the Legion against Chez Emile. Cliff Davis contributed an important single during the rally.

Chezzies led 5-2 going into the last of the seventh and Ben Freer had completely throttled the Legion power until they raked him for five hits in the winning rally. George Glaser pounded a double and triple for the losers and Dan McGrane had two of the nine Chez safeties off Bill Ferguson.

Enright Stops Hoppeys

Joe Enright and Wilson pitched four-hit ball in the Beichert-Hoppey thriller. Enright hurled shutout ball after both clubs counted twice in the first frame. Wilson yielded the winning marker in the third.

Auerbach's triple for Hoppey's was the lone extra base blow of the contest. Basch, Coughlin and Graves contributed defensive gems for Beichert's, while Morse starred afield for the losers.

Duke's sliced a 12-0 Barclay lead with a 10-run barrage in the third and then went on to hand the hapless Knitwear brigade its eighth straight loss, 14 to 13 in extra innings.

No hit totals were reported but Cohen slapped a homer for Barclay's and Dave Ashdown had a double and two singles for the Dukes. Sweeney and Hutton rapped doubles and Andy Petruski and Joe Perry hit for three bases. Carlo Perry got the decision in relief for Duke's.

Hooker Hits Three

Leroy Hooker solved his brother, George Hooker's pitching for three hits to lead Sickler's Delivery in their 11-6 rout of Central Lunch. Jack Kozlowski was the winning pitcher.

Bill Sinsapaugh and Jake Smith hit doubles for Sickler's and Moll Leonard hit two singles. John Mooney hit safely twice for the lunch room boys.

Veteran Walt Bigler gave Subway Grill four-hit pitching and the perennial powerhouse flashed old time form to crush Jesse's Tavern, 13 to 3.

The Subways collected 11 hits off Charlie Dasher and H. Williams, including a triple by Jack Deegan and Ken Hornbeck's double. Ed Dasher poled a three bagger for the losers. The fielding gem of the game was Fred Orr's great catch on Clayton Stalter's bid for a triple.

No Reservation for Them

When most of the Seminole Indians were moved to reservations in Oklahoma at the end of the Seminole wars of 1842, between 50 and 75 hid in the swamp and were left behind. These have increased to more than 500, according to estimates, and Florida provided them with a large reservation in the Everglades in 1917.

Beats Ferraro's 3-0 for Fourth Motor Victory

Tiano's Hit in Sixth Ruins No-Hit Chance

Big Bill Relyea, a strapping new Wiltwyck Motors mound importation, lost a no-hitter in the sixth inning of yesterday's City League fracas with Ferraro's Bowlodrome, when Big Ralph Tiano lined a solid single to left center.

But the big fellow saved his shutout, as the Motormen moved to within a half game of the pace setting Chez Emile with a 4-1 record.

Relyea had to be as good as he was to beat Big Jack Watzka, 3 to 0. He walked three, hit a batter and struck out eight. The Motormen backed him with flawless support.

Three batters accounted for the seven hits off Watzka, who walked two and fanned a half dozen. Augie Passante collected three singles and drove in a couple of runs, with Trapani and McCormick each getting a pair.

Good Pitching

Both pitchers hurled scoreless ball after Wiltwycks built up a 3-0 lead in the first two rounds. Passante's single, an error by Cafaldo on Johnny Minadeo's grounder and Ernie Trapani's single to left accounted for a Wiltwyck tally in the first.

With one out in the second, Gus McCormick singled to left, went to third when Jackie Ferrao flubbed Danny Minadeo's topped roller. After retrieving the ball, Ferraro threw wildly trying to pick McCormick off second. Minadeo stole second, Relyea walked to load the bases and Augie Passante delivered the final two runs.

MESSINGER'S MEMOS:

"Hefty" Bill Relyea is the second Wiltwyck flinger to pitch a one-hitter. Canosa opened the season against Morgan's with a one-hit job. . . . Augie Passante's three singles vaulted him into contention for the batting average crown. Tiano and Roberts made nice running catches in the outfield, Tiano crashing into the fence to take Lefty Passante's foul fly to right in the second and Roberts making a fine catch on J. Watzka in the sixth. Wiltwyck Motors can tie Chez Emile for first place if they can get by Old Capital Motors Thursday night.

This and a Dime Will Get Joe Beer

London, June 20 (AP)—Joe Louis was declared heavyweight champion of the world today by the British Boxing Board of Control.

Britain previously had recognized Lee Savold. Louis knocked out Savold, from Englewood, N. J., in the sixth round of their fight last Friday night in New York city.

The rest of the world, including the United States, regards Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati as the world heavyweight champion.

Louis, beaten by Charles last fall, is expected to meet him again in September, probably in Detroit. Charles, meanwhile, has a title fight next month against challenger Jersey Joe Wolcott.

Savold had gotten the token British title by knocking out the pride of England, Bruce Woodcock, in four rounds a year ago this month.

Brooklyn (Fort Hamilton) — Vic Cardell, 147½, Hartford, outpointed Johnny Lombardo, 150, Mt. Carmel, Pa., 8.

Charlottetown, N. S. — Harry Poulton, 144, Charlottetown, stopped Howard Leslie, 144, St. John, N. B., 6.

Holmes New Braves Manager

Chicago, June 20 (AP)—Tommy Holmes, lacking even half a season of minor league managerial seasoning, today took the helm of the Boston Braves abandoned by a four-time National League pennant winner nearly twice his age.

The 33-year-old Holmes, former Braves' batting hero, was due to arrive in Chicago today. He was to direct Boston against the Chicago Cubs in the third game of a four game series, only a few hours after Billy Southworth left for home after resigning his reported $50,000-a-year job yesterday. Southworth, 58, had a five-year contract which extended through 1952.

Holmes, Brooklyn-born Irishman who owns a batch of Braves' batting record, never directed a professional club until he took over the Boston-owned Hartford team in the Class A Eastern League this spring.

General Manager John Quinn of the Braves said the club reluctantly accepted the resignation of Southworth, who last Sunday told owner Lou Perini and Quinn he felt "some one else could do a better job."

Southworth broke down when Boston sports writers said goodbye to him at a press conference yesterday.

Billy, who won three straight pennants for the St. Louis Cardinals from 1942 through 1944 and in 1948 gave the Braves their first bunting in 34 years, indicated he is not quitting baseball, but would do no job-shopping until he had rested up a bit.

Holmes had his greatest hitting year with the Braves in 1945 when he led the National League in total hits, doubles, home runs and slugging percentage, and set a loop record of connecting safely in 37 straight games. That same year, he won the National League's most valuable player award.

Radios in India

New Delhi (AP)—India's government-operated radio network must adapt future program plans to 76 regional languages spoken by at least 200,000 people. Information and broadcasting Minister R. R. Diwakar told parliament that the government's All-India Radio now caters to 14 Indian languages, many of their dialects, and English. One million radio sets within two years is the target of government campaigns to spread interest in radio.

Hats Off to 'Weaker Sex'

New Delhi (AP)—A pair of Australian bank clerks who decided to take a year off to see the world by motorcycle say they'll doff their hats any time to the hardy women guides of the Himalayas. Visiting Delhi after a mountain-climbing expedition near Darjeeling, Robert Chambers, 30, and Brian Chaseling, 29, both of Sydney, reported that the women porters of the Sherpa Tribe ran them ragged in the course of a six-day trek.

Mule Creates Stir

Bloomington, Ind. (AP)—A loiterer on the public square turned tail and ran toward the Indiana University campus when police set out to nab him. When they caught him, they tied him outside the jail. Finally Lloyd Grubb appeared and claimed him. It was his mule, Grubb said.

Since they were first minted in 1866, the government has turned out 4,400,000,000 nickels.

THE SCOREBOARD

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Those battling Chicago White Sox are making believers of their opponents—team by team, manager by manager.

Now it's New York and Manager Casel Stengel singing the praises of the spectacular Sox.

"Maybe we've been worrying about the wrong fellers," muttered Stengel after Chicago had clawed its way back to a 5-4 victory in the second game of a vital double header yesterday with the Yankees. The Bombers won the opener, 11-9, and appeared on the way to a sweep of the twin bill. They led, 3-1, after seven innings of the nightcap.

"It looks like we're going to have to beat Chicago, rather than Boston and Cleveland, for the pennant," declared Casey.

The jam-packed throng of 60,441, eager for a good look at Pilot Paul Richards' rockets, agreed with Stengel. The fans went away convinced that the Sox were no accidents.

Seven Hurlers Work

In the first game, seven pitchers took part, four for the winning Yankees. They surrendered a total of 27 hits, 15 by the Yankees including three-run homers by Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle.

Boston's third place Red Sox advanced to within five games of the top as Chuck Stobbs limited the Cleveland Indians to four hits and beat them, 9-2. Ted Williams paced a 14-hit attack against loser Bob Lemon and two successors with his 14th homer and two singles. Luke Easter accounted for both Cleveland runs with a homer in the ninth.

Homers by Eddie Joost and Gus Zernial helped the Philadelphia Athletics trip the Detroit Tigers, 9-5.

The St. Louis Browns combined seven safeties and five Washington errors for enough runs to whip the Senators 4-1.

The Cincinnati Reds rallied for four runs in the ninth but fell one short as the Brooklyn Dodgers walked off with a 5-4 triumph under the lights.

New York's Giants remained five and a half games behind, eking out a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in a game limited to eight innings by rain. Hank Thompson drove in both New York runs.

Willie Jones hit his 12th and 13th homers, one with the bases loaded to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9-2 triumph over Pittsburgh.

Bob Rush hurled a 3-0 victory for Chicago over Boston as the Braves' manager, Billy Southworth, bowed out in favor of Tommy Holmes.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting—Willie Jones, Phillies—slammed two home runs, one with the bases loaded and drove in six runs to lead Phillies to a 9-2 victory over the Pirates.

Pitching—Larry Jansen, Giants—bested Cliff Chambers in a pitching duel as Giants nipped Cards, 2-1, for New York's seventh victory in eight decisions on the road.

U. S. Coin Production

Since the federal mint was established 158 years ago, the government has produced approximately 31,600,000,000 coins of all types.

AT TOP—At the top of the backswing, Lloyd Mangrum's two iron is perfectly horizontal across the top of his head. (NEA)

Thirteenth of a series by members of the P.G.A.
By LLOYD MANGRUM
Former U.S. Open Champion

Playing a two iron, the player should remember that he is striving for distance, and the club he is using has been constructed to aid him in every way.

The two iron is one of the nearest things to a wood in its class. The shaft is long so a maximum amount of power can be generated. The face of the club is almost vertical so that distance rather than altitude will be achieved.

I utilize the same grip that I employ when hitting a wood. My left hand is the one that is really holding the club. My right is held rather lightly on the club, is used more as a steadying influence.

Assuming my stance, the weight is evenly divided on the feet. My right shoulder is slightly lower than my left.

Addressing the ball, I bend slightly from the waist. Here is the first basic difference in the form used for hitting a long iron as compared with one used for hitting a wood. This is made necessary by the difference in the length of the clubs. My knees are slightly bent to aid in adjusting my height to the length of the club.

Up to the start of the backswing, my left arm is still straight, but my right arm is bent slightly at the elbow. The major portion of my weight has now been transferred to my right leg, the left being relaxed and bent slightly forward and to the right. It is now my left shoulder that is low, the right having been automatically raised higher as the club head ascended.

I start generating power at the top of the backswing. My wrists are completely cocked. My left arm is pointing upward at about a 350-degree angle with just a slight bend at the elbow. The club is perfectly horizontal across the top of my head.

I hesitate slightly before starting the downward stroke. My weight is now resting almost entirely on my right leg. The left is still relaxed, bent visibly at the knee, and has moved decidely to the right.

At the start of the follow through, my weight has shifted so that a major portion of it is resting mainly on my left leg, but equalized balanced is maintained. My right shoulder has dropped, thereby enabling my right arm to be almost straight, only a slight bend being visible at the elbow.

At three-fourths of the follow through, the weight distribution on my left leg is more pronounced. The right leg is still relaxed. My legs are almost the exact reverse of what they were at the top of the backswing.

The clubhead has now been elevated higher into the air, following a natural pendulum path and forming a perfect arc.

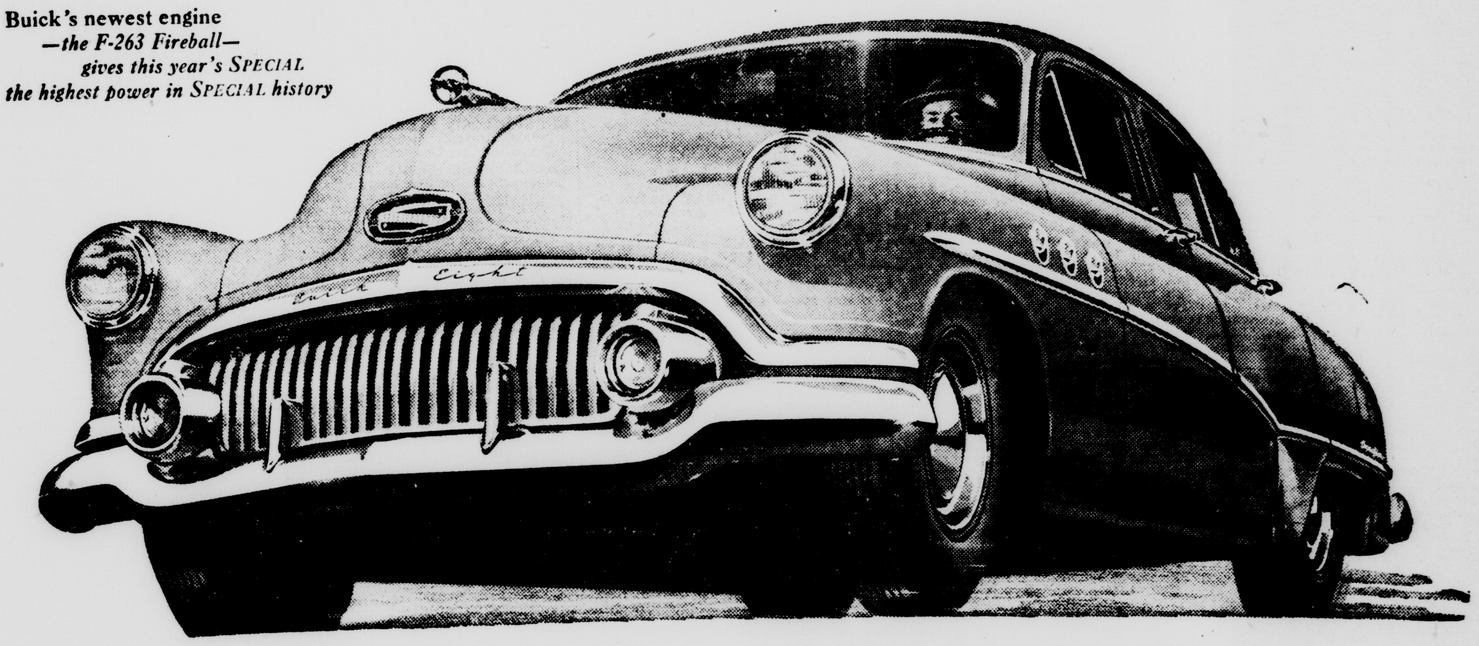
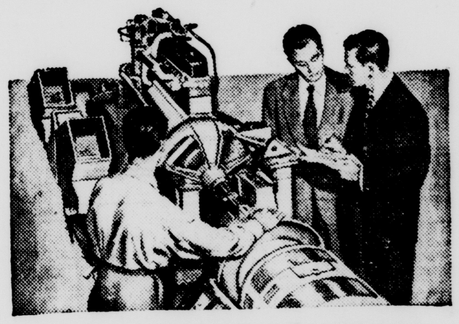
Dublin (AP) — Although Ireland once had a reputation as a land of romantic lovers, statistics show that the marriage rate is far below most European countries. Officials are hoping that this year's census will show that marriage is staging a comeback. The 1946 census showed that only two out of five Irishmen between 30 and 34 years old were married—the lowest proportion in the world.

In the early days of the industry, public telephones were contained within a box which was opened by the insertion of a coin.

Buick's newest engine
—the F-263 Fireball—
gives this year's SPECIAL
the highest power in SPECIAL history



Remember-only BUICK has a FIREBALL ENGINE



When you come to check the field you'll find that there's a sweet freedom from roughness to this engine's operation—tracing to the fact that the whole mechanism itself is engineered smooth, and the further fact that every Fireball Engine gets a Micropoise balancing after assembly.

* * * *

We get a chuckle, sometimes, over all the fuss that's being made about "new engines."

You'll note that the key feature of their design in every case is the valve-in-head principle—whether these engines are already in production or still in the dream stage.

Fact is, it takes this design to get the most from "high compression"—and how high you can go depends upon the available fuel. Using this design, wartime aircraft engines operated on 100 octane gasoline.

It also takes this design to get the more-miles-per-gallon which folks like in an automobile.

So what gives us a chuckle is this:

No other type of engine has ever been used in a Buick—which means that Buick owners, all along, have been getting a lot of things that others have just "discovered."

But that's not all. They get something more—vastly more—because today's Fireball Engine has one standout feature found in no other automobile.

That name "Fireball" isn't just a trick word. It describes what happens in this engine. Inrushing fuel rolls into a swirling ball of gasoline vapor compacted around the spark plug. And when the fat spark sets it off, a cyclone of power lets go.

Of course, a Fireball Engine, being a valve-in-head, keeps pace with high-test fuel, when it comes to "high compression."

But what's more important in the present state of the world is this: A Fireball Engine is designed to handle the not-so-high-test fuel we may be getting in the not-too-distant future.

So, if you want to sample all that's fine in motorcar engines, your Buick dealer is the man to see. Come in soon, and find out what the rest of the world has been missing.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

Holmes New Braves Manager

Chicago, June 20 (AP)—Tommy Holmes, lacking even half a season of minor league managerial seasoning, today took the helm of the Boston Braves abandoned by a four-time National League pennant winner nearly twice his age.

The 33-year-old Holmes, former Braves' batting hero, was due to arrive in Chicago today. He was to direct Boston against the Chicago Cubs in the third game of a four game series, only a few hours after Billy Southworth left for home after resigning his reported $50,000-a-year job yesterday. Southworth, 58, had a five-year contract which extended through 1952.

Holmes, Brooklyn-born Irishman who owns a batch of Braves' batting record, never directed a professional club until he took over the Boston-owned Hartford team in the Class A Eastern League this spring.

General Manager John Quinn of the Braves said the club reluctantly accepted the resignation of Southworth, who last Sunday told owner Lou Perini and Quinn he felt "some one else could do a better job."

Southworth broke down when Boston sports writers said goodbye to him at a press conference yesterday.

Billy, who won three straight pennants for the St. Louis Cardinals from 1942 through 1944 and in 1948 gave the Braves their first bunting in 34 years, indicated he is not quitting baseball, but would do no job-shopping until he had rested up a bit.

Holmes had his greatest hitting year with the Braves in 1945 when he led the National League in total hits, doubles, home runs and slugging percentage, and set a loop record of connecting safely in 37 straight games. That same year, he won the National League's most valuable player award.

Radios in India

New Delhi (AP)—India's government-operated radio network must adapt future program plans to 76 regional languages spoken by at least 200,000 people. Information and broadcasting Minister R. R. Diwakar told parliament that the government's All-India Radio now caters to 14 Indian languages, many of their dialects, and English. One million radio sets within two years is the target of government campaigns to spread interest in radio.

Hats Off to 'Weaker Sex'

New Delhi (AP)—A pair of Australian bank clerks who decided to take a year off to see the world by motorcycle say they'll doff their hats any time to the hardy women guides of the Himalayas. Visiting Delhi after a mountain-climbing expedition near Darjeeling, Robert Chambers, 30, and Brian Chaseling, 29, both of Sydney, reported that the women porters of the Sherpa Tribe ran them ragged in the course of a six-day trek.

Mule Creates Stir

Bloomington, Ind. (AP)—A loiterer on the public square turned tail and ran toward the Indiana University campus when police set out to nab him. When they caught him, they tied him outside the jail. Finally Lloyd Grubb appeared and claimed him. It was his mule, Grubb said.

Since they were first minted in 1866, the government has turned out 4,400,000,000 nickels.

The Scoreboard

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Those battling Chicago White Sox are making believers of their opponents—team by team, manager by manager.

Now it's New York and Manager Casel Stengel singing the praises of the spectacular Sox.

"Maybe we've been worrying about the wrong fellers," muttered Stengel after Chicago had clawed its way back to a 5-4 victory in the second game of a vital double header yesterday with the Yankees. The Bombers won the opener, 11-9, and appeared on the way to a sweep of the twin bill. They led, 3-1, after seven innings of the nightcap.

"It looks like we're going to have to beat Chicago, rather than Boston and Cleveland, for the pennant," declared Casey.

The jam-packed throng of 60,441, eager for a good look at Pilot Paul Richards' rockets, agreed with Stengel. The fans went away convinced that the Sox were no accidents.

Seven Hurlers Work

In the first game, seven pitchers took part, four for the winning Yankees. They surrendered a total of 27 hits, 15 by the Yankees including three-run homers by Yogi Berra and Mickey Mantle.

Boston's third place Red Sox advanced to within five games of the top as Chuck Stobbs limited the Cleveland Indians to four hits and beat them, 9-2. Ted Williams paced a 14-hit attack against loser Bob Lemon and two successors with his 14th homer and two singles. Luke Easter accounted for both Cleveland runs with a homer in the ninth.

Homers by Eddie Joost and Gus Zernial helped the Philadelphia Athletics trip the Detroit Tigers, 9-5.

The St. Louis Browns combined seven safeties and five Washington errors for enough runs to whip the Senators 4-1.

The Cincinnati Reds rallied for four runs in the ninth but fell one short as the Brooklyn Dodgers walked off with a 5-4 triumph under the lights.

New York's Giants remained five and a half games behind, eking out a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in a game limited to eight innings by rain. Hank Thompson drove in both New York runs.

Willie Jones hit his 12th and 13th homers, one with the bases loaded to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9-2 triumph over Pittsburgh.

Bob Rush hurled a 3-0 victory for Chicago over Boston as the Braves' manager, Billy Southworth, bowed out in favor of Tommy Holmes.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting—Willie Jones, Phillies—slammed two home runs, one with the bases loaded and drove in six runs to lead Phillies to a 9-2 victory over the Pirates.

Pitching—Larry Jansen, Giants—bested Cliff Chambers in a pitching duel as Giants nipped Cards, 2-1, for New York's seventh victory in eight decisions on the road.

U. S. Coin Production

Since the federal mint was established 158 years ago, the government has produced approximately 31,600,000,000 coins of all types.

AT TOP—At the top of the backswing, Lloyd Mangrum's two iron is perfectly horizontal across the top of his head. (NEA)

Thirteenth of a series by members of the P.G.A.
By LLOYD MANGRUM
Former U.S. Open Champion

Playing a two iron, the player should remember that he is striving for distance, and the club he is using has been constructed to aid him in every way.

The two iron is one of the nearest things to a wood in its class. The shaft is long so a maximum amount of power can be generated. The face of the club is almost vertical so that distance rather than altitude will be achieved.

I utilize the same grip that I employ when hitting a wood. My left hand is the one that is really holding the club. My right is held rather lightly on the club, is used more as a steadying influence.

Assuming my stance, the weight is evenly divided on the feet. My right shoulder is slightly lower than my left.

Addressing the ball, I bend slightly from the waist. Here is the first basic difference in the form used for hitting a long iron as compared with one used for hitting a wood. This is made necessary by the difference in the length of the clubs. My knees are slightly bent to aid in adjusting my height to the length of the club.

Up to the start of the backswing, my left arm is still straight, but my right arm is bent slightly at the elbow. The major portion of my weight has now been transferred to my right leg, the left being relaxed and bent slightly forward and to the right. It is now my left shoulder that is low, the right having been automatically raised higher as the club head ascended.

I start generating power at the top of the backswing. My wrists are completely cocked. My left arm is pointing upward at about a 350-degree angle with just a slight bend at the elbow. The club is perfectly horizontal across the top of my head.

I hesitate slightly before starting the downward stroke. My weight is now resting almost entirely on my right leg. The left is still relaxed, bent visibly at the knee, and has moved decidely to the right.

At the start of the follow through, my weight has shifted so that a major portion of it is resting mainly on my left leg, but equalized balanced is maintained. My right shoulder has dropped, thereby enabling my right arm to be almost straight, only a slight bend being visible at the elbow.

At three-fourths of the follow through, the weight distribution on my left leg is more pronounced. The right leg is still relaxed. My legs are almost the exact reverse of what they were at the top of the backswing.

The clubhead has now been elevated higher into the air, following a natural pendulum path and forming a perfect arc.

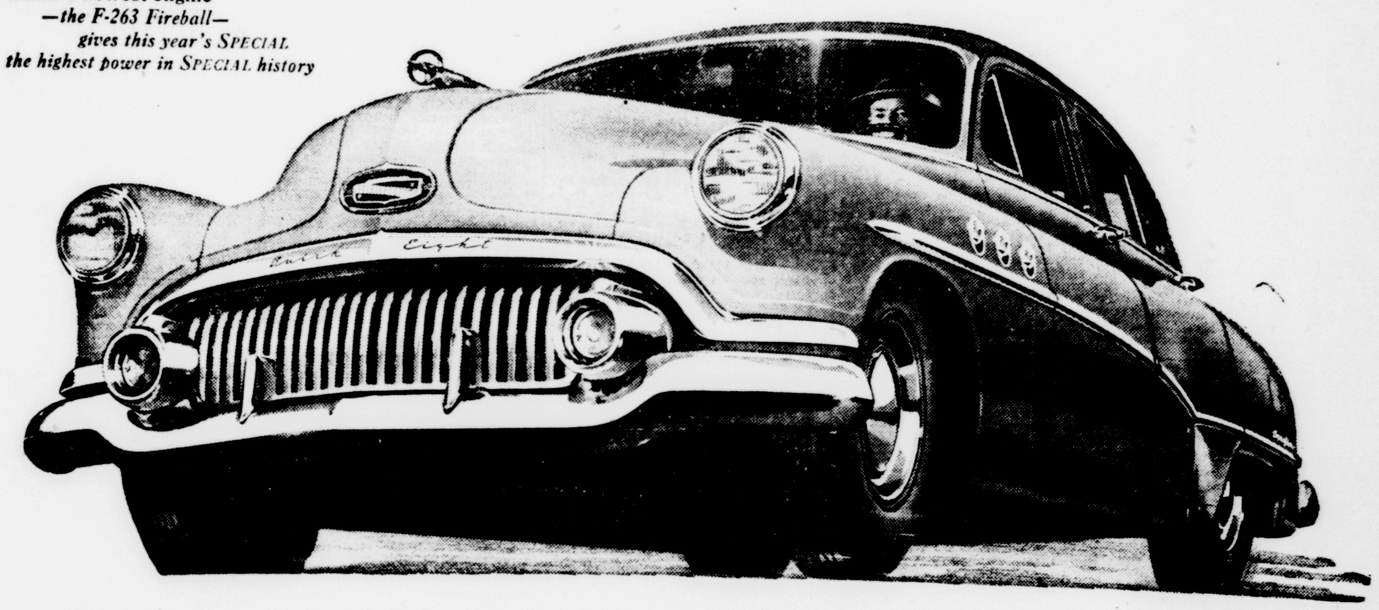
Like Bachelor Life

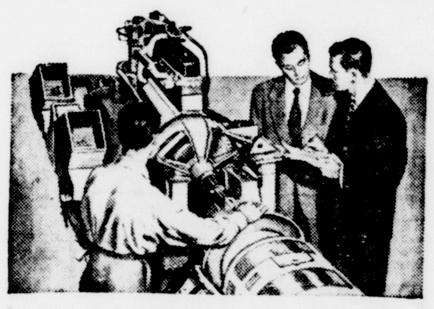
Dublin (AP) — Although Ireland once had a reputation as a land of romantic lovers, statistics show that the marriage rate is far below most European countries. Officials are hoping that this year's census will show that marriage is staging a comeback. The 1946 census showed that only two out of five Irishmen between 30 and 34 years old were married—the lowest proportion in the world.

In the early days of the industry, public telephones were contained within a box which was opened by the insertion of a coin.

Buick's newest engine
—the F-263 Fireball—
gives this year's SPECIAL
the highest power in SPECIAL history



Remember-only BUICK has a FIREBALL ENGINE



When you come to check the field you'll find that there's a sweet freedom from roughness to this engine's operation—tracing to the fact that the whole mechanism itself is engineered smooth, and the further fact that every Fireball Engine gets a Micropoise balancing after assembly.

We get a chuckle, sometimes, over all the fuss that's being made about "new engines."

You'll note that the key feature of their design in every case is the valve-in-head principle—whether these engines are already in production or still in the dream stage.

Fact is, it takes this design to get the most from "high compression"—and how high you can go depends upon the available fuel. Using this design, wartime aircraft engines operated on 100 octane gasoline.

It also takes this design to get the more-miles-per-gallon which folks like in an automobile.

So what gives us a chuckle is this:

No other type of engine has ever been used in a Buick—which means that Buick owners, all along, have been getting a lot of things that others have just "discovered."

But that's not all. They get something more—vastly more—because today's Fireball Engine has one standout feature found in no other automobile.

That name "Fireball" isn't just a trick word. It describes what happens in this engine. Inrushing fuel rolls into a swirling ball of gasoline vapor compacted around the spark plug. And when the fat spark sets it off, a cyclone of power lets go.

Of course, a Fireball Engine, being a valve-in-head, keeps pace with high-test fuel, when it comes to "high compression."

But what's more important in the present state of the world is this: A Fireball Engine is designed to handle the not-so-high-test fuel we may be getting in the not-too-distant future.

So, if you want to sample all that's fine in motorcar engines, your Buick dealer is the man to see. Come in soon, and find out what the rest of the world has been missing.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

Morrison Orders

British-Iranian talks on a possible settlement broke down last night.

Won't Carry Out Orders

The communique said that any orders of the Anglo-Iranian board of directors and its general manager would not be carried out unless countersigned by the temporary board of directors of Iran's National Oil Company.

The next step is now up to AIOC. Iranians apparently expect former AIOC employes and executives to continue to work under the direction of the government's oil company.

Hussein Maki, Nationalist firebrand and right hand of Mossadegh, had voiced the threats to shut off the flow of oil at Abadan —an act that would deprive western Europe of its chief source of supply. But the statement of Deputy Premier Fatimi ruled out such action. There had been fears that fires and explosion might follow the closing of the valves.

Civil War Inflation

The Civil War was followed by inflation. Still steak only cost 15 cents a pound; ham, 18 cents; a dozen eggs, 22 cents, and a quart of milk, 8 cents.

In connection with the first century observance of the local banking institution, Harold S. Brigham, a trustee, has compiled a booklet of recorded events which is dedicated to the faithful allegiance of all officers, trustees, employes, depositors, business associates and friends.

President's Message

The booklet carries the following message from President Pratt Boice:

This booklet is presented to you, the depositors, past and present and future, to express to your our deep and sincere congratulations upon your fine success, during the past one hundred years, in making your Ulster County Savings Institution what it is now at the end of its first century.

On this one hundredth anniversary we salute you, the depositors, because you alone own this mutual savings bank and all its assets; your money is the lifeblood and mainspring of the bank's operation; your faith and allegiance have sustained the bank through all the years, and have made possible this celebration of the achievements of your bank up to this notable time.

These one hundred years have not always brought smooth sailing and easy success; some of them have been hard years, both within and without this Institution, as noted in more detail in an anniversary book from which this booklet is abridged. But you, nearly ten thousand depositors, have faithfully stood by your bank through good times and bad, and your reward is now the proud record of the years.

Therefore we who serve you in management and operation, offer to you our hearty one hundredth anniversary congratulations. May you have many happy returns in service, dividends and continued growth in the years to come.

We also equally include in our appreciation and congratulation all business associates and friends whose invaluable cooperation has contributed in very large measure to the success of these first one hundred years of the Ulster County Savings Institution.

There is also a picture of Severyn Bruyn, the first depositor. Mr. Bruyn made this first deposit of the bank on June 19, 1851, and thus actual business operation started on that date which has been chosen as the date for observing the anniversary 100 years later.

Computation shows that if this deposit of $120 had been left untouched until the payment of the 255th dividend on January 1, 1951, it then would have grown to $4,478.40.

Chronology

The anniversary also lists some historic events leading up to and surrounding the early years of the Ulster County Savings Institution. The chronology includes such notable occasions as that of October 15, 1609 when the first white man to set foot on what is now Ulster county was Henry Hudson when he paddled to shore from the Half Moon lying off Kingston Point; the organization of the Old First Dutch Church in 1659; the inauguration in 1777 of George Clinton at Kingston as the first governor of New York State; the incorporation of the Village of Kingston in 1805; the opening of the Delaware and Hudson Canal in 1828; the incorporation of the village of Rondout in 1849; the incorporation of the City of Kingston in 1872.

First Minute Books

The five large minute books of the Board of Trustees have been carefully kept and preserved tthroughout the past century, the earlier ones being well written in very legible longhand and using the dignified phraseology of the time. No mention is made of the Civil War, but it is there between the lines recording numerous purchases of government bonds during that period. The minutes of the very first two meetings from Minute Book No. 1 are given in the booklet as complete as recorded.

Officers and Trustees

Throughout the first half century of Ulster County Savings Institution there have been 10 presidents, 13 first vice-presidents, 17 second vice-presidents, seven treasurers, six attorneys and 105 trustees. Of the trustees the longest tenure of office is that of Henry R. Brigham, who served for 45½ years.

Of the same vintage, Pa and Paw are equally rare today, but Pop is still in good standing. Says 2-Way Radio Survey Planned For County Vols

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, of this city, told members of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association at Glasco last night that a survey will be made soon to determine the feasibility of a two-way radio system for county volunteer fire companies.

The chief reported as a member of the association's committee appointed to determine the outcome of a request to the Board of Supervisors for the survey. The board's committee expects to act soon with radio specialists, the chief said.

The radio system, if approved, would provide two-way communication between fire apparatus and a control center. The requirements and location of such a center and other needs will be determined in the survey.

The firemen were guests of the Mulford Engine Company at Glasco where they heard that plans are advancing for the annual convention to be held at Woodstock July 27 and 28. The business session will be held at the new Woodstock school auditorium on the first day and the parade will be held in the village on the second day.

abroad which if successful will destroy the American system of liberty." He added:

"We should quit the policy of appeasement and present again a positive foreign policy based upon the principles of individual liberty, self-government, regulated free enterprise and justice."

Prior to today's session, Senatory Byrd (D.-Va.) said he didn't think MacArthur was kept sufficiently informed of policy decisions before he was relieved of his Pacific command.

Visibility Is Blamed

Poor visibility and a sudden change in wind direction at the Kingston-Ulster Airport Sunday afternoon was responsible for a minor accident when a plane inbound from Catskill overshot the landing strip and was damaged. The pilot was uninjured, according to a report from the field. The accident happened when a sudden storm blew up and the pilot attempted to land. A quick change in the wind as the plane was about to touch down caused the plane to increase its speed, overshoot the runway and crashed. State police reported the accident as "more in the nature of a forced landing" and said the matter had been reported to the CAA.

Series of Hurley TheftsUnderProbe

An epidemic of thefts in Hurley is under investigation by the sheriff's office. County Investigator Leonard Belmore and Deputy Sheriff Carl Cline are investigating the theft of a valuable antique piece which was stolen June 12 and the subsequent theft of two potted plants, a canvas porch chair and 50 feet of garden hose. All of the articles were taken from the same neighborhood in the village.

On June 12 William Gaffken reported a valuable antique piece stolen from the porch. It is a Negro boy seated on a chair. The lad wears a yellow vest and red pants. Anyone who may have seen this piece or know of its whereabouts since June 12, is asked to communicate with the sheriff's office and such communication will be kept in strict confidence.

Taken last Saturday night from the same locality in the village were two large potted snake plants, three canvas porch chairs and 50 feet of green garden hose. Efforts to dispose of these articles should be communicated to the sheriff's office.

Morrison Orders

Won't Carry Out Orders

The communique said that any orders of the Anglo-Iranian board of directors and its general manager would not be carried out unless countersigned by the temporary board of directors of Iran's National Oil Company.

The next step is now up to AIOC. Iranians apparently expect former AIOC employes and executives to continue to work under the direction of the government's oil company.

Hussein Maki, Nationalist firebrand and right hand of Mossadegh, had voiced the threats to shut off the flow of oil at Abadan —an act that would deprive western Europe of its chief source of supply. But the statement of Deputy Premier Fatimi ruled out such action. There had been fears that fires and explosion might follow the closing of the valves.

Civil War Inflation

The Civil War was followed by inflation. Still steak only cost 15 cents a pound; ham, 18 cents; a dozen eggs, 22 cents, and a quart of milk, 8 cents.

In connection with the first century observance of the local banking institution, Harold S. Brigham, a trustee, has compiled a booklet of recorded events which is dedicated to the faithful allegiance of all officers, trustees, employes, depositors, business associates and friends.

President's Message

The booklet carries the following message from President Pratt Boice:

This booklet is presented to you, the depositors, past and present and future, to express to your our deep and sincere congratulations upon your fine success, during the past one hundred years, in making your Ulster County Savings Institution what it is now at the end of its first century.

On this one hundredth anniversary we salute you, the depositors, because you alone own this mutual savings bank and all its assets; your money is the lifeblood and mainspring of the bank's operation; your faith and allegiance have sustained the bank through all the years, and have made possible this celebration of the achievements of your bank up to this notable time.

These one hundred years have not always brought smooth sailing and easy success; some of them have been hard years, both within and without this Institution, as noted in more detail in an anniversary book from which this booklet is abridged. But you, nearly ten thousand depositors, have faithfully stood by your bank through good times and bad, and your reward is now the proud record of the years.

Therefore we who serve you in management and operation, offer to you our hearty one hundredth anniversary congratulations. May you have many happy returns in service, dividends and continued growth in the years to come.

We also equally include in our appreciation and congratulation all business associates and friends whose invaluable cooperation has contributed in very large measure to the success of these first one hundred years of the Ulster County Savings Institution.

There is also a picture of Severyn Bruyn, the first depositor. Mr. Bruyn made this first deposit of the bank on June 19, 1851, and thus actual business operation started on that date which has been chosen as the date for observing the anniversary 100 years later.

Computation shows that if this deposit of $120 had been left untouched until the payment of the 255th dividend on January 1, 1951, it then would have grown to $4,478.40.

Chronology

The anniversary also lists some historic events leading up to and surrounding the early years of the Ulster County Savings Institution. The chronology includes such notable occasions as that of October 15, 1609 when the first white man to set foot on what is now Ulster county was Henry Hudson when he paddled to shore from the Half Moon lying off Kingston Point; the organization of the Old First Dutch Church in 1659; the inauguration in 1777 of George Clinton at Kingston as the first governor of New York State; the incorporation of the Village of Kingston in 1805; the opening of the Delaware and Hudson Canal in 1828; the incorporation of the village of Rondout in 1849; the incorporation of the City of Kingston in 1872.

First Minute Books

The five large minute books of the Board of Trustees have been carefully kept and preserved tthroughout the past century, the earlier ones being well written in very legible longhand and using the dignified phraseology of the time. No mention is made of the Civil War, but it is there between the lines recording numerous purchases of government bonds during that period. The minutes of the very first two meetings from Minute Book No. 1 are given in the booklet as complete as recorded.

Officers and Trustees

Throughout the first half century of Ulster County Savings Institution there have been 10 presidents, 13 first vice-presidents, 17 second vice-presidents, seven treasurers, six attorneys and 105 trustees. Of the trustees the longest tenure of office is that of Henry R. Brigham, who served for 45½ years.

Pop Holds On

Kansas City, Mo. (AP) — Papa, the name most youngsters called their fathers 30 years ago, has all but disappeared from American usage. Of the same vintage, Pa and Paw are equally rare today, but Pop is still in good standing. The only familiar names for father in use on Father's Day cards today are Dad, Daddy and Pop, said the Hallmark Co. Mamma, Ma and Maw are only memories, too, the company states.

Says 2-Way Radio Survey Planned For County Vols

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, of this city, told members of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association at Glasco last night that a survey will be made soon to determine the feasibility of a two-way radio system for county volunteer fire companies.

The chief reported as a member of the association's committee appointed to determine the outcome of a request to the Board of Supervisors for the survey. The board's committee expects to act soon with radio specialists, the chief said.

The radio system, if approved, would provide two-way communication between fire apparatus and a control center. The requirements and location of such a center and other needs will be determined in the survey.

The firemen were guests of the Mulford Engine Company at Glasco where they heard that plans are advancing for the annual convention to be held at Woodstock July 27 and 28. The business session will be held at the new Woodstock school auditorium on the first day and the parade will be held in the village on the second day.

abroad which if successful will destroy the American system of liberty." He added:

"We should quit the policy of appeasement and present again a positive foreign policy based upon the principles of individual liberty, self-government, regulated free enterprise and justice."

Prior to today's session, Senatory Byrd (D.-Va.) said he didn't think MacArthur was kept sufficiently informed of policy decisions before he was relieved of his Pacific command.

Visibility Is Blamed

Poor visibility and a sudden change in wind direction at the Kingston-Ulster Airport Sunday afternoon was responsible for a minor accident when a plane inbound from Catskill overshot the landing strip and was damaged. The pilot was uninjured, according to a report from the field. The accident happened when a sudden storm blew up and the pilot attempted to land. A quick change in the wind as the plane was about to touch down caused the plane to increase its speed, overshoot the runway and crashed. State police reported the accident as "more in the nature of a forced landing" and said the matter had been reported to the CAA.

Series of Hurley TheftsUnderProbe

An epidemic of thefts in Hurley is under investigation by the sheriff's office. County Investigator Leonard Belmore and Deputy Sheriff Carl Cline are investigating the theft of a valuable antique piece which was stolen June 12 and the subsequent theft of two potted plants, a canvas porch chair and 50 feet of garden hose. All of the articles were taken from the same neighborhood in the village.

On June 12 William Gaffken reported a valuable antique piece stolen from the porch. It is a Negro boy seated on a chair. The lad wears a yellow vest and red pants. Anyone who may have seen this piece or know of its whereabouts since June 12, is asked to communicate with the sheriff's office and such communication will be kept in strict confidence.

Taken last Saturday night from the same locality in the village were two large potted snake plants, three canvas porch chairs and 50 feet of green garden hose. Efforts to dispose of these articles should be communicated to the sheriff's office.

X-Rayed Milk Is Described to Food Group at Meeting

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Editor)

New York, June 20 (AP)—Milk that stays fresh for a month after being X-rayed was described to the Institute of Food Technologists today. To remain fresh that long it has to be kept in ordinary refrigeration.

The X-rays substituted for pasteurization and lasted much longer. This was reported by a Columbia University research group headed by Drs. Elmer L. Gaden, Jr., Ernest J. Henley and Vincent P. Collins.

They used two-million volt X-rays. These, they said, are nearly as powerful as the gamma rays from an atomic reactor. The milk itself, however, did not become radioactive. It lost no vitamins or other valuable qualities. The rays merely killed germs and also inactivated or stopped the enzymes which cause milk to spoil when it stands for a long time.

X-rays are the same as gamma rays of atomic energy.

All the radioactive rays, whether X, gamma or other kinds, are becoming more plentiful. They are not yet cheap, but soon will be.

Another use of atomic energy to sterilize food and drugs, without heat, was reported by Drs. Bernard E. Proctor and Samuel A. Goldblith, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

They used beta rays, which are merely streams of electrons. They found these rays efficient, safe and practical. Vitamins were not harmed in food or drugs, they reported.

Officials to Tour Reservoir Facilities as Defense Item

New York, June 20 (AP)—Defense needs for the municipal water system will be studied in an extensive three-day tour of inspection this week by city and military officials, it was reported yesterday at the office of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

The group of 16 will be headed by Arthur W. Wallander, director of civil defense for the city, and Dominick F. Paduano, commissioner of the water department.

Military representatives will include Capt. William F. Gerhard and Capt. Edward F. Munson, of the Facilities Security Division of the First Army Headquarters.

The tour will start tomorrow with the first visit made at the Hillview Reservoir in Yonkers.

Traveling approximately 400 miles, the group in three automobiles will make 35 inspection stops at reservoirs, gatehouses and aqueducts. They will stop at the completed emergency Hudson river pumping station at Chelsea, N. Y., and three dam sites under construction for the Delaware supply system.

Paduano said the tour was planned principally for purposes of defense for the vital points in the areas of the water supply. Included will be selection of post sites for the new guard force which will go on duty July 1 and a field survey of the terrain in preparation for the microwave communications system planned for the watershed areas.

The guard force of 142 men and eight sergeants is being recruited by Edward Matera, formerly of the U. S. Treasury Department Narcotics Division, who was designated by the commissioner as captain of the force. The captain as well as Lewis Lasker, director of civil defense for the water department, and Deputy Chief Engineer Frank X. Elder will accompany the group on the tour.

Existing and developing water sources will also be inspected by the water officials, the commissioner said.

The commissioner noted that storage, still dropping, is now only 90.1 per cent of capacity, with 228,155,000,000 gallons, compared with a year ago when the reservoirs were 94.7 per cent filled, with 239,826,000,000 gallons.

He said a small start has been made in utilizing water from the new Rondout Reservoir, which is planned ultimately to hold 50,000,000,000 gallons. Water is being impounded in the reservoir from the Rondout watershed and flood waters which formerly were lost to the city will now be held for the distribution system.

Television Is Used In Hunt for Slayer

Albany, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—New York state police are using television in a manhunt for the first time.

They seek an unidentified truck driver who shot and killed a trooper, Cpl. Arthur M. Diffendale, last Thursday near Oneonta in south-central New York.

A photograph of the stolen truck the killer abandoned will be telecast indefinitely three times a day by Station WRGB, Schenectady, and other stations also will be asked to show it. State police hope someone will recall the driver believed to have been a cattle thief operating in New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Shippers, Seamen

lantic Treaty defense cargoes are moving.

Representatives of the 40 companies in the Atlantic-gulf dispute met here three hours yesterday with federal mediators. Afterwards, Frank J. Taylor, chairman of a committee representing the shippers, told newsmen:

"We will go into the meeting (today) with the idea in mind of making some concessions."

He indicated the operators might consider acceptance of any wage formula the U. S. Wage Stabilization Board might suggest. But he declined to specify whether the owners would consider union demands for a shorter work week at sea.

X-Rayed Milk Is Described to Food Group at Meeting

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Editor)

New York, June 20 (AP)—Milk that stays fresh for a month after being X-rayed was described to the Institute of Food Technologists today. To remain fresh that long it has to be kept in ordinary refrigeration.

The X-rays substituted for pasteurization and lasted much longer. This was reported by a Columbia University research group headed by Drs. Elmer L. Gaden, Jr., Ernest J. Henley and Vincent P. Collins.

They used two-million volt X-rays. These, they said, are nearly as powerful as the gamma rays from an atomic reactor. The milk itself, however, did not become radioactive. It lost no vitamins or other valuable qualities. The rays merely killed germs and also inactivated or stopped the enzymes which cause milk to spoil when it stands for a long time.

X-rays are the same as gamma rays of atomic energy.

All the radioactive rays, whether X, gamma or other kinds, are becoming more plentiful. They are not yet cheap, but soon will be.

Another use of atomic energy to sterilize food and drugs, without heat, was reported by Drs. Bernard E. Proctor and Samuel A. Goldblith, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

They used beta rays, which are merely streams of electrons. They found these rays efficient, safe and practical. Vitamins were not harmed in food or drugs, they reported.

New York, June 20 (AP)—Defense needs for the municipal water system will be studied in an extensive three-day tour of inspection this week by city and military officials, it was reported yesterday at the office of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.
